POEMS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW.

Whatever your occupation may be, and however crowded your hours with affairs, do not fail to secure at least a few minutes every day for refreshment of your inner life with a bit of poetry.—Prof. Charles Eliot Norton.

IO VICTIS.

BY WILLIAM WETMORE STORY.

W. W. Story was born in Salem, Mass., in 1819. He studied law at Harvard, intending to follow in his father's footsteps, but after several years of study he abandoned his occupation and went to Rome, where he made a name for himself as a sculptor. Besides this, he wrote many novels, essays, and poems. Among the poems his "Cleopatra" is perhaps the best known. He died at Vallombrosa, Italy, 1895.

I sing the hymn of the conquered, who fell in the battle of life—
The hymn of the wounded, the beaten, who died overwhelmed in the strife;
Not the jubilant song of the victors, for whom the resounding acclaim
Of nations was lifted in chorus, whose brows wore the chaplet of fame;
But the hymn of the low and the humble, the weary, the broken in heart,
Who strove and who failed, acting bravely a silent and desperate part;
Whose youth bore no flower on its branches, whose hopes burned in ashes away,
From whose hands slipped the prize they had grasped at, who stood at the dying of day
With the wreck of their life all around them, unpitied, unheeded, alone,
With death swooping down o'er their failure, and all but their faith overthrown.
While the voice of the world shouts its chorus—its pean for those who have won;
While the trumpet is sounding triumphant, and high to the breeze and the sun
Glad banners are waving, hands clapping, and hurrying feet
Thronging after the laurel crowned victors, I stand on the field of defeat,
In the shadow, with those who have fallen, and wounded, and dying, and there
Chant a requiem low, place my hand on their pain knotted brows, breathe a prayer,
Hold the hand that is helpless, and whisper, "They only the victory win,
Who have fought the good fight and have vanquished the demon that tempts us within;
Who have held to their faith unseduced by the prize that the world holds on high;
Who have dared for a high cause to suffer, resist, fight—if need be, to die."
Speak, History! who are life's victors? Unroll thy long annals and say,
Are they those whom the world called the victors—who won the success of a day?
The martyrs, or Nero? The Spartans, who fell at Thermopylae's tryst,
Or the Persians and Xerxes? His judges or Socrates? Pilate or Christ?

WASHINGTON:—

President Roosevelt in letter to Atlanta Constitution declared his attitude toward negro appointment will not be influenced by criticism; negroes in office only 1 in 100, while standard of efficiency has been raised; color held no bar to office.

Record of fifty-seventh congress, which expires on Wednesday, unprecedented for times of peace; Panama canal legislation most important; bureau of corporations, publicity, and supervision a long step toward correcting trust evils.

Senate and house held Sunday sessions, dating legislation Feb 26; District of Columbia appropriation bill passed by house and Alaskan homestead vote set for today; eulogies delivered on deceased members.

Favorable report on Fowler currency bill authorized by house committee; government money may be deposited under it with national banks to 75 per cent of their capital, in return for first lien on assets.

LOCAL:—

Abandonment of Illinois and Michigan canal will be demanded of legislature by Senator Rainey; expenses for twenty years have exceeded tolls by $554,668; receipts for 1901, $8,120; expenses, $111,002; is declared a cloak for theft and menace to health.

Seven firemen hurt and $150,000 damage done by blaze in seven story building at 350-352 Wabash avenue; cable and south side "L" tied up and Auditorium and Annex hotels filled with smoke.

Chicago death records for February broken last month; increased longevity indicated by 16.2 per cent increase over 1902 in deaths of persons over 60 years, and decrease of 4.6 of children under 5.

Harassing railroads by compelling trains to stop at all grade crossings urged by Fourth Ward Improvement club to compel track elevation; Father Kelly declared crossing accidents are murders.

President Foreman of Cook county commissioners denounced by city hall element of Chicago Federation of Labor for reducing Sheriff Barrett's employés and failing to cut higher officials' pay.

John H. Gray, professor of political science at Northwestern university, declared in address that labor unions keep economic conditions from being lowered; protection against accidents insufficient in America.

Proposed Oklahoma law to amend game of seven up declared by L. Y. Sherman to prove Oklahoma fitted for statehood; Lieut. Andy Rohan believes law should be uniform; William Mangler considers it bad.

The Rev. R. A. White in sermon declared many evils will be banished if churches will pay their debts and ministers will stop asking exemption from creditors; evil due to misuse of good.

Wilson K. Nixon, said to have erected more buildings in Chicago than any single owner or promoter, died at 118 Cass street, aged 76 years; had lived here forty years.

FOREIGN:—

Pope Leo gave audience to forty-two cardinals against protests of his physician and referred to his approaching death; magnificent antique clock presented to him by head of Bourbon family at Naples.

British government representatives convinced by President Francis of St. Louis exposition that Germany is trying to outstrip them with exhibits; parliament will be asked for large appropriation as a result.

United States will be appealed to by Bolivia to prevent war with Brazil over Acre territory; provisional occupation agreed to by Bolivia, but additional demands for entire possession refused.

Socialist revolution in Holland threatened because of proposed anti-strike legislation; general railroad strike till bills are withdrawn will be declared today.

Gales on English and Irish coasts renewed; British ship Cambrian Prince believed to have foundered; steamer Pharsalia reached Cork badly damaged.

POLITICAL:—

Scarcity of Chicago aldermanic candidates unprecedented; decision of democrats and republicans not to antagonize each other in "sure" wards, and possibility of Harlan nominees is resulting in complications.

Illinois Anti-Saloon league's local option bill will be taken up at Springfield this week; churches and civic societies urging its adoption; liquor dealers declare large revenue would be lost.

Campaign for Chicago republican mayoralty nomination will end at primaries on Friday; Stewart and Harlan both declare they will win; latter accused by Twenty-sixth ward residents of bad faith.

CONGRESS ENDING BUSINESS SESSION

SOME THINGS NOT DONE.

Ship Subsidy Scheme Fails, the Tariff Is Left Untouched, and Reciprocity Is Neglected.

CONGRESS—Fifty-seventh congress, just closing, has proved essentially a business one, and will live in history as a credit to the wise administration of President Roosevelt. Work of the session reviewed.

HOUSE—House spends four hours of Sunday in legislative work, the day still being called Feb. 26.

[BY RAYMOND.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—When one takes the trouble to look up the record of the Fifty-seventh congress, which, by law, passes out of existence next Wednesday, it is found that it has been preëminently a business proposition from the beginning. It has done lots of work, and its record for good, wholesome, unsensational legislation is not often equaled in the piping times of peace.

There have been no wars, nor pestilences, no business panics to require sharp action by congress, so that the work done has been that which legitimately pertains to the legislative branch of the government. Far from being humdrum, however, congress has done many things it could hardly have been expected to have done, and has left undone quite a number of other things which the people were afraid it would do.

The history of the Fifty-seventh congress essentially is the history of the administration of Theodore Roosevelt. It came into being within three months of the day when he took the oath of office. His first message was sent in at the first session of the Fifty-seventh congress, and so it is possible, in looking back for two years, to determine the measure of usefulness not only of congress, but of the executive.

It is surprising to find that, without any great blowing of trumpets, so much has been accomplished in the direction of rendering the first half of the administration of Theodore Roosevelt and the entire period of the Fifty-seventh congress actually memorable in the history of the country.

Just at the present time the people will be inclined to think the record of the present congress on the trust question will be the chief feather in its cap. But on reflection it will readily be seen that the legislation by means of which a canal across the isthmus of Panama has become a possibility is in reality the most farreaching work of this administration. The canal across the isthmust has been discussed for a generation or so. A French company began work at Panama and mere dreamers long ago cut a ditch through Nicaragua. It remained for the Fifty-seventh congress to solve the actual problem, so far as the United States is concerned, and if all goes well boys in knickerbockers today will in early manhood see the cutting of the isthmus and the realization of the dream of a direct route to the Indies which led Columbus on his wild goose chase across the Atlantic.

The Fifty-seventh congress, after its predecessors had disturbed the waters for many years without avail, arranged to buy the rights of the French company, authorized the beginning of the negotiations which have been conducted to a successful issue, and actually provided the money with which to build the entire canal, leaving but little for subsequent congresses except to supervise the work of actual construction.

This congress has undoubtedly made a great step forward in anti-trust legislation. At the opening of the present administration the beef trust was in the center of the stage. Immediately thereafter the great railroad merger attracted public attention, and to cap the climax the coal strike affected the entire country and called renewed attention to the vast power and growing danger of the trusts.

President Roosevelt's opening message was largely devoted to this subject. Congress has made an excellent beginning in answer to his suggestions. It has provided a bureau of corporations, which is given authority to insist on publicity in regard to the operations of all great corporations. Publicity and the supervision of this bureau is, of course, largely experimental, and probably will be added to in the future, but this congress blazed the way in the direction of throwing light upon the methods of the trusts.

It has been understood all along that the Sherman law did well so far as it went. For this reason congress has but recently passed a special act providing for the expedition of suits against the trusts under the existing law. The attorney general has already taken advantage of this much needed amendment and has set the machinery in motion to expedite the suits against the northwestern railroad merger. In addition to this, the Elkins law has been passed, which provides heavy fines for giving or receiving an illegal rebate. This, it is believed, will do much to put an end to discriminating rates on railroads, by means of which many of the worst monopolies in the country, like the coal trust and the Standard Oil company, have been built up.

Well up toward the top of the page which records its history will be found a brief list of the things the Fifty-seventh congress wisely refrained from doing. For instance, it has avoided the passage of the dangerous ship subsidy measure, which had behind it powerful influences and which would have enriched the already rich corporations at the expense of the people. Furthermore, it seemed for a long time as if four desert states would be created and an alien people with a parched soil given full representation in the sisterhood of states. The statehood bill was beaten at the last moment only, and the question is left as a legacy to the next congress, which probably will admit only two states out of the entire territory.

There was considerable temptation for this congress to meddle with the tariff. Vociferous demands were made in certain sections, but the wisest men in the party believed that the time had not yet come. Although convinced that moderate revision is necessary for the near future, they prevented action at the present time, and thus possibly avoided what might have been a serious disturbance of business conditions. This subject, too, has

HOTEL GUESTS FLEE FIRE.

SMALL HOUSES VACATED AND TERROR CAUSED IN ANNEX.

Blaze in Building at 350-352 Wabash Avenue Fills Neighborhood with Smoke, Blocks Cable Cars, and Injures Seven Firemen—Grand Eastern and Other Hostelries Abandoned Temporarily—Standpipe Upset at Michigan Avenue, Near Madison.

With clouds of smoke blinding them, firemen fought for three hours last evening before they succeeded in controlling a fire in the seven story building at 350 and 352 Wabash avenue. Seven firemen were injured, and several persons were overcome by smoke. Transportation on the south side cable lines and on the South Side Elevated road was stopped for hours. The Auditorium and Auditorium Annex hotels were filled with dense smoke, and many dinner parties were brought to a sudden end.

Guests of the Grand Eastern hotel and the O. K. hotel owned by P. P. Penovich, south of the fire, were ordered out by direction of Chief Musham, who feared the danger of falling walls.

Spectators in a concert hall south of the burning building were alarmed by the smoke and made a rush for the street. Two women fainted in the crush and were carried out.

The building, which was owned by Swan & Smith of San Francisco, Cal., was practically destroyed. It was occupied by O. B. Brown, wholesale furniture; Oliver Bros., brass and iron bedsteads; and other firms. The building to the north was damaged, chiefly by smoke and water. The total loss is estimated at $170,000.

The Injured.

Ball, William, of engine company No. 3; injured by an explosion of gasoline on the third floor; taken to the Samaritan hospital; not serious.

Carrell, Charles, truck company No. 2; struck on the head by falling brick and thrown off ladder; not serious.

Campion, Frank, of truck company No. 7; burned on face and hands; not serious.

Fay, Marie; injured in rush in "palm garden."

Fitzgerald, Mrs. John; overcome by smoke in the Grand Eastern hotel; carried out by police.

Hurley, Mike, member of engine company No. 10; struck on head by falling glass; not serious.

Knapp, William, member of engine company 17, fell from ladder; not serious.

Mallory, Louis, engine company 2, struck on head by falling brick and thrown from ladder.

Morre, Rose, overcome by smoke in Grand Eastern hotel; carried out; not serious.

Staley, Bertram, 18 South Western avenue, struck by falling glass; went home unassisted.

Staenbrook, Peter, 826 Racine avenue, thrown from standpipe wagon in collision with cable car at Michigan avenue and Madison street; not serious.

Probably Smoldering All Day.

It is thought that the fire had been smoldering all day. At 7 o'clock in the evening Mrs. Rebecca Crew, the aged mother of Mrs. Penovich, was standing at a window which faces the north and saw the fire in the fifth floor in the rear. An attempt to use the telephone showed that the wires had been put out of service by the fire. A messenger was hurried to the drug store of A. M. Levi, at the corner of Wabash avenue and Harrison street, who notified the department. Soon after an alarm was sent in from the box at Harrison and State streets.

As soon as Marshal Campion reached the scene he drove to the fire alarm box and sounded a 4-11 call. This was followed by two special calls after Chief Musham arrived.

When the firemen first reached the building the rear was a mass of flame. Louis Mallery of engine company 10, who was leading a line of men carrying hose to the third story in the rear of the building, had reached the top round of the ladder when a falling brick struck him on the head, knocking him to the ground. After his injuries had been dressed at the Samaritan hospital he was taken to his company quarters at 80 Pacific avenue.

Firemen Driven Back by Flames.

Inside the building the firemen were driven back time and again by the rush of fire and smoke. Capt. Campion, son of the marshal, was leading his company back from the front of the third floor when a wave of fire struck their faces. All were able to escape burned about the head and hands. They were taken to Levi's drug store and their burns covered with oil. Afterwards they returned to the fight.

After the flames came through the roof a shower of bricks and glass fell on the street below.

"Get those people all out of the hotels," ordered Chief Musham. "That south wall may give way, and if it does it will go through those buildings."

Sergeant James Mooney of the Harrison street station ordered the police to notify the guests to leave. Mrs. Penovich and her children, with a number of guests and friends, took refuge in a nearby drug store until late at night. The occupants of the Grand Eastern hotel also found shelter in neighboring stores.

Hotel Guests Inconvenienced.

A steady breeze from the southwest blew the smoke from the burning building toward the lake, and so dense did it become that it was impossible to see from one curb to the other in Michigan boulevard. The smoke also filled the lower floors of the Auditorium Annex. The air in the dining room was blue with it. In the Auditorium nearly the same state of affairs existed and the guests coughed and sneezed, while the attendants vainly endeavored to shut out the smoke.

When the buildings first began to fill with smoke the guests in both hotels thought the buildings were on fire and became alarmed and a rush was made for the elevators, but on being assured that the fire was a block away went back to their rooms and fought the smoke.

Standpipe Collides with Car.

One of the narrow escapes of the fire was that of Peter Staenbrook, driver of standpipe company 1. Staenbrook had his heavy machine in full motion on the way to the blaze when in Michigan avenue, near Madison street, a Cottage Grove avenue cable train was encountered. The truck failed to obey the pull of the powerful horses in front and held to the track. In an instant the projecting pipe had ripped the roof from the cable cars and smashed that of the Indiana avenue electric car trailing behind them.

A dozen passengers were in the three cars, but none was injureded, though glass flew.

For an instant Driver Staenbrook clung to his seat. Then the standpipe was thrown to one side, the machine upset, and the driver was shaken from his seat. He fell far enough away to clear the wheels of his machine and escaped death. A fireman in the rear end of the standpipe crawled forward and stopped the horses. Staenbrook was taken to the firehouse for medical attendance, and the machine was left lying in the street till the fire was under control.

Losses in Detail.

Following is the list of the losses in detail:

Building at 350-352 Wabash avenue	$45,000
O. B. Brown Furniture company	35,000

Oliver Bros., fifth and sixth floors	25,000
Building at 346-348 Wabash avenue	5,000
Luxfer Prism company, first floor	2,000
National Printing and Engraving company, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh floors	20,000

ROOSEVELT FIRM IN NEGRO POLICY

Says Outcry Over Selections for Southern Offices Will Not Swerve Him a Hair's Breadth.

ASKS HONEST JUDGMENT.

Declares He Cannot Consider Color a Bar Against Any Man Who Is Otherwise Fitted.

Atlanta, Ga., March 1.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt has written a letter to the editor of the Atlanta Constitution upon the subject of federal appointments in the south, in which he declares he will not be swerved a hair's breadth from the course he has laid out for himself and which he has consistently followed. The president expresses his surprise and pain at the the outcry that has been raised over the appointments, which have not varied materially from those made by President McKinley.

Mr. Roosevelt points out in his letter that the proportion of negroes in office in the south is not more than one in one hundred. He also calls attention to the appointments he has made, and says that the standard of efficiency has been raised by his selections.

The letter of the president was written in reply to a request for an expression from him concerning the statement of Harry Stillwell Edwards that the president had been misunderstood.

Text of President's Letter.

The communication of the president is addressed to Clark Howell, editor of the Constitution, and reads as follows:

"As to federal appointments in the south, frankly, it seems to me that my appointments speak for themselves, and that my policy is self-explanatory. So far from feeling that they need the slightest apology or justification, my position is that on the strength of what I have done I have the right to claim the support of all good citizens who wish not only a high standard of federal service but fair and equitable dealing to the south as well as to the north and a policy of consistent justice and good will toward all men. In making appointments I have sought to consider the feeling of the people of each locality so far as I could consistently do so without sacrificing principle.

Seeks Only the Best Men.

"The prime tests I have applied have been those of character, fitness, and ability, and when I have been dissatisfied with what has been offered within my own party lines I have without hesitation gone to the opposite party—and you are of course aware that I have repeatedly done this in your own state of Georgia.

Color No Bar to Office.

"I certainly cannot treat mere color as a permanent bar to holding office any more than I could so treat creed or birthplace—always provided that in other respects the applicant or incumbent is a worthy and well behaved American citizen. Just as little will I treat it as conferring a right to hold office. I have scant sympathy with the man of mere theory who refuses to face facts, but do you not think that in the long run it is safer for everybody if we act on the motto, 'all men up,' rather than on that of 'some men down'?

"I ask you to judge not by what I say, but what during the last seventeen months I have actually done. In your own state of Georgia you are competent to judge from your own experience. In the great bulk of the cases I have reappointed President McKinley's appointees. The changes I have made were, as I think you will agree, changes for the better and not for the worse. It happens I have appointed a white man to succeed a colored man as postmaster at Athens and surveyor at Atlanta. In South Carolina I have similarly appointed a white postmaster to succeed a colored postmaster. Again in South Carolina I have nominated a colored man to fill a vacancy in the position of collector of the port of Charleston, just as in Georgia I have reappointed the colored man who is now serving as collector of the port of Savannah. Both are fit men.

Sees No Cause for Excitement.

"Why the appointment of one should cause any more excitement than the appointment of the other I am wholly at a loss to imagine. I need hardly say that to connect either of these appointments, or any or all my other appointments, or my actions in upholding the law at Indianola, with such questions as 'social equality' and 'negro domination,' is as absurd as to connect them with the nebular hypothesis or the theory of atoms.

"I have consulted freely with your own senators and congressmen as to the character and capacity of any appointee in Georgia concerning whom there was question. My party advisers in the state have been Maj. Hanson of Macon, Mr. Walter Johnson of Atlanta—both of them ex-confederate soldiers—and Mr. Harry Stillwell Edwards, also of Macon. I believe you will agree with me that in no state would it be possible to find gentlemen abler and more upright or better qualified to fill the positions they have filled with reference to me.

"In every instance where these gentlemen have united in making a recommendation I have been able to follow their advice.

Asks Citizens for Advice.

"Am I not right in saying that the federal officeholders whom I have appointed throughout your state are, as a body, men and women of a high order of efficiency and integrity? If you know of any federal officeholder in Georgia of whom this is not true, pray let me know at once. I will welcome testimony from you or from any other reputable citizen which will tend to show that a given public officer is unworthy; and, most emphatically, short will be the shrift of any one whose lack of worth is proven.

"Incidentally, I may mention that a large percentage of the incumbents of federal offices in Georgia under me are, as I understand it, of your own political faith. But they are supported by me in every way so long as they continue to render good and faithful service to the public.

"This is true of your own state; and by applying to Mr. Thomas Nelson Page of Virginia, to Gen. Basil Duke of Kentucky, to Mr. George Crawford of Tennessee, to Mr. John McIlheny of Louisiana, to Judge Jones of Alabama, and Mr. Edgar S. Wilson of Mississippi—all of them democrats, and all of them men of the highest standing in the respective communities—you will find that what I have done in Georgia stands not as the

POPE SAYS DEATH IS NEAR

LEO XIII. WARNS CARDINALS OF HIS APPROACHING END.

Pontiff Gives His Promised Audience to the Sacred College Despite the Urgent Protest of His Physician — Talks Freely for Half an Hour — Form Is Bent and Trembling, but His Appearance Improves as the Interview Continues.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ROME, March 1.—Pope Leo gave audience to forty-two cardinals at the vatican today, in spite of the urgent protests of his physician. In his remarks to the cardinals the aged pontiff referred with emphasis to his approaching death.

The pope's feebleness is perceptibly increasing. He realized this and today he told the cardinals that he felt that God was about to call him to himself.

It is announced that the pontiff will attend the function at St. Peter's on Tuesday, but vatican officials are apprehensive of possible consequences.

The audience today was an impressive one. For half an hour the aged pontiff, seated on his throne, conversed with quiet affability with a group of prelates whose red robes, magnificent jeweled crosses, and in some cases robust figures contrasted strikingly with the feeble old man who, perhaps, was addressing them collectively for the last time.

Coughing Ends the Interview.

The conversation evidently tried the strength of his holiness, whose speech, which became more difficult as the time passed, was at last interrupted by a fit of coughing. Cardinal Oreglia di Santo Stefano thereupon requested him not to fatigue himself, and the pope, expressing regret that he could not prolong the interview, extended his hand to each of the cardinals as they filed past him.

This morning Dr. Lapponi made a final effort to induce Pope Leo to give up the reception to the cardinals, pointing out that his holiness needed the rest. The pope replied:

"My dear doctor, before your valuable advice comes my duty, which I shall perform until the end."

Form Bent and Trembling.

Pope Leo received the cardinals in his private library. When he entered the library his form was bent and trembling. The excitement of the interview, however, brightened him wonderfully.

There was no formal address, but the pontiff spoke almost continuously for half an hour, addressing himself first to one cardinal, then to another.

Speaks of Approaching Death.

His most important words were when the pontiff referred with emphasis to his advanced age and approaching end. He was led to speak thereof in reminding the cardinals that the room in which he was receiving them was the same in which Pius IX. held his last consistory, he (Leo XIII.) being present, but in bed.

The cardinals greeted this reference to the possible approach of death with a chorus of noes and with exclamations of—

"We have all come to wish you a long life."

Shows His Latest Gift.

During the audience the pope showed the cardinals a magnificent antique clock which had just been presented to him by the count of Caserta, the head of the Naples branch of the Bourbon family. Before retirement he presented to each cardinal a richly embellished pamphlet, reviewing the chief events in his pontificate, including a Latin poem of his own composition and five of his most important encyclicals. His holiness said:

"I will order that the few cardinals absent, like Cardinal Gibbons, shall also have it."

Dinner to Rector O'Connell.

Cardinal Serafino Vannutelli, subdeacon of the Sacred college, gave a dinner today in honor of the Rev. Dennis R. O'Connell, the new rector of the Roman Catholic university at Washington. The guests included Cardinal Satolli, Cardinal Vincenzo Vannutelli, the Very Rev. J. A. Zahm of Notre Dame, Ind., and a number of monsignors.

Rector O'Connell within the last week has received from personal friends two purses of $5,000 each, to found two scholarships, and promises of much larger sums from others.

Rector O'Connell will leave Rome next Wednesday and expects to assume his duties at Washington the middle of March.

BARTENDER SHOOTS TWO MEN; SAYS HE FEARED A HOLDUP.

Affray in Griffith's Saloon at 14 East Chicago Avenue Results in Perhaps Fatal Wound to One Victim.

Two men were shot and seriously injured early this morning by Bartender Johnson in Griffin's saloon at 14 East Chicago avenue.

Johnson says he fired because an attempt was being made to hold him up.

The victims are Otto Benson and Joseph Driscoll. Benson may die, and Driscoll also is badly hurt. They were taken to the Passavant hospital.

Driscoll has a bullet wound in the left shoulder and is badly beaten. Benson received a bullet wound in the stomach.

Johnson left the saloon soon after the shooting and up to 2:30 o'clock he had not been arrested.

Shouts "I'm Not a Burglar."

Douglas Morgan, sitting in his own room at 549 West Jackson boulevard, was mistaken for a burglar last night and made the target for two bullets, neither of which took effect.

In moving about the room Morgan upset a chair, and the noise frightened Miss L. Starring, who lives in the building. Running to Thomas McCoshin, another roomer, she cried: "There's a burglar in the house!" and pleaded with McCoshin to get his revolver, which he did.

Two shots were fired through the closed door of Morgan's room, but before the sound of the second one had died away he had shouted, "I'm not a burglar," and the bombardment ceased.

WILL REVIVE THE GAYNOR CASE.

Former Attorney General Gives Notice He Will Ask Questions in Canadian Parliament.

Quebec, March 1.—The successful fight made by Col. Gaynor and Capt. Greene against extradition proceedings instituted last summer by the state department at Washington will be the subject of an interpellation in the provincial legislature.

When Greene and Gaynor were released there was a feeling that the local and provincial authorities were not doing all in their power to assist the representatives of the state department in their efforts to take them back to Georgia for trial. The discussion of the case on the floor of the legislature will produce some interesting debates.

PLANS DEATH OF MUDHOLE CANAL

Senator Rainey Prepares to Lead the Fight Against the Cash-Absorbing Waterway.

"KILL AND FILL" THE CRY

Scheme Is to Turn the Disease-Breeding Ditch Into a Model Highway for Public Purposes.

"Abandon the old Illinois and Michigan canal at once as a waterway. Fill up the channel and transform the pestilent ditch into a state road."

Such is State Senator Edward P. Rainey's program for the Illinois state legislature to dispose of the historic canal, which for years has been the plaything of the politicians, who even now are striving to secure $190,000 of public money to dump into the old mudhole.

Senator Rainey is well fortified with statistics to prove that the canal has outlived its usefulness. For instance, in the twenty years from 1880 to 1900 the expenses exceeded the tolls by $554,668, and matters are growing worse each year.

In 1901 the gross expenses of the canal were $111,002 and the receipts were only $8,120.

The report for 1902 has not been made public for fear that public indignation will induce the legislature to abandon the canal at once.

Fight in Both Houses.

Mr. Rainey will bring the matter before the senate tomorrow or Wednesday in a resolution demanding that no more money be appropriated for the maintenance of the canal. Representative R. E. Burke will present an identical paper in the house, and, on the passage of the measures, Mr. Rainey will introduce a bill providing for the filling up of the channel.

"For years," Mr. Rainey said last evening, "the canal has been merely a cloak for political jobbery and stealing. It has been a bill of expense to the state and a menace to the health of every community it traverses. In the interest of decent politics, of economy, and of the physical well being of the populous cities on the canal's banks it should be wiped off the map.

"My measures are not contingent on the construction of the Calumet cutoff or of any public work. The canal per se is a public nuisance and must be abated as such."

Appropriation Held Illegal.

The resolutions drawn by Mr. Rainey cites at some length the financial history of the canal. He begins with a reference to article 14 of the state constitution, which is held to forbid any appropriation for the canal.

"This section of the constitution," explained Mr. Rainey, "plainly states that no appropriation shall ever be made for any canal or railroad. Hence, were any money to be voted, the act would be unconstitutional. All that would be necessary to overthrow the attempted legislation would be that some citizen go into court and ask an injunction restraining the treasurer from paying the money. This remedy is open should all others fail."

Since 1877 the balance in the canal's accounts has been steadily on the wrong side of the book, Mr. Rainey's resolution continues to show. As the revenues have decreased the expenditures have grown.

No benefits have been derived from the appropriations in past years, Mr. Rainey's resolution shows, and the money might have been thrown into Lake Michigan for all the good derived by the people of the state.

Canal a Menace to Health.

The stagnant water, abandoned long ago by commerce, has become the abiding place of noxious germs, Mr. Rainey says, and from it disease may readily be disseminated in Chicago and all down the line to La Salle.

"When L. E. McGann was commissioner of public works in Chicago," Mr. Rainey explained, "an effort was made to have the canal closed on the ground of its danger to the health of the city. But there were too many authorities above the city and nothing could be done. The canal begins right here in my district. It is a home affair with me, and I know how great a nuisance it is.

"Few people realize what the mudhole has cost the city. The construction and operation of the Bridgeport pumping station puts the city to the bad to the amount of $1,300,000. This was supposed to give the municipality a lien on the earnings of the canal, but it is not of record that Chicago ever got anything from this source. Many streets cross the channel, and some twenty of them should have bridges, when only three or so have them. Think what would be the expense of providing for this need, which grows more urgent with each passing year.

"Most of the rock and soil excavated when the canal was built is still on the banks of the old waterway. There is plenty of clay at hand and the job of filling the mud hole would not be so expensive as might be imagined. On the introduction of my bill I will have the data from the engineer of the canal ready and can demonstrate what the cost will be."

Benefits of Proposed Road.

In speaking of the ultimate outcome of his plan, Mr. Rainey grew enthusiastic.

"It would be a grade road from start to finish," he said. "The canal runs through a thickly populated district, and most of the industries in the towns along it are near to its banks. A highway would serve them and be of immense benefit where the existing foul smelling channel is a detriment. There is and has been much talk about good roads. Here is an opportunity to build a road of the best class along a course marked out by nature and long ago appropriated by commerce.

"There is still another consideration. The state owns a strip of land 90 feet wide on each side of the canal. This is now grown up to weeds and stock will scarcely pasture on it for the odor of the ditch. The old warehouses are tumbling in and nowhere in the state is there such a picture of desolation. With a road all this land will become valuable and profitable. From it some income can be derived in place of the deficit that rolls in annually from the Illinois and Michigan canal."

Loss Is Growing Greater.

The figures with which Mr. Rainey has fortified himself show that conditions are worse now than ever before. While the report for 1902 is still in the hands of the public printer, a compilation of the vouchers filed by the canal commissioners in the auditor's office, ranging from Dec. 1, 1901, to Nov. 30, 1902, shows expenditures of $120,000. What the receipts were no one can tell, but they are not believed to be over $6,000 at the most, making an approximate deficiency for the year of $115,000. And yet Commissioner Snively cries for $199,000 more.

This deficiency, it is pointed out, will increase year by year in the future, as it has for two decades. In 1860 there were 200 boats on the canal, and in 1865 there were 288, the greatest number in the canal's history. Only forty-one boats were noted in the last report. In 1865, the best year the canal ever knew, it was open 228 days for navigation, and its receipts, over expenses, amounted to $175,931. In 1899, before the days of the drainage canal, it was open for navigation 229 days and shows a deficit of $50,175. Here are official figures:

Tolls	$300,810
Expenses	124,869
Profit to state	$175,941
YEAR 1899.
Tolls	$ 41,021
Expenses	91,196
Loss to state	50,175

Passing of the Canal.

An examination of the reports for the years 1851 to 1860 inclusive, shows that the tolls collected amounted to $1,744,106. The expenses during this period were only $690,811 and the excess of the tolls over the expenses in this decade gave the state an income of $1,053,295.

During the next decade the tolls were even greater. From 1861 to 1870 inclusive, the amount collected was $2,209,693. The gross expenditures were $965,645, a little higher than in the previous ten years, but the excess gave the state a revenue of $1,244,048.

The first drop in the tolls of the canal is noted in the compilation of the reports for the next ten years, from 1871 to 1880. In this decade the tolls amounted to $1,219,374, while the expenses amounted to $922,750, meaning a profit in this decade of $296,624.

In the next ten years, from 1881 to 1890, the canal became an unprofitable enterprise. The tolls dropped to $685,239 and the gross expenses reached $806,311. This left the canal a deficit of $211,077, which the state was required to pay.

The showing for the next ten years, from 1891 to 1900, went from bad to worse, showing tolls, $385,853; and expenses, $729,444, an excess of gross expenses over tolls for the fifth decade of $343,591, or $34,359 a year.

Like a Rat Hole.

Speaking of the ancient canal one student of the situation said last night:

"The state had as well invest its money in a 'get rich quick' game. It is and has been for years as empty as a rat hole. From a political standpoint it is rotten to the core. From a financial standpoint it is a dead horse and a loser and until the end of time it will continue to lose.

"It is costing the state more than $100,000 a year to keep the old canal alive, and its deficiencies will doube that figure in less than five years. The figures completely disprove the claim made by Gov. Yates in his last message that the canal holds the railroads in check, because traffic on the canal is reduced to nothing and the railroads' business is growing.

"The shippers evidently won't touch the canal, preferring the railroads in spite of their excessive rates."

WOMAN IS TURNED TO STONE.

Report in Mexico of Miraculous Action of Lightning Bolt in Shrine She Profaned.

Mexico City, March 1.—[Special.]—Newspapers here publish the following remarkable story, which is said to be authenticated by the church authorities in the town of Bagos, in the state of Balisco. During a visit of pilgrims, who arrived from Leon Guanajate, at one of the churches a woman, under the influence of liquor, attempted to enter a shrine. She was stopped at the door by one of the pilgrims and she began to swear so horribly that a bolt came from the sky and she was immediately converted into a rock statue. The reports add that the statue was then removed to the house of the parish priest and that the latter is exacting a fee of 50 cents from everybody who wants to see it. Many residents of Bagos claim to have seen the statue and recognized the woman who was so severely punished.

ACCUSED OF MANY FORGERIES.

Louis Heymanson Captured After Being Followed for Several Months Through the Northwest.

Accused of over twenty-five cases of forgery, Louis Heymanson was arrested yesterday morning by Detectives Murtaugh and Burke and was locked up at Central station. Heymanson was captured at his residence, 995 West Chicago avenue, after he had been followed for several months through different cities in the northwest.

The police say Heymanson probably will be identified today as the man who passed bogus checks on almost every dry goods merchant along Milwaukee avenue. The last check was drawn on M. Griesheimer for $23, and was passed on B. Christman, Milwaukee and Western avenues, by whom Heymanson formerly had been employed.

Heymanson, it is declared, then left the city, and Christman sought the aid of the detective department.

COURT MARTIAL FOR NEW MAINE

Inquiry to Be Made Into Shooting of Deserter and Causes for Lack of Discipline on Board.

Newport News, Va., March 1.—[Special.]—The killing of a deserter from the new battleship Maine, which is in drydocks here, will probably be followed by a court martial inquiry into the causes for the twenty-six desertions in the last few days. The marine guard who killed the deserter is under arrest and the officers are keeping all the facts they can from the public. It is said that the feeling between the sailors and the marines is so bitter that lynching of marines is talked of by the other men. Capt. Luetze, it is expected, will be replaced by Capt. Sigsbee of the old Maine.

PAYS FOR ALL HE SMASHES.

Retired Miner Breaks Up Hotel Furniture He Does Not Like and Hands Around $10 Bills.

Boston, Mass., March 1.—[Special.]—A man, 60 years old, styling himself Charles Marshall Lawrence, claiming Gardiner, Me., as his home, who registered at the United States hotel on Friday, made himself noticeable by giving away $10 bills to every one he met. Not being satisfied with his room, he began smashing up the furniture. The police were called and he said he had just come from Phœnix, Ariz., where he had recently disposed of his mining interests for $5,000,000. He didn't know as it was any one's business if he gave away money and he had smashed the furniture because it did not suit his fancy. He paid the price asked and left.

MAY CUT COREAN TWINS APART

Boston Physicians, After Careful Examination, Believe Operation Can Be Performed.

Boston, Mass., March 1.—[Special.]—A committee of physicians today made an X-ray examination of the Corean twins with a view to ascertaining if they could with safety be separated. Two photographs were taken, and they showed that the boys were perfectly healthy and that they have only in common the flesh and cartilage connection which unites them at the base of the breast bone. All the physicians expressed the opinion that an operation could be performed. Li Hang Shang, father of the boys, who are 18 years old, said he would probably make the attempt.

ALDERMANIC RACE IS BADLY TANGLED

Advent of Labor and Possible Harlan Candidates Complicates Situation.

HOT FIGHT IN 21ST WARD.

Burke Forces Arrayed Against Mayor Harrison in a Struggle for Control.

Never in the history of Chicago have there been so few avowed candidates for aldermanic nominations as this spring. At the same time the aldermanic situation never has been as badly mixed as it is now.

This seemingly paradoxical situation grows out of the fact that while the republican and democratic parties have made up their minds to renominate their outgoing alderemen in the wards where a nomination means an election and not to antagonize each other by making nominations in wards where the chance of election is hopeless, the promise is that a large number of independent nominations will be made, and they will complicate everything.

It is expected, for instance, that the labor party will have municipal ownership candidates for aldermen in most of the wards. Had Clarence Darrow been the party candidate for mayor this would have been a disturbing element all over the west and southwest sides, but Daniel L. Cruice is not seriously regarded by the politicians, and the men nominated on his ticket for aldermen, it is asserted, will have no more strength in the various wards in which they may run than they possess individually.

Expect Harlan to Run.

What the politicians are trying to figure out, however, is what differene aldermanic candidates nominated on an independent Harlan ticket may make in the general result. It is this which has mixed up the situation so badly.

It is taken for granted by both democratic and republican managers that if Harlan is beaten for the republican nomination for mayor he will run as an independent. His statement that he would reject the results of the primaries if he thought he had not been rightly treated is taken by most politicians as being tantamount to a declaration of an independent candidacy.

"Harlan's idea of fair primaries are those which nominate him," said one of Mayor Harrison's manager, who was figuring the Harlan candidacy would help his candidate.

The understanding is that not only will Harlan run independent, but he will have a city ticket with him and aldermanic candidates in most of the wards. In fact, Ald. Bellfuss is already talked of as the Harlan candidate for city treasurer and John Siman for city clerk.

Harlan aldermanic candidates will be named in strong republican wards like the Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Thirteenth, Second, Third, and Twenty-fifth, in which the democrats have made up their minds it is not worth while to make nominations, and in democratic wards like the Tenth and Nineteenth, where the republicans have determined to let the aldermanic elections go by default.

Big Fight in Twenty-first.

As the aldermanic situation stands today the spectacular fight is in the Twenty-first ward, where Robert E. Burke is fighting Mayor Harrison and his lieutenant, James Quinn. The Harrison-Quinn candidate for the democratic nomination is Ald. Honoré Palmer, while Burke has brought out as his candidate James Dalton, a saloonkeeper in Rush street, who is popular among the residents of the south end of the ward, where the bulk of the democratic vote resides.

The way the ward is made up for a democratic convention the delegates south of Chicago avenue outnumber those to the north, and Burke says he will be able to carry these southern districts, as well as a couple to the north. If he does it will mean the defeat of Palmer.

To add to the interest and perhaps the humor of the situation in the ward an independent candidate for the democratic nomination was announced yesterday in the person of Frank E. Kennedy. He describes himself as the "labor candidate" by virtue of the fact he is president of the Bartenders' union. His own explanation of his candidacy is that it is intended to help out the Harrison-Quinn faction in the ward by taking from Dalton some of the votes south of Chicago avenue.

So far the republicans in the ward have not settled on a candidate, although they think that out of the democratic fight there is a chance to elect their man. Fletcher Dobyns, who ran against Ald. John Minwegen a year ago, is talked of, but the matter is not yet determined.

Situation in Other Wards.

In the First ward the nomination of Ald. Michael Kenna by the democrats is conceded, and there does not seem to be any question about his election. Up to date no republican candidate has appeared against him.

In the Second ward Ald. Charles Alling will be renominated by the republicans, and the democrats will not put any one against him. So in the Third ward the reelection of Ald. M. J. Foreman, who will be the republican nominee, will be unopposed by the democrats.

In the Fourth ward Ald. Frank Doubek will be the republican nominee, while there is a small army of democrats looking for the place. The ward is democratic, and the chances are largely in favor of the candidate that party may nominate.

In the Fifth ward the same condition prevails. Ald. E. R. Litzinger expects to run again as the republican candidate, while the democrats probably will nominate Edward J. Kelly, an undertaker in Thirty-eighth street.

In the Sixth ward the renomination and reelection of Ald. Linn H. Young is expected, and in the Seventh that of Ald. Frank I. Bennett. There is some doubt, however, as to whether Ald. Bennett will run again, and if he does not a lot of candidates for the republican nomination can be looked for.

Foucek Out of the Race.

Ald. P. H. Moynihan expects to succeed himself in the Eighth ward and Ald. N. T. Brenner in the Ninth, but in the Tenth Ald. C. G. Foucek has stated he is not a candidate for reelection. His successor will be the man City Clerk Loeffler picks out, but so far Mr. Loeffler has not made any choice. Ex-Ald. Bennett wants the nomination, but there is not much chance of his getting it.

Ald. Edward F. Cullerton has figured it out he has clear sailing in the Eleventh ward, and Ald. Michael Zimmer would have in the Twelfth if he cared to run again, but there is talk of his being the candidate for city clerk on the democratic ticket. In the Thirteenth it is expected Ald. John E. Scully will be returned.

In the Fourteenth ward there will be a vacancy to be filled, for which both parties will strive, on account of the retirement of Ald. Frank T. Fowler, who has determined to make Waukegan his permanent home. Ald. Joseph Strauss expects to be returned from the Fifteenth.

Warm Fight on Kunz.

In the Sixteenth ward there is a curious situation. This is the ward which Ald. Stanley Kunz has always controlled on account of his ascendency over the Polish population, which forms the great majority there. Kunz had fixed it up, as he thought, to renominate Ald. George Leininger, but an opposition candidate came out in the person of Vincent J. Jozwinkowski.

When some of the priests of St. Stanislaus parish advocated Jozwinkowski's nomination Kunz made a personal assault on the rector of St. Stanislaus college, and the matter has been deeply resented by a large number of the parishioners. It may result in the defeat of Leininger.

In the Seventeenth ward the result depends almost entirely on whether Ald. John Smulski cares to run again. Although a republican and the ward democratic, he has been able to carry it every time he has run, and probably could do so again. He is undecided, however, whether he wants the nomination, and with him out of the way there would at once arise a scramble for the democratic nomination.

Ald. John J. Brennan will be renominated and reelected in the Eighteenth Ward. The republicans will not put up a candidate against him. In the Nineteenth there are a host of candidates for the democratic nomination, but it is generally supposed to lie between Ald. James T. Roach and "Billy" O'Brien. In addition there are Edward Glacken, James Denvir, W. C. Gleason, and John O'Brien looking for the place.

May Retire Ald. Patterson.

Ald. J. C. Patterson is expecting a renomination in the Twentieth ward, but he may be disappointed, although there has been no announcement as yet as to who the republican nominee will be. John Gazzolo is asking for the democratic nomination and probably will get it.

Ald. John D. Sullivan of the Twenty-second ward declares he will not run again, and ex-Ald. William Lyman is most talked of for the democratic nomination. "Major" Sampson is looked to as an independent candidate by some of his friends in Market street.

In the Twenty-third ward the renomination and reelection of Ald. Charles Werno is conceded on all sides. There is little chance of the republicans making a nomination in this ward.

Ald. William H. Ehemann expects to be returned from the Twenty-fourth ward, and Ald. W. P. Dunn from the Twenty-fifth. In the Twenty-sixth there are a number of candidates for the republican nomination, which is equivalent to an election, but it is generally thought Ald. F. K. Blake will be again chosen. The same condition exists in the Twenty-seventh, where Ald. A. F. Keeney is expected to be returned.

Ald. Connery to Retire.

It had been thought Ald. F. D. Connery would be a candidate for reelection in the Twenty-eighth ward, but he yesterday announced he did not care to return to the council. His retirement will make a vacancy on the committee on local transportation. As the ward is close a fight can be looked for for both democratic and republican nominations.

Ald. Frederick A. Hart, recently indicted on a charge of having solicited a bribe, says he will look for a renomination in the Twenty-ninth ward as a vindication. The democrats of the ward, however, say he cannot have it, and Edward H. Junk, a brewer at 3700 Halsted street, is most talked of for the nomination. There are no active republican candidates.

Ald. Michael McInerney is reported as having everything in shape for his return from the Thirtieth ward, and Ald. W. M. Butterworth can come back from the Thirty-first if he wants to. So can Ald. Henry F. Eidmann from the Thirty-second, but the Thirty-third is in doubt.

Ald. Charles H. Rector is thinking of running as an independent from the Thirty-fourth ward, as it is not thought he can get the republican nomination. Ald. Frank L. Race, however, will be the party nominee in the Thirty-fifth, although there is some opposition to him.

MAYORALTY FIGHT NEARS END.

Two Republican Candidates Today Begin Their Final Struggle for Victory at Primaries.

The two republican candidates for mayor today enter the homestretch in their race for the nomination—a race which practically will end with the primaries next Friday.

On their last Sunday before the fate of their ambition shall be determined, Graeme Stewart and John M. Harlan both expressed confidence in their ability to win.

There was a little cloud yesterday on Mr. Harlan's horizon in the shape of expressed dissatisfaction with his course in the Twenty-sixth ward, where it was alleged he had turned down some of his supporters.

"Mr. Harlan promised a number of us that we should manage his campaign in the Twenty-sixth ward," said Vincent D. Wyman, "and that he would have nothing to do with Robert Simon. We have made the campaign for him, but yesterday Walter L. Fisher of the Municipal Voters' league interfered, and Mr. Harlan placed Mr. Simon in charge."

Mr. Fisher denied he had been in the ward or had seen Mr. Simon.

"I have been interested in the aldermanic situation there," he said, "and this was threatened with complications, because some of Mr. Harlan's friends wanted to run an independent delegate ticket. This was contrary to the purpose, as I understood it, and I suggested to friends of Mr. Harlan and of Mr. Stewart to try to agree on a union ticket, which, I believe, has been done."

Mr. Harlan last night said he had accepted a union ticket in the ward on the advice of his friends.

"Some of my friends assured me today that it would further my interests to favor a union ticket in the ward instead of the independent ticket as had been planned. On these assurances I notified Mr. Simon that I would accept a union delegate ticket. It was simply a question of the best method, and I do not believe any of my friends will be seriously disappointed by the change."

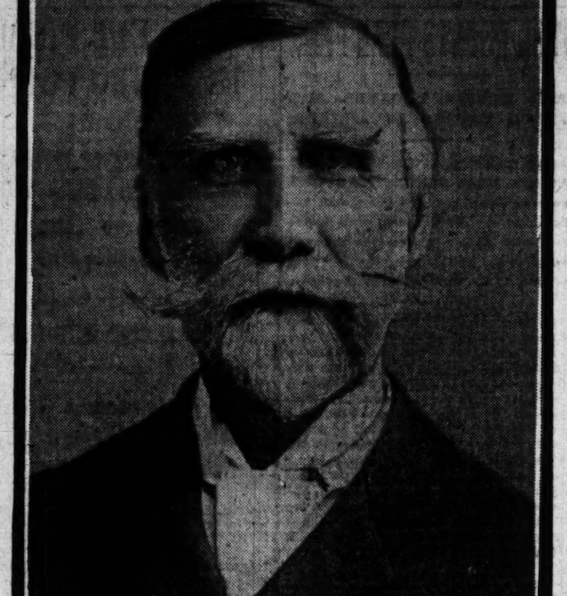

Mr. Harlan will speak tonight in Bohemian Sodality hall, 400 West Eighteenth street, and in Oakley hall, 928 West Madison street. Tomorrow noon he will make another address in McVicker's theater, at which Dr. Emil G. Hirsch will preside.

Mr. Stewart speaks tonight in Belmont hall, North Clark street and Belmont avenue, and Stern's hall, Fullerton avenue and Ward street. Tomorrow night he speaks in Wicker Park hall, North and Milwaukee avenues.

The Seventh Ward Republican club has announced the places for the precinct caucuses, which will be held tomorrow night to select candidates for delegates to be voted for at the primaries.

The Swedish-American Republican club of the Thirty-fifth ward on Saturday night unanimously adopted resolutions indorsing Ald. Frank L. Race for reelection.

FAMOUS CHICAGO BUILDER, WHO IS DEAD.

W. K. NIXON.

Mr. Nixon is said to have erected more buildings in Chicago, either as owner or promoter, than any other resident of the city.

WILSON K. NIXON IS DEAD.

FAMOUS BUILDER SUCCUMBS TO A LONG ILLNESS.

Was Said to Have Erected More Structures in Chicago, Either as Owner or Promoter, than Any Other Resident of the City—Accomplished the First Fireproof Construction Here—Record of His Long Career as a Business Man.

Wilson K. Nixon, who is said to have erected more buildings in Chicago, either as owner or promoter, than any resident of the city, died yesterday afternoon in his residence at 113 Cass street.

Mr. Nixon was 76 years old and had been ill for eight months. He had been a resident of Chicago for forty years.

Mr. Nixon began to interest himself in building soon after coming to Chicago in 1863, his first venture being the Smith and Nixon building on the present site of the Chicago opera house. He subsequently extended the building to the site of the present Chamber of Commerce building in Washington street. He also built a business block on Clark street, near Adams.

First Fireproof Builder.

Later he built the Nixon building, at the northwest corner of Monroe and La Salle streets, and this, the first fireproof structure in Chicago, was the only building in the business district left intact by the great fire. It was demolished four or five years ago, and its corner stone became the property of the Chicago Historical society. It was the first building to be occupied after the fire in the district that had been devastated.

Mr. Nixon had organized the Grand Pacific Hotel company shortly before the fire, and the building was nearly completed Oct. 9, 1871. This building was saved with great difficulty.

After the fire Mr. Nixon built, as owner or promoter, the Illinois Bank building, the Commercial Bank building, the Continental Bank building, the Rialto, the Chemical Bank building, and the Edison building. Later he organized and built the Union Cold Storage and Warehouse, covering a block at Sixteenth street, which was the first mechanical refrigerating plant in Chicago. In connection with the Commercial Bank building he had constructed the largest deposit vaults that had been known in the city up to that time.

Mr. Nixon also erected a business block on the present site of the Fair, the St. James flats, a row of residences on Illinois street, other houses in various parts of the city, and was chairman of the building committee that erected St. James' church, in which he was a warden for many years. It was through his efforts that the tower of St. James' was preserved, and it is still one of the few monuments of the Chicago fire.

Born in the East.

Mr. Nixon was born on April 9, 1827, in Geneva, N. Y. When he was 4 years old his parents moved to Cincinnati, and it was there that he was educated, paying particular attention to the study of music. After a year and a half in Europe the young man returned to Cincinnati and completed his studies at Woodward college and then engaged in the grocery business and later in the tea trade.

In Cincinnati his tendency toward building enterprises manifested itself in his erection of three concert halls and two business blocks. At the time of the civil war he was secretary of the Greenwood iron works, which manufactured 50,000 muskets, several hundred brass guns, and the Tippecanoe, the fastest of the monitors.

Mr. Nixon is survived by a widow, formerly Martha Greenwood of Cincinnati, and two sons, Miles Greenwood Nixon of Racine, Wis., and William W. K. Nixon of Chicago.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow or Wednesday and the body will be taken to Cincinnati for burial at Spring Grove.

GEN. WM. FARRAR SMITH DEAD.

Engineer Who Made Brilliant Record During Civil War Passes Away at Age of 80 Years.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 1.—[Special.]—Gen. William Farrar Smith, known in army circles as "Baldy" Smith, died here, aged 80 years. He was born in St. Albans, Vt., and graduated from West Point in 1845, being appointed to the topographical corps of the engineering department. He served in numerous army surveys on the great lakes and other government work, and for several years was head of the department of mathematics at the West Point academy.

His service during the war was brilliant and he was in active duty in Washington, Yorktown, Antietam, Fredericksburg, and Gettysburg. In November, 1863, he threw a 1,500 foot bridge across the Tennessee river, enabling Sherman's army to cross over. He served until the end of the war and resigned as major general of volunteers in 1867.

He was at one time president of the International Ocean Telegraph company, and in 1877 was on the New York police board. After that time he was a practical civil engineer with headquarters in Philadelphia.

OBITUARY.

JOHN BOYLSTON, Chicago, died yesterday at his residence, 303 Orchard street, from paralysis. Coming from Ireland fifty years ago, he settled in this city and engaged in the drayage business for forty years. He was 74 years old. Two sons and two daughters survive him. The funeral will be conducted from the home and St. Vincent's church tomorrow forenoon.

ARREST SLAYERS OF A DETECTIVE.

Robbers Who Killed Pinkerton Manager Are Found in Hartford, Conn.

END OF A WIDE SEARCH.

Captors Recover $8,000, Which Was Stolen from the National Bank of Union, Mo.

Hartford, Conn., March 1.—[Special.]—William Rudolph, the "Missouri Kid," and George Collins, known as "Black Frank," the Union (Mo.) bank robbers who murdered Charles J. Schumacher, St. Louis manager of the Pinkerton detective agency at Stanton, Mo., Jan. 24, were arrested here today after a brief struggle, in which revolvers were drawn. Their capture ends a search by the entire force of the Pinkertons which has spread all over the United States. The heads of the detective agency did everything to bring the men to trial.

The successful end of the man hunt was brought about by George S. Dougherty, assistant superintendent of the Pinkerton New York office. With three of his men and local Detectives Farrell and Butler he found Rudolph and Collins in a resort on the east side. Rudolph resisted fiercely and drew a revolver on Dougherty, but was finally overpowered after a hard fight. A search of their clothing, together with a trunk which was found in an Allyn street house, where the men had rented rooms, resulted in the finding of $8,000 in gold and bank notes, six large revolvers, a quantity of cartridges, nine skeleton keys, and several disguises.

Traced by a Scrap of Paper.

The murderers were traced here by a scrap of paper, which they left behind in Missouri, on which was written: "George Collins, Hartford."

Rudolph and Collins have been here a few weeks, but were not located until yesterday. This afternoon Rudolph and Collins and the latter's two stepbrothers were seen coming out of the house on Allyn street. They were followed to a house on State street, and the Pinkerton men and local detectives were gathered there.

Collins and the La Plants came out of the house together, and were arrested without any trouble. Rudolph remained in the house, and Mr. Dougherty and Detective Farrell went after him. They went into the room with revolvers drawn. Rudolph reached under his overcoat for his weapon, but Dougherty was upon him before he could get it. The men had a struggle, in which Dougherty was bitten in the neck. Farrell finally got the revolver away from Rudolph.

Bank Was Robbed on Dec. 27.

The robbery of the bank at Union took place early in the morning of Dec. 27. Collins and Rudolph broke into the building and shattered the doors of the safe with explosives. They secured securities valued at $110,000 and cash amounting to $14,000, and escaped without trouble.

The large amount of booty secured, together with the increasing number of burglaries in country banks, stirred the bankers to use every means to capture the thieves, who were thought to be connected with a number of similar affairs. The Pinkerton detective agency was employed, and Charles J. Schumacher, manager of the St. Louis bureau, took personal charge of the case.

Schumacher Takes Charge.

Mr. Schumacher, after visiting the town of Union and making a careful investigation, decided that the robbery was the work of men who lived in Stanton, a neighboring town. The robbers had left a shoe box bearing the name of a Stanton merchant in the bank when they escaped. Suspicion was attracted to Collins and Rudolph, both of whom had served terms in prison for felonies. They were found to be living with a relative of Collins on a farm near Stanton.

Disguised as a hunter, Mr. Schumacher first visited the farmhouse and found the men at home. Their actions convinced him that they were the guilty persons, and he returned to Stanton and secured the assistance of a deputy sheriff and several special deputies. They surrounded the house on Jan. 24, and Schumacher rapped on the door and called on the men to surrender.

Detective Falls Dead.

As he stood before the door both men jumped from a window on the side and opened fire on him. The detective fell at the first volley and died at once. The deputy sheriffs shot repeatedly at the robbers, who sheltered themselves behind a woodpile and returned the bullets until their guns were empty.

Then they made a dash and succeeded in getting through the lines of the deputies and escaped. The posse returned to Stanton and at once notified the authorities in the surrounding towns to look out for Collins and Rudolph, who had been seen making for a stream.

That night they were fired upon by a detail of their numerous pursuers. Both men were in a skiff which they had stolen, and it was reported that one of them had been wounded. Ever since that time a sharp outlook has been kept for them throughout Missouri and southern Illinois, and sheriffs and detectives have scoured the woods in many localities on rumors that they had been seen.

Dig Up the Booty.

The raid on the farmhouse resulted in the recovery of about $96,000 of the plunder. Some of it was hidden in the house and the rest of it was buried in the ground about the farm.

The death of Charles Schumacher gave the Pinkerton agency a personal interest in the case, and it was announced that every means to secure the arrest of the two fugitives would be employed. A description and photographs were sent broadcast over the country, and instructions were given to every branch office to keep a close lookout for them.

FIFTY NEGRO GIRLS IN A RIOT.

Inmates of Reform School Near Baltimore Fight Police and Terrorize Home for Twenty-four Hours.

Baltimore, Md., March 1.—[Special.]—For twenty-four hours over fifty of the 100 inmates of the Industrial Home for Colored Girls at Melvale, Baltimore county, were in rebellion and tonight Isabel Robinson, aged 17, is in solitary confinement, and two others are under arrest. The insurrection was started by Isabel Robinson, who refused to work. The county policemen were called. When two of them arrived they were met by a fusillade of dishes, cups, knives, forks, and kitchen utensils. One policeman was covered with molasses, his face cut by flying glass, and his hat smashed. Another policeman, who attempted to enter the home, was driven off by the girls.

Fever Scare in Evanston.

Following the typhoid fever excitement in Pearson hall, Evanston, came the information yesterday that a young woman was ill at Chapin hall, another of the woman's dormitories at Northwestern university, and some of the students feared it was typhoid fever. The authorities at the dormitory declare the girl is not suffering from typhoid fever.

SPECIAL MARCH SALE OF

FIXES NEW DEATH RECORD

FEBRUARY OF 1903 MOST UNHEALTHY ON RECORD.

In Chicago 2,570 Persons Passed Away, a Greater Number than in Any Year Since Health Department Was Established—Fewer Fatalities Among Young Children than in 1902, Showing Duration of Life Is Increasing in the City—Grip Growing Milder.

More people died in Chicago last month than during any February in the history of the Chicago health department. The total was 2,570 for the month, and 713 during the last week. The health bulletin for the week regards the matter as follows:

"The only comfort to be gleaned from the situation is that found in a comparison of the deaths at given ages. As compared with February, 1902, there were 16.2 per cent more deaths over 60 years of age and 4.6 per cent fewer under 5 years of age.

"Among other things these figures go to substantiate the claim made in 1890 of an increasing duration of life in Chicago. The issue of the British Medical Journal of Feb. 14, 1903, called editorial attention to the statistics upon which this claim was based for the period between 1869 and 1898. Two sets of figures showed that the average age at death had increased from 13.9 years at the beginning of the thirty-year period to 29.4 years at the close.

"Had the 26,455 residents of Chicago who died last year lived only to the same average age as those who died in 1869 their aggregate ages would have amounted to 367,724 years; whereas their aggregate ages actually amounted to 832,373 years—a gain of 464,649 years in the lives of those who died last year in this city.

"As the British Journal remarks: 'The proportion of those who live to reach three score years and beyond in Chicago is steadily increasing, while the proportion of those who die under 5 years of age is even more rapidly decreasing.'

"There are indications from the laboratory, from hospital reports, and from the reports of physicians that a reduction of the excessive mortality of the first two months of 1893 may be anticipated. Influenza is still epidemic, but there is a lessening of its virulence, and the disease yields more readily to treatment where the physician's advice is faithfully followed. A marked reduction in the typhoid fever findings in the laboratory promises a subsidence of this disease, which caused fifty-four deaths last month, as compared with fourteen in February, 1902."

TRIES TO PART YOUNG COUPLE.

Mother of Charles Edward Maltby, Who Married Chorus Girl, Refuses to Recognize Bride.

Boston, Mass., March 1.—[Special.]—Charles Edward Maltby, whose hasty marriage to Miss Helen Tudor Danziger, a chorus girl of "The Little Host" company, created a sensation in Back Bay society circles a week ago, has returned with his bride to Boston, and finds himself forced to choose between his mother and his newly wedded wife. Mrs. Edward B. Maltby, mother of the young man, refuses to recognize her daughter-in-law or to admit her to her Bacon street residence. Every effort has been made to induce the young man to relinquish his bride, but without avail.

SNOW BOUND TRAIN RELEASED.

One of the Two Tied Up in Newfoundland Returns to St. Johns After Being Out Seventeen Days.

St. Johns, N. F., March 1.—One of the two snow bound express trains returned here today. The train left this city seventeen days ago, and only succeeded in getting half way across the island. The passengers tell thrilling stories of their experiences amid the snow drifts. The other express is still stuck fast, but the passengers left it and walked across thirty miles of snowfields to an open section of the line, and will reach here the middle of the week.

INSISTS IRELAND MUST BE FREED.

Clan-na-Gael Asks All to Aid in Making a Republic of the Isle.

PLEADS WITH AMERICA.

Gen. Booth of Salvation Army Plans School for Trained Rescuers of Humanity.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE.
New York, March 1.

James Reidy, secretary of the New York committee of the Clan-na-Gael, made public today a declaration of principles which will be officially promulgated at meetings of the organization to be held in all the principal cities of the country in commemoration of the birth of Robert Emmet, the 125th anniversary of which is on March 4.

Clan-na-Gael Says Ireland Must Be Made Free.

After reiterating the belief that Ireland is destined to be an independent nation, and to gain this end she is justified in recourse to the sword, the declaration continues:

"Not even a scant measure of legislative freedom can be won by pleading to the parliament of England, as no installment of justice has been granted Ireland except through physical force.

"We assert that the settlement of the land question promised by the British government will be attempted only because England fears in her coming troubles the hostility of the race in and out of Ireland, and hopes to secure peace and loyalty by buying a class at the expense of the entire people. We further assert that nothing of this kind can or will prevent the race from keeping up the fight for the establishment of an Irish republic.

"Constitutional agitation tends to denationalize the Irish people and has led people to believe that Ireland was content to remain a part of the British empire, whereas her people would be satisfied with nothing less than an Irish republic. There is evidence of a revival of the militant spirit in Ireland, and this spirit has been aroused in the Irish race in America to a greater extent than ever.

"The Irish race in America, too, is aroused to the necessity of combining with true Americans and citizens of other origins to frustrate the attempts of England to commit the United States to policies calculated to serve purely British purposes and to embroil this republic with nations which were friendly when America needed friends and England was hostile.

"We firmly believe that the British empire has entered on the downward path leading to final dismemberment, and that a wise and resolute use of its ever-increasing difficulties will give Ireland her final opportunity. We counsel no rash or premature action, but we insist that Ireland's true interests demand that the world be told that she will not barter her allenable right for any half measure or for tardy redress of grievances."

A plan for the establishment of an international university for the development of trained rescuers of humanity was announced by Gen. William Booth of the Salvation army at a meeting in the Academy of Music tonight. "A university of the science of humanity," he said, "where men and women can be trained to reclaim depraved women, criminals, and drunkards—that's what I want now. I mean a great institution with its main establishments in London and New York, corelated with branches in Melbourne, Toronto, Berlin, and Paris, from which thousands of Salvation army workers shall be sent to the submerged masses each year, skilled in every know method of rescuing human beings from the underworld of despair."

Plans School for Rescuers of Humanity.

Gen. Booth presided at three farewell meetings in the Academy of Music today to mark the close of his five months' visit to this country. During his stay he has delivered addresses in fifty-two cities. At the night meeting the Academy was filled to overflowing. The general will address his last meeting in this country tomorrow.

At their home at 36 West Fifty-first street today a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer Jr. The boy weighs twelve pounds. Mrs. Havemeyer was Miss Charlotte Whiting when she was married to Havemeyer three years ago. The first child was a girl and is now about 1 year old.

In an accounting rendered yesterday by Elizabeth S. Potter, wife of Bishop Potter, it came to light that for years she has been running both a carpenter and plumbing shop.

Wife of Bishop Potter Is Plumber and Carpenter.

When Mrs. Potter's first husband, Alfred Corning Clark, died, the management of his estate fell upon her. Among the property was an unimproved block on Central Park West, running from Eighty-fifth to Eighty-sixth street, and to Columbus avenue.

She promptly decided to erect houses all along the fronts of the blocks and gave a contract for supplying most of the building materials to a contractor. She determined, however, to have all the carpentering and plumbing done under her own supervision and established a carpenter shop and a plumbing store and engaged the necessary workmen.

By this means she saved thousands of dollars to the estate. One of her sons, Stephen C. Clark, is about to become of age, so an accounting of the estate was rendered yesterday before Edward L. Barris as referee. In his report to the Supreme court he declares Mrs. Potter's accounts correct in every particular and praises her management of the estate.

Ethel Bowman, who is 20 years old, walked on last Thursday for the first time in her life. She is the daughter of A. H. Bowman of Plainfield, N. J., and soon after her birth paralysis developed in her ankles. As she grew up she managed to get about the house in braces and on crutches, but she had to be lifted in and out of chairs and to and from her bed. A strong nurse was always with her. The successes of Dr. Lorenz reawakened hope in Mr. Bowman, and he had his daughter carried to the Hahnemann hospital in this city.

Walks for First Time After Twenty Years.

After suitable preparations Dr. G. W. Roberts cut the ligaments and tendons about her ankles. On Thursday, the twenty-first day after the operation, the plaster casts were removed and Miss Bowman was able to walk. She uses a stick and a crutch, but says she feels sure she will soon be able to discard them both and walk as well as other people do.

The men who put nickels in collection plates again engaged the attention of the Rev. Dr. Parkhurst in his sermon tonight. Parkhurst said that a man listens with attention to the eloquent exposition of the duty of carrying the gospel to the ends of the earth, subduing the whole world to the gracious reign of Jesus Christ, and, when the plate is passed, he lays upon it a dirty nickel. That nickel, he said, marks the distance in the point of moral sensibility between that of a man and an ox, viewing the sunset and seeing nothing. We do not blame the ox for having eyes lit with the beauteous tints of the twilight and the night sheen of all the stars without being thrilled with them. You cannot wring soul entrancing music from a violin that has no strings on it or that has strings muffled or snapped. The ox in the congregation is a fact to be accepted.

STUBBORN FIRE SMOKES OUT ANNEX HOTEL GUESTS AND RESULTS IN THE INJURY OF SEVERAL FIREMEN.

Seeing that escape from a team of horses that a coachman was driving at high speed toward them was impossible Mrs. Thomas Walsh of 446 West Forty-ninth street today quickly placed herself alongside the baby carriage in which was her 2 year old daughter Lucy, and leaving on the other side of it her daughter Helen, 4 years old. She was hurled with the children under the horses' feet and the wheels of the carriage. The horses struck Mrs. Walsh first, as she intended they should, and she was thrown over on the baby's carriage. The animals seemed to trample on all of them, and men and women shrieked as they saw the horses and carriage pass over the woman and children.

Woman to Save Children Gets in Way of Horses.

Lucy was badly hurt and her right leg broken above the knee, her scalp was cut, and her face was torn in several places.

Mrs. Walsh's right shoulder was much bruised, her face was lacerated, and one of the carriage wheels had run over her right hand, bruising and gashing it. The driver was arrested.

One policeman's jaw was broken with a baseball bat, two other policemen were bruised and battered and their uniforms were torn, and a dozen or so Scandinavians, who live in the region of Second avenue and Twenty-eighth street, suffered black eyes and bruised heads as the result of a riot today at the street corner mentioned. The reserves of the East Thirty-fifth street police were called out and six prisoners, one of them a woman, were taken. It all started through a street fight.

Some of the residents near Tompkins square were celebrating over a wedding today while others were mourning at a wake resulting directly from the wedding, which took place last night. Miss Phoebe Myerowitz, who lives at 359 East Tenth street, was the bride. When the bridal party left Miss Myerowitz's house for the synagogue rice was showered on them and some one on the roof of a house threw a brick at them. The police think that it was thrown by a rejected suitor of the bride. It struck the head of Dora Sannels, 40 years old, of 355 East Tenth street, who was in the crowd in front of the house. She died this morning of a fractured skull.

A mob of 200 Italians, armed with knives, chased James Traphagan, a motorman, half a mile through the main street of New Rochelle this morning and tried to kill him because his car ran down Mrs. Nicholas Voaro and her two children. One of the children, Antonio, was instantly killed. The mother, with a baby in her arms, in attempting to save Antonio, was knocked down and sustained a fractured skull, from which she will probably die. The baby was seriously injured. The mob pursued the motorman to the home of Mrs. David Hewit, who barred the doors and telephoned to the police. They drove the crowd away and took Traphagan to the police station.

Mrs. Ellen Gurry, 31 Beck street, the Bronx, was the complainant against her 15 year old son James in the police court today on a charge of stealing a gold watch from his father. She said he pawned it for $45 and with the money went to Washington. Mrs. Gurry wanted to withdraw the charge against her son, but the magistrate refused on account of the record of young Gurry, who a year ago stole $300 from his father and went to Liverpool.

Spectators lining the speedway today saw Edward Doyle, a coal shoveler, fall from a barge into the Harlem river and float away with the tide. The man nearest to Doyle threw a bucket to him, and, partially buoyed up by this, Doyle went on with the current. A mounted policeman galloped along the bank to the boathouse a mile away, where a boatman put out and brought Doyle ashore. A doctor who had been telephoned for arrived too late. The man was dead from the shock of immersion and the exposure.

RICH WIDOW WEDS DRIVER

LIVERYMAN ELOPES WITH MRS. JANE HENDRICKSON.

Son-in-Law, Rector of a Fashionable Episcopal Church, Confirms the Report—She Is 58 Years Old and Weighs 300 Pounds—He was a Widower with Six Children—Rides About Brooklyn Result in Love and They Elope to the South.

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—It became known today that Mrs. Jane Hendrickson, a 300 pound widow of 58 years, worth several millions, and mother of Mrs. Spencer S. Roche, the wife of the rector of the fashionable St. Mark's Episcopal church in Brooklyn, had eloped with her livery driver, Patrick McHugh. They are on their honeymoon trip in the south. The elopement was confirmed by the Rev. Dr. Roche at his residence, 200 Adelphi street. He said:

"Yes, they are married. That is all there is to say," and sadly shook his head.

Mrs. Hendrickson lived at the St. George hotel, in Brooklyn borough, and McHugh was the best and most careful driver in a fashionable livery stable near the hotel. For that reason he got the job of taking the widow, who is timid, out for her daily drives. He was a widower, past the middle age, and has six children.

Sends Back Other Drivers.

Once another driver was sent to Mrs. Hendrickson and she promptly sent the rig back, refusing to ride behind any one but McHugh.

Last August McHugh, who suddenly began to wear swell clothes, resigned and only reappeared in the old neighborhood when he called on Mrs. Hendrickson at the hotel. His calls were regarded about the hotel as those of a servant or agent and aroused no suspicion of the truth.

Then came a surprise, when the widow informed her daughter and son-in-law of her intention to marry McHugh. They were bitterly opposed and used every argument to prevent it. This caused an estrangement between the mother and daughter and a more ardent attachment between Mrs. Hendrickson and McHugh.

Announces Southern Trip.

Three weeks ago Mrs. Hendrickson suddenly announced that she was going to Atlantic city and then through the south, and that on her return she would go abroad for a year. She left no address, and her mail accumulated at the hotel. The carriage again drove up from the livery stable, this time with McHugh inside, wearing a tall hat without a cockade. They were driven to the Liberty street ferry, and this was the last seen of them in New York. A telegram from Atlantic city informed Mrs. Roche of the marriage, although nothing was said of where or when the ceremony was performed.

DEATH HIDES A MYSTERY.

REFINED WOMAN KILLS HERSELF AT HADDONFIELD, N. J.

Strange Guest at a Fashionable Boarding House Takes Chloroform and Leaves a Letter Saying She Is the Last of a Distinguished Family and Is Too Lonely to Live—Leaves $75 with Which to Pay Funeral Expenses.

Haddonfield, N. J., March 1.—[Special.]—A well dressed, refined woman, who had evidently lived in better circumstances and gave the name of Mrs. Charlotte G. Wellington, committed suicide at Young's cottage, a fashionable boarding house, in this city this morning by taking chloroform. The woman came to the cottage a week ago last Thursday apparently in good health and spirits. She left a note to the proprietor of the boarding house, in which she said:

"I am the last of a distinguished family left so alone that I am tired of life. Will you kindly see that my remains are decently buried? I inclose money to pay expenses. My clothes give to the poor. Please keep this as quiet as possible."

The body was found by one of the servant girls who went to call her to breakfast. Receiving no response to knocks she opened the door and saw Mrs. Welington lying across the foot of the bed with a half emptied chloroform bottle nearby, which told how the woman had taken her life. She had dressed herself carefully.

Mrs. Welington was about 50 years old, with dark hair, slightly gray, 5 feet tall, and weighing about 160 pounds. She left two letters, one to Mrs. Young and the other to the undertaker. The one to Mrs. Young contained the $75 and the direction that it be used to defray her funeral expenses. The only other valuable was a gold watch. Little is known of the woman here. She had recently been at Mount Holly, Medford, and Marlton, and in conversation with other boarders spoke quite frequently of having passed part of her life in Albany, N. Y., and Boston.

STREETS ARE SKATING PONDS.

Residents of the Southwest Side Denounce Sewer System That Has Caused Floods.

Skaters could be seen in almost any street of the southwest side yesterday, the rain and melted snow having flooded the streets and left them like ponds, which froze over when the colder weather came. Basements throughout the district are flooded and residents are loud in their denunciation of a sewer system that makes such conditions possible.

Before the freeze came the water was highest in the district between Forty-seventh and Fifty-fifth streets, and Western and Maplewood avenues. At Fifty-first and Western avenue a whole block was under water.

The Western avenue ditch overflowed and submerged the ground for three blocks to the west and flooded the park and boulevard to the east.

Residents of the flooded district have been trying for ten years to have a main sewer put in Western avenue, but the owners of large tracts and acre property farther south have opposed the proposition.

MATCHES BLAMED FOR A FIRE.

Boys Start a Blaze and Justice T. D. Hurley Turns in an Alarm.

While playing with matches in a vacant building at 3830 Calumet avenue last evening three boys accidentally set fire to the structure and then ran out shouting fire." Justice T. D. Hurley, who was one of the first to hear the cries, sent in an alarm and then entered the building to investigate. The blaze was extinguished after a damage of $50 had been done.

Carelessness of a cook at St. Luke's hospital yesterday morning caused a blaze in a pan of grease and an alarm was sent in. No damage was done.

Crossed wires ignited the roof of the fire alarm headquarters adjoining the Englewood police station, but engine company 51 extinguished the blaze with little difficulty.

LOSES FOOT BY BEING GALLANT

C. E. Uncather Carries Package to Woman in Train Leaving Hyde Park Station and Is Hurt.

Through an effort to return to an unknown woman a package she left in the Hyde Park station of the Illinois Central railway Saturday night Clarence E. Uncather suffered injuries which yesterday made the amputation of his left foot necessary. He is at St. Luke's hospital in a serious condition.

A suburban train was leaving the station when a woman on the platform, it is said, remembered leaving a package on a bench within. She cried out her loss, and Uncather ran to the train with the forgotten article. He tossed it to the woman, but slipped and fell and his foot was crushed under the wheels.

Uncather lives at 7213 Greenwood avenue.

QUIGLEY TO SAY LAST FAREWELL.

Good-by Services for Chicago Archbishop Will Be Held in Buffalo Today.

THOUSANDS WILL ATTEND

Leaves March 9 and Will Be Escorted by Numerous Clergy and Bishop Muldoon.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 1.—[Special.]—Archbishop Quigley will make his formal farewell to the diocese of Buffalo tomorrow. In commemoration there will be farewell services at St. Joseph's cathedral at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, at which a large number of the dignitaries of the church and the laity will be present, and the archbishop will officiate at pontifical mass.

In his honor the chimes of St. Joseph's will be rung for the second time in their history; the only other time they were used was to usher in last Christmas. The chimes will begin their music at 10:15 o'clock and will be rung for about ten minutes, stopping just before the service commences.

Father M. Connery, administrator of the diocese, will deliver the farewell address for the clergy, and Anselm J. Smith will perform that office for the laity. Archbishop Quigley will then respond.

Many Will Be Present.

Father John D. Biden, the rector of St. Joseph's cathedral, has sent out invitations to the mass, and the cathedral will be taxed to its capacity with those anxious to do honor to the archbishop and to say farewell and wish him godspeed in his new field. The service will be attended by priests of most of the parishes in western New York, the ministers of the various churches of all denominations in this city, and by the mayor and a great number of the city officials, including the board of councilmen, the board of aldermen, and the heads of many departments.

The music has been arranged with special care. Admission to the cathedral will be by ticket, and already thousands have been refused admission through lack of room.

Spends Busy Day.

The archbishop said mass at 7 o'clock this morning at the bishop's chapel, his only official church act, the rest of the day being devoted to receiving callers among the priests and laymen. Many other matters connected with the severing of his connection with the diocese kept him busy and will occupy his attention up to the hour of his leaving the city. He had expected to go to New York for a few hours this week, but the time will not permit. He will not leave Buffalo until a week from tomorrow.

Many Will Accompany Him.

When the archbishop leaves Buffalo for his charge in Chicago it is probable that he will go by a special train and be accompanied by about thirty of the synodical officers of the Buffalo diocese. Among these will be the Very Rev. M. P. Connery, two deans, the Rt.-Rev. Mgr. Cannon of Lockport, the Very Rev. Thomas P. Brougham of Batavia, the six members of the bishop's council, the ten irremovable rectors, Father Walsh, the chancellor of the diocese, the synodical examiners, the school superintendent, the Rev. Edward Gibbons, the parochial school examiners, the officers of the matrimonial court, and a number of priests. Bishop Muldoon of Chicago is expected to reach Buffalo some time this week to escort the archbishop to his new charge.

MAKE ORGANIZED EFFORT TO IMPROVE THE GHETTO.

Members of Educational League Urge People of Wealth to Give Money to Assist Young in This District.

Through the agency of the People's Educational league an effort is being made to elevate the conditions of both young and old in what is known as the Ghetto district. The wealthy people of Chicago will be urged to spend money in helping the young in this district to start right in life.

"It is hoped that the citizens who today are spending large sums of money on charities," said one of the workers in the organization, "will soon realize that it is wiser to spend money in starting the young right than to permit them to smother their bodies and souls and then to build prisons, asylums, and charitable institutions for them.

"Outside of school hours little is done for the moral and civic training of the children. They are left to the blighting influences of the streets, alleys, and gutters. Much of the school training is futile because of these degrading and soul dwarfing surroundings."

The board of education probably will permit the league to use the three school buildings in the district for the purposes of lectures, musicals, gymnastic drills, conferences, and indoor games. Miss G. L. Mount of the Maxwell street settlement, 270 Maxwell street, is secretary of the committee in charge of the meetings.

BUYS SIEGEL SAVINGS BANK.

Central Trust Company of Illinois Secures the Business and Assumes All Deposit Obligations.

The Henry Siegel & Co. Savings bank has been bought by the Central Trust company of Illinois. The latter assumes all deposit obligations and will carry on the business as a part of its present savings bank.

This step was taken because among other questions involved in the pending suit of Baumgardner against Siegel, Cooper & Co. it was alleged that the bank was a department in the store of Siegel, Cooper & Co., and that the latter had no authority under its charter to carry on a banking business. On the other hand, it was contended that the Henry Siegel & Co. Savings bank was a copartnership composed of Henry Siegel, Frank E. Vogel, and Isaac Keim, and there was no connection between the bank and Siegel, Cooper & Co.

But Henry Siegel and his associates, to prevent any misunderstanding on the part of its depositors, and to protect them from becoming involved in the pending litigation, and to insure the absolute protection of their interests, resolved to retire from the banking business. Therefore they turned over their business to the Central Trust company of Illinois. The latter company received cash assets equal to the total amount of deposits and assumes all obligations to the depositors.

DEFINES ELEMENTS OF SUCCESS

Judge Orrin N. Carter Tells Young People That Their Quest Should Be for Character.

Judge O. N. Carter, in addressing a meeting of young people in the Centennial Baptist church last night, said that money and fame and power do not constitute the best kind of success.

"The quest should be for character," he said, "and that character should contain three essentials—love of home, confidence in your country, and trust in an Almighty Being. Then you will have the success worth the effort.

"Young people must adopt Abraham Lincoln's motto, 'Aim at the best, and take the next best if you can't get it.' It is proper to compromise, but always make that compromise a step up, and never a step down."

HAIL SAVER OF SEVEN UP.

LOCAL CARD PLAYERS PRAISE OKLAHOMA STATESMAN.

Proposed Legislative Amendment to Rules of Time Tried Game Welcomed as Solution of the Momentous Problem—Ex-Speaker Sherman Burns Up Telephone Wires to Lay Figurative Wreath at Feet of the Solon.

"Another Daniel come to judgment!"

Such was the opinion expressed by Chicago card players yesterday of the author of the bill in the Oklahoma legislature to amend the game of seven up.

For decades the peace of many communities has been threatened by disputes over the momentous problem whether the gift of one point accords victory to the player who only needed that one to win. And here comes a patriot with the solution.

There seems to be but one criticism on the statesman's measure—it fails to provide suitable penalty for the player who insists on profiting by the graft in spite of the law's provision.

Text of the Amendment.

Representative Wood of Pottawatomie county is the man who has jumped into the breach to save his fellow men. His bill proposes "to amend section 3 of article 1 of the game of seven up," and reads as follows:

"That hereafter, when in the course of said game one party begs, and the giving of one would put the party so begging out, the other party may give him one, and the one so given shall not operate to put the beggar out if the giver himself goes out on the hand on which one was given; but the one so given shall have the effect to win the game should the giver himself fall on the said hand to go out."

Hailed by Ex-Speaker Sherman.

Even before the local card players could express their indorsement of the bill, the telephone bell rang and from Springfield came the voice of ex-Speaker Lawrence Y. Sherman in approval.

"The custom of 'niggering' out in a game of seven up," said Mr. Sherman, "is reprehensible in the extreme, and has endangered the success of the game. It was enough to turn any man against the game to hold an ace, deuce, jack and ten spot of the trump turned and be unable to give one because his opponent already had six points. Yet there are many men at Washington debating as to whether Oklahoma is qualified for statehood."

Lieut. Andy Rohan, who has played the game for thirty years, said the law ought to be made uniform throughout the United States.

"It's a good thing," declared the lieutenant. "Under the present rules a man finds himself with a dead hand so often it tends to turn him against the game."

"That man Wood is on the right track," said Detective John De Souza. "He's wise to the needs of the game."

Too Deep for Harlan.

"The proposed amendment is too deep for me," said John Maynard Harlan, who is just now absorbed in the game of politics. "I haven't played seven up for a long time, but I can recall several instances where such a law would have eased my feelings. Now, if it were poker—"

"The fact is," said Corporation Counsel Charles M. Walker, "I don't play cards, and probably am unable to grasp the merits of the measure."

"Cinch is my game," said Jailer John L. Whitman. "I guess they play seven up more in Oklahoma than they do in Chicago, anyway."

"We play skat and bridge whist at the University club," said G. A. Carpenter, "and so far have not felt the need of legislative regulation. Seven up is a game for the old timers."

"I don't know much about any game, except penochle," said John P. Hopkins. "Possibly they need a law on the game of seven up in Oklahoma, for card disputes in Oklahoma many times have a serious finish."

Mangler Alone Protests

"The proposed amendment is bad," declared William Mangler. "It wouldn't be seven up. The element of uncertainty is what makes the game. The old fashioned way is best."

Dr. O. S. Burnett is the best player of seven up in the county jail. He admits it. Said he:

"I think the proposed amendment is a good one. That point is frequently in dispute. A law would end the suspense and uncertainty. The dealer often gets the worst of it when the game is played according to the present rules. He can't give his opponent out, you see."

SAYS HIS BROTHER ROBBED HIM

Man Who Was Beaten Tells the Police a Relative Made the Attack.

Charges that his brother robbed and beat him are made by John Mulviska, who was found in a badly battered condition at Indiana and State streets last evening. Mulviska could not talk English and the police of the East Chicago avenue station were unable to get a definite understanding of his charge. He says he lives in South Chicago.

Morris Larsen, 147 Aberdeen street, was attacked in Monroe street, near Clinton, by a man who struck him in the face and demanded his money. Larsen was staggered by the blow, but recovered and struggled with the robber, who drew a revolver and tried to shoot. Larsen struck the weapon from the fellow's hand and then chased him for three blocks.

In the arrest of Peter O'Toole and John Howard on a charge of holding up Joseph Friedman's saloon at 673 Austin avenue the police of the West Chicago avenue station believe they have caught holdup men who have had a number of victims on the northwest side in the last two months.

John Wedergrand is locked up at the East Chicago avenue police station charged with having stolen $130 from Martin Petersen, Cedar Rapids, Ia. It was the old story of the "new friend."

William Babb Fires Five Times at Samuel Southall, One of the Bullets Taking Effect.

William Babb fired five shots at Samuel Southall in a barber shop at 333 Randolph street yesterday, and one of the bullets struck Southall in the right leg. Babb then ran from the place and hid among a lot of barrels across the street, but was arrested by Detective Barry. The two men had quarreled amout a woman. Both are negroes.

In an argument over the payment of a bill James Scallce, a saloonkeeper at 380 Clark street, shot Frank Scarafino, a customer at Scallce's saloon, yesterday afternoon, inflicting a wound in the thigh. Scallce was arrested.

Frank Kopka, who shot Emma Schoeffenberg at a Milwaukee avenue dance on Saturday night, probably will be released on bond today, as the wounded girl is improving, and the police are satisfied the shooting was accidental.

NORTHCOTT WANTS TO BE JUDGE

Lieutenant Governor of Illinois to Be a Candidate in His District in June Election.

Springfield, Ill., March 1.—[Special.]—Lieut. Gov. Northcott is to be candidate for judge in his judicial circuit. The election is to be held in June, and nominations will soon be made. There are a number of candidates in the district, and Northcott's candidacy is most surprising to his friends. The pay of a circuit judge in a country circuit is anything but remunerative in view of the hard work involved. His friends say he hopes ultimately to secure an appointment to the federal bench.

BURDICK MURDER SUSPECTS TAKEN.

Buffalo Police Make Secret Arrest of Two Men Whose Names Are Concealed.

WOMAN IS QUESTIONED.

Rigid Inquiry Being Made Into Movements of A. R. Pennell and Wife of Dead Man.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 2, 3 a. m.—[Special.]—Detectives working on the Burdick murder case at 1 o'clock this morning took into custody two men who had just left a train at the New York Central station. They were placed in carriages and hurried away, probably to a point where District Attorney Coatsworth was in waiting, as he was neither at his office nor his home. Detectives were also sent away on another clew, which promised an arrest, so it was claimed, in a short time.

Woman Closely Questioned.

The district attorney and the heads of the detective and police force for nearly two hours closely questioned a woman in connection with the murder.

She was not under arrest, but it is stated that her examination may lead to an arrest.

It is said that the woman, whose identity is known only to those who were in the room, has figured in the case heretofore. Her statement, it is also stated on good authority, places the murder in an entirely different light from any of the theories previously advanced by the police.

Look Up Pennell's Record.

A searching inquiry into the record and movements of Lawyer Arthur R. Pennell is being conducted. It was disclosed that Mr. Pennell some time during the month of December hired a suite of offices in the Ellicott Square No. 353. It was announced that the offices were for the "Buffalo General Collection Agency," in which name the lease was made. Two months' rent was paid in advance for January and February. Just what business was conducted there does not appear. It was said by occupants of adjoining offices that they never saw any trace of the ordinary business which would be expected to be carried on in such an office.

In January the name, "Buffalo Collection Agency," which had been painted on the door, was scrubbed off. The office furniture was allowed to remain and the business was continued without a name.

Trace Wife to Pennell's Office.

Detectives in the employ of Edwin L. Burdick at various times followed Mrs. Burdick to the Ellicott square and then lost sight of her. Agents in the same employ also followed Pennell, and tracked him to the Ellicott square, always at about the time that Mrs. Burdick was there.

This incident was made the matter of conference between Mr. Burdick and his attorney, George C. Miller, on the night of the murder in Mr. Miller's office.

Pennell had taken extraordinary precautions to keep the matter a secret, and as far as can be ascertained never told any of his business acquaintances that he had an office other than his suite in the Austin building. There is no evidence of any particular business being transacted by the Buffalo General Collection agency.

Plans to Abduct Children.

It is known also that an effort had been made to abduct the Burdick children and that Burdick himself was in constant fear of their being abducted. The police and district attorney are more hopeful tonight than they have been at any time since the murder was committed.

The body of the murdered man was removed yesterday from the Ashland avenue home to Canastota, N. Y., near Syracuse, where it will be buried.

SHEET METAL WORKERS STRIKE

Demand Advance in Wages and Eight Hour Day in Wilkesbarre, Pa.—Building Trades Are Out.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 1.—At a meeting here tonight of the tinners and sheet metal workers it was unanimously decided not to report for work tomorrow. A large number of bricklayers, plasterers, and stone masons are also idle through sympathy with the carpenters. Building operations in the city are now practically at a standstill.

Labor Notes.

More than 2,000 painters and decorators in the Pittsburg district will strike this morning for an advance of wages from $3.20 to $3.60 per day.

The joint conference of the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and the Amalgamated Woodworkers at Indianapolis has not settled the question of jurisdiction which has been causing trouble ever since the organization of the woodworkers into a separate union.

The Lowell (Mass.) Textile council met at New Haven, Conn., yesterday, and has asked the treasurers of the seven cotton corporations of that city for an advance of 10 per cent in wages, to take effect March 31. The demand affects 18,000 operatives.

Three hundred weavers employed in the Bristol cotton mills will strike this morning. The trouble is based on complaints of poor yarn, poor filling, poor fixing, high speeded looms, and changes in style.

The Building Trades council of Muncie, Ind., has ordered a strike of all carpenters, plasterers, tinners, lathers, electricians, painters, stonecutters, and building laborers in Muncie. The carpenters demand an increase from 30 cents to 35 cents per hour.

Unless a substantial increase in wages is granted 10,000 men employed by St. Louis brickmaking concerns by Tuesday a strike is expected.

As a result of the recent strike at Waterbury, Conn., Prosecuting Attorney Durant was attacked by two men yesterday and badly beaten.

The Portland and Telluride chlorination mills at Colorado City, Colo., were completely closed by the mill and smelter men's union, which two weeks ago began a strike against the Standard for an increase of wages.

COLIMA STILL IN ERUPTION.

Fifty Miles of Territory in Vicinity of Mexican Volcano Covered with Dense Pall of Smoke.

Guadalajara, Mexico, March 1.—The rain of ashes from Mont Colima still continues. Many plantations situated in the rich valleys to the eastward of the volcano have been completely devastated. Lava is pouring down the eastern slope of the mountain. The seismic disturbances show no indication of decreasing in violence. Every one is camping out of doors. A pall of smoke hangs close to the earth for fifty miles around the volcano. The light of the sun is shut out and lighted lamps are required throughout the day. The cathedrals are crowded with worshipers day and night. Reports have been received of the destruction of many buildings in the towns of Tonita, Santa Maria, Canada, Autlah, and Naranja by earthquake shocks.

END OF ADDICKS WAR IN SIGHT.

Delaware Legislature Expected to Elect Two United States Senators at Joint Session Today.

Dover, Del., March 1.—[Special.]—Two United States senators may be elected tomorrow and the long battle with J. E. Addicks ended. The end will be a compromise. It is expected that the men elected will be James Frank Allee, chairman of the union faction, and Louis H. Ball, chairman of the regular party. The compromise, it is stated, was the work of Senator Hanna, who has been telegraphing to members of the legislature all day. A representative of the national republican committee is expected to be here tomorrow.

APPROVES PLAN OF FOWLER BILL.

House Committee Makes Favorable Report on Proposed New Law.

AVOIDS TYING UP MONEY.

Bond Security for Government Deposits in National Banks to Be Eliminated.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—The house committee on banking and currency today by a vote of 7 to 2—a strict party vote—authorized a favorable report on the currency bill introduced yesterday by Representative Fowler, chairman of the committee. In reporting the bill the committee says:

"In addition to providing for the issue and circulation of national bank notes, the object of this measure is to immediately put back into circulation any money the government may collect through its customs receipts, as well as through its collections from internal revenue.

"The available cash balance now in the treasury is $222,468,878. Of this amount there is now in national bank depositories $150,472,454, leaving a net balance in the treasury of $71,994,454. The amount of money now in the treasury available for all purposes is $71,994,454, from which amount, if we deduct $50,000,000 as a necessary working balance for the treasury, we shall have only $21,994,454 to meet the demand on the treasury growing out of the Panama transaction, which will call for $50,000,000.

Treasury Not Restricted.

"It is, therefore, evident that either the government must at once call for $28,000,000 from the banks, for appropriating $50,000,000 from the amount now in the treasury leaves a working balance of only about $22,000,000, which must be supplemented by collections from the various resources until the amount in the treasury shall be brought up to $50,000,000 before an appropriation can be made for any other purpose, without infringing upon what has generally been considered a proper working balance—viz.: $50,000,000.

"It is, therefore, evident that the government will not have any additional money to deposit with national banks for the next six or eight months, if indeed it shall have collected as much as $30,000,000 within that time.

What New Measure Will Do.

"The amount now deposited with national banks is $143,111,598, for which the government holds government bonds as security amounting to about $125,000,000 and about $22,000,000 of other bonds. The measure now submitted provides that the government may deposit any public money, including this $143,000,000, with national banks, in no case exceeding in amount 75 per cent of the paid up and unimpaired capital of any national bank, without exacting government or other bonds, but the government shall have a first lien upon the assets of such bank and shall receive interest on such deposits at the rate of 2 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of January and July.

"It will be seen that the effect of this provision will be, within the next few months, say, certainly within a year, to release the total amount of bonds now deposited to secure government deposits—viz.: $125,000,000 of government bonds and $22,000,000 of state and other bonds now held by the treasury in addition thereto, as security for such deposits. The bonds so released may then be used by the banks for further increasing their bond secured circulation, which will undoubtedly be much needed during the coming fall months.

Proposed Plan Is Safe.

"It is clear that the plan proposed is perfectly safe, and that if the rate of interest had been 2 per cent and the accounts were brought down to date the amount that the government would have received during the last twenty-four years and the bill reported been in operation, would have been nearly $50,000,000, and the government would not have lost a cent.

"The government should cease to be a disturbing factor in our business affairs. It was this thought that moved your committee to fix the rate of interest instead of allowing it to become a variable quantity, to be increased or decreased at the pleasure of the secretary, a circumstance that must necessarily result in intense rivalry, bitter criticism, and constantly subject the treasury to endless scandal."

The Payne bill was not called up in the committee today. The friends of the new Fowler bill will urge its adoption instead of the Aldrich bill should that measure come over from the senate, and also instead of the Payne bill.

Mr. Fowler introduced a resolution today providing for a rule for consideration of the bill reported today. This resolution was referred to the committee on rules.

REPORT WHITE HOUSE CHANGES

Architects Give Details of Extensive Repairs Made on the Executive Mansion.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt has transmitted to the senate a statement showing the difficulties encountered in remodeling the White house. The report is signed by McKim, Meade & White, the architects who were selected to restore the executive mansion, and is addressed to the president. It says:

"Recognizing the feeling prevalent among the people, you stipulated that none of the essential features of the White house should be sacrificed in the restoration; that the nation's historic house should be left intact, and even the state rooms should continue to be known by names made familiar by long usage."

In explaining the condition of the White house it is remarked:

"There was scarcely a room in the house in which the plaster was in good condition. In a number of instances as many as five layers of paper were found, and when the paper was removed the plaster came also.

"The roof drainage had been carried through the roof and thence on top of the attic floor to central points, descending to the ground through the house itself. The conductors were troughs hollowed out of logs, and, as the logs showed signs of wear, they were lined with copper. These troughs were replaced with suitable iron pipes carried down along the external walls. The roof itself, which, under a fresh coat of paint, appeared to be in good condition, was found to be in such bad shape as to require almost entire renewal.

"In short, it was necessary to reconstruct the interior of the White house from basement to attic in order to secure comfort, safety, and the necessary sanitary conditions. A fair idea of the extent to which it was necessary to carry the work of reconstruction may be seen with reference to the accompanying plates."

A detailed statement of the expenditures will be sent to congress later, but the report shows that the aggregate was within the $475,000 appropriated by congress, and a small balance is available for additional furnishings.

A Home and Competency in the South.

"Southern Farm Lands," "Mississippi Valley Cotton Lands," "Truck Farming in the South," "Fruit Growing in the South," "Stock Raising in the South," "Grasses and Forage Plants," "Soils of Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, and Louisiana," "Dairying in the South"—these are the titles of circulars issued by the passenger department of the Illinois Central, copies of which, together with additional circulars that may be issued from time to time, will be forwarded on application to H. J. Phelps, C. P. & T. A., Illinois Central R. R., 90 Adams street, Chicago. The circulars refer particularly to the states of Kentucky, West Tennessee, Mississippi, and Louisiana.

BUSY CONGRESS NEAR END

RECORD A HISTORY OF ROOSEVELT'S ADMINISTRATION.

Session of National Senate and House, Which Will Close Wednesday Noon, Marked by Clean, Wholesome Legislation—Work Reviewed at Length—Anti-Trust Policy of the President Carried Out—Way Paved for Panama Canal—Other Matters.

been left for the next congress, with the assurance that wise, conservative action probably will be taken before the conclusion of the first administration of President Roosevelt.

This congress has utterly failed to do anything in the direction of reciprocity with foreign nations. The treaties now before the senate are all untouched. They are not dead, exactly, but have been in a comatose condition since the beginning of the congress. Opinions will differ as to the wisdom of this inaction, of course, but it has largely been the result of a strong feeling in congress that tariff schedules should not be altered by the executive branch of the government, but that congress should in the near future enact laws looking toward statutory reciprocity with foreign countries by means of a maximum and minimum tariff, or some similar device.

In connection with the foreign relations of the country the Fifty-seventh congress has had much to do in adjusting several delicate complications. In the first place, the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was ratified, which paved the way to the Panama canal. Cuba has been given independence, and has ceded to the United States a naval station and coaling port, which were the last features to satisfy the conditions of the Platt amendment. A treaty was also ratified to purchase the Danish West Indies, and, although Denmark finally failed to take similar action, the purpose of the American government was clearly established.

Commercial reciprocity with Cuba is still hanging in the balance. It has been before the Fifty-seventh congress during its entire life, and it, too, goes as a legacy to the Fifty-eighth congress, with reasonable assurances that the senate will ratify the Cuban treaty within a few weeks.

With regard to the insular possessions the Fifty-seventh congress has done most of its duties. Civil government was provided for the Philippine islands, and this has been supplemented by a stable currency system. A moderate tariff bill for the Philippines has thus far failed of passing, and is probably in a hopeless condition, owing to the opposition of certain protected interests in this country.

Temporary government has also recently been provided for Guam and Tutuila, while a multiplicity of laws have gradually been extended to Porto Rico and Hawaii, both of which have been actually represented in congress.

To round out its record of successful foreign negotiations the senate ratified the treaty establishing a tribunal for the settlement of the Alaskan boundary dispute.

In the way of practical government there is an excellent record for the members of the Fifty-seventh congress to look back upon. They have established a department of commerce and labor, provided for a permanent census, regulated the manufacture of oleomargarine, and inaugurated a system of irrigation for arid lands. The Fifty-seventh congress has taken a long step forward in the way of the development of the rural free delivery system, and more than doubled the appropriation of money for that purpose, having demonstrated the fact that the delivery of letters along the countryside is no longer an experiment, but a recognized duty the centers of population owe to the agricultural districts.

Some excellent legislation has been enacted also in the direction of maintaining and improving the standard of American citizenship. A stringent law has been passed for the punishment of anarchists and assassins of public men. The Chinese exclusion laws have been renewed and strengthened. A new immigration law is now in conference, and, while it fails to apply an educational standard, it is at least an excellent administrative measure, and strengthens the hands of the immigration bureau. In the same line of these efforts of the federal government to protect the states is the reorganization of the marine hospital service and the establishment of a national quarantine system.

While the fifty-seventh congress has paid more than usual attention to building up the navy and perfecting the organization of the army, it has at the same time passed a much needed general militia law, which will give the volunteers uniform equipment and put them more directly under the control of the national government. In the same line with this action is the passage of a general staff law, which gives the regular army better centralization and more nearly equips it for systematic work.

During the period of the fifty-seventh congress money has been freely appropriated providing for the restoration of the White house and the erection of a temporary office building for the president of the United States. This congress has been showing its purpose to spend public money for the erection of government buildings at all centers of population, and more has been done in this direction than during any other two years in the history of the government.

It will also be set down to the credit of the fifty-seventh congress that it removed from the statute books every reminder of the war taxes and that it has not by any affirmative action at least increased the burdens of the people, either by way of customs or internal revenue taxation.

Taken altogether, the subjects mentioned, which are only a small percentage of those actually dealt with by this congress, constitute an extraordinary record, and the fifty-seventh congress will go down in legislative history as one which avoided scandals and disturbances and which did good work for the nation and the people thereof.

It is still last Thursday in the house of representatives. The house was in session for four hours today and for the first time during the life of this congress transacted legislative business on Sunday. Neither the record nor the journal will show that business was done Sunday, as the house is still on the legislative day of Feb. 26 and will so continue until the hour of final adjournment on Wednesday.

SAYS ROOSEVELT IS HALF IRISH.

Capt. Shawe-Taylor Gives Impressions of His Visit to the United States.

LONDON, March 1.—Capt. Shawe-Taylor, secretary of the Dublin Landlord and Tenants' conference, and who has just returned from a visit to the United States, describing this visit tonight, said:

"President Roosevelt, who is himself half an Irishman, and extremely proud of it, received me most cordially. I believe there is nobody in the United States more anxious than he for Ireland's welfare."

Referring to the Dublin conference, Mr. Roosevelt said: "I am not speaking now as a politician when I say that in company with the whole civilized world I heartily welcome the prospect of a final settlement of the Irish land question."

Capt. Shawe-Taylor concluded the interview by saying that during his visit to the United States he met Irishmen of all shades and degrees of political opinion, and, he added: "I have the highest possible authority for making the following statement:

"A final settlement of the land question by removing the barrier now existing between Ireland and England will greatly improve the relations between the United States and England; and will also link in closer friendship Canada to the British empire."

Uruguay Elects a President.

MONTEVIDEO, March 1.—José Batele Ordonez today was elected President of Uruguay.

CONGRESS WORKS PART OF SUNDAY.

Both Branches Still Keep Up the Fiction That It Is Thursday, Feb. 26.

PLANS FOR THREE DAYS.

Program for Remaining Hours of Session Forecasted in House and Senate.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—Both houses of congress were in session today. The senate listened to eulogies on recently deceased members, while the house passed the district of Columbia appropriation bill in the face of democratic filibustering, and advanced the Alaskan homestead bill to the point where a vote will be taken as soon as the house convenes at 11 o'clock tomorrow.

Although it was Sunday by the calendar it will still Thursday, Feb. 26, according to parliamentary fiction. The democrats put a block in the legislative wheel at every opportunity, and it required six roll calls to accomplish what was done today. Large crowds watched the proceedings from the galleries.

Two Measures Considered.

When the house convened the democrats delayed proceedings by insisting on a quorum. The conference report on the District of Columbia bill was taken up, and after considerable democratic obstruction was agreed to by a vote of 144 to 59.

There was another roll call on ordering the previous question on the Alaska homestead bill, which was presented by Mr. Lacey [rep., Ia.]. A half dozen points of order raised by the democrats were ruled out, and the chair declined to entertain all appeals on the ground that they were dilatory. At 3:55 p. m. the house recessed until 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, with the motion to adopt the conference report on the Alaskan bill pending.

Preparing for Emergencies.

A resolution introduced by Representative Dalzell and referred to the committee on rules provides for a joint resolution to continue appropriations in the event of the failure of any of the supply bills to pass at this session. While there is time within which to pass all the appropriation bills, under the conditions now existing in the house the conference reports must be accepted in whole by that branch.

It is reported that there is a disposition on the part of the conferees on one or two of the appropriation bills not to yield, and the aim of the resolution introduced today is to provide against the contingency of a disagreement of any conference committee.

Representative Shattuck, chairman of the immigration committee, introduced a resolution for the consideration of the immigration bill reported from the senate. Another resolution introduced by Representative Gibson of the house committee on invalid pensions contemplates a rule for the consideration of pension bills amended in the senate, under which only a motion to concur will be in order.

Democrats to Filibuster.

The democrats of the house have decided to prosecute their filibuster until congress expires by limitation at noon March 4, and the three remaining days of the session, therefore, promise to be largely repetitions of the last three—that is, all business will have to be transacted in the face of every obstacle which the minority can interpose. But even by the laborious processes to which the majority will be put, it is believed ample time remains to get through the conference reports on the remaining five appropriation bills.

There is slim chance for much beyond that, so far as the house is concerned. Twenty-seven bills with senate amendments are on the speaker's table. One or two of these may get through, but the great majority are doomed to die where they are.

The one bill in which the republican leaders are particularly interested is the Aldrich financial bill, and if it comes over from the senate a way will be found, probably through the operation of a special rule, to secure action on it.

It is believed that the immigration bill which passed the senate yesterday in amended form also will be acted on.

Senate Listens to Eulogies.

The senate spent three hours today in eulogies of four deceased members of the house. Messrs. Martin (Va.), Gallinger (N. H.), Perkins (Cal.), Clay (Ga.), and Daniel (Va.), spoke of the late Peter J. Otey of Virginia.

Messrs. Pritchard (N. C.) and Mallory (Fla.) spoke of the late James Moody of North Carolina.

Messrs. Dolliver (Ia.), Burton (Kas.), and Allison (Ia.) spoke of the late John N. W. Rumple of Iowa.

Messrs. Turner (Washington), Mitchell (Ore.), Perkins (Cal.), Du Bois (Idaho) and Simon (Ore.) spoke of the late Thomas H. Tongue of Oregon.

At the conclusion of the addresses the several resolutions of regret were adopted and as a further mark of respect the senate at 3 o'clock adjourned until tomorrow at 11 o'clock.

Forecast for the Senate.

The senate has more than enough work to keep it occupied during the last week of the session, and do the best it may there will be much left undone when the gavel of the president pro tempore shall fall at the close of the final sitting at noon on Wednesday.

Aside from the appropriation bills and conference reports preference will be given to the Aldrich bond deposit bill. Senator Aldrich expresses confidence that this bill will pass during the day, but some of the democratic senators say that its passage tomorrow is out of the question.

There is also great anxiety to get action on the Philippine tariff bill, and while there is also opposition to this measure it is intimated that this antagonism might cease in case of a cessation of the efforts to pass the bond deposit bill, but Senator Aldrich is not disposed to yield to this kind of argument.

A final attempt will be made to press the Panama canal treaty to a conclusion in the hope that Senator Morgan may relent in his opposition and allow the treaty to be ratified rather than force an extra session of the senate. His friends say, however, that he has no such intention.

Senators generally, therefore, have given up all hope of avoiding the extra session, and now are concerned principally as to the time it shall begin and the length of time it shall occupy. The principal, if not the only, duty of the extra session, will be the consideration of the Panama treaty and the Cuban reciprocity treaty.

On the first day of the extra session the new senators will be sworn in. Among those who will take the oath of office will be Mr. Smoot of Utah, against whom a number of protests have been filed. These protests do not constitute proof, and, as Mr. Smoot's credentials are entirely regular, he will be allowed to take his seat, and the investigation, if one is to be made, will be postponed until the regular session of congress, beginning in December next.

THINK THEY HAVE ALUMINIUM.

Residents of Barrington Excited Over Reported Find in Neighborhood of the Village.

Barrington is excited over the report that the clay thereabouts has been found to contain aluminium in considerable quantities. A deposit of clay that may produce a fair grade of aluminium has been found on the farm of H. H. Miller, bordering on Randall's lake, two and a half miles west of Barrington, and samples of the clay are now being tested in Chicago.

FIRM ON NEGRO POLICY.

ROOSEVELT SAYS HE WILL NOT BE SWERVED BY OUTCRY.

exception but as the rule for what I have done throughout the south.

Believes He Has Raised Standard.

"I have good reason to believe that my appointees in the different states mentioned—and, as the sum of the parts is the whole, necessarily in the south at large—represent not merely an improvement upon those whose places they took, but upon the whole a higher standard of federal service than has hitherto been attained in the communities in question. I may add that the proportion of colored men among these new appointees is only about one in a hundred.

"In view of all these facts I have been surprised and pained at what seems to me the incomprehensible outcry in the south about my action—an outcry apparently started in New York for reasons wholly unconnected with the question nominally at issue.

Will Hold to His Policy.

"I am concerned at the attitude thus taken by so many of the southern people, but I am not in the least angry, and still less will this attitude have the effect of making me swerve one hair's breadth to one side or the other from the course I have marked out—the course I have consistently followed in the past and shall consistently follow in the future. THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

Negro Holds Out for Office.

Jeffersonville, Ind., March 1.—[Special.]—A serious and delicate problem confronts the republican leaders of Clark count. Hayden Hall, a negro, aspired to be postmaster at Cementville, which pays only $127 a year, but Hall wants it and has good backing. Merchants and others at Cementville want a white man, and as a last resort the local leaders secured from the Indiana senators a promise to place Hall in the local quartermaster's depot of army supplies as a packer at a salary of $500 a year. This proposition was made to Hall, but he refused and said he wanted to be postmaster or nothing. The negroes of Clark county, who hold the balance of power, are standing up for Hall and insist the time has come when the negro be recognized.

Negroes to Hold Conference.

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 1.—[Special.]—On March 5 and 6 an educational conference of negroes of the south will be held in this city. The education of the negro and the betterment of the race will be discussed at that time. Among those who will be present are: R. R. Wright, president of the Georgia State Industrial college; W. H. Councill, president of the A. and M. College of Alabama; E. L. Blackshear, president Prairieview N. and I. college, Prairieview, Tex.; J. S. Hathaway, president N. and I. college, Frankfort, Ky.; J. B. Dudley, president A. and M. college, Greensboro, N. C.; J. H. N. Waring, president colored training school, Baltimore, Md.; Isaac Fisher, president Branch college, Pine Bluff, Ark.; W. H. Lanier, president Alsom A. and M. college, West Side, Miss.

PARIS VIEW OF ALASKA TREATY.

Temps Declares the United States Has Named Commissioners Who Are Partial and Prejudiced.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, March 1.—The Temps, in a pessimistic editorial on the Alaska boundary commission, says:

"The American senate ratified a modest convention, and, as a condition to rendering its execution difficult and almost impossible, compelled President Roosevelt to appoint prejudiced, passionate men instead of the impartial, unprejudiced ones prescribed by the treaty. Secretary of War Root is the most judicial of the lot. He is not deliberately imperialist, but Senator Lodge is the leader of the expansionist school, a man of aggressive patriotism and an Anglophobe. Senator Turner, who represents the state of Washington, is influenced by local interests and will do his utmost to prevent England from acquiring an inch of territory in the northwest. Moreover, he regards Canada as a commercial and agricultural rival, and a political enemy.

"Certainly these commissioners will do nothing to facilitate a settlement. Ottawa is evidently of this opinion, for already it is accusing Sir Wilfrid Laurier of duping the dominion and preparing a triumph of Yankee diplomacy. Canadian opinion places small confidence in Lansdowne's, or even Herbert's firmness, believing England will sacrifice colonial interests to those of a republic in which Cleveland's spirit is only dormant."

The Temps concludes: "Preliminary embracings, compliments, and friendly professions will end either in a rupture, possibly entailing grave international complications, or an agreement at the expense of the dominion which will overflow with indignation against the British government."

GOES TO MOTHER'S FUNERAL.

Minister Bowen Leaves Washington for Brooklyn, Where Services Will Be Held.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—The United States minister to Venezuela and Mrs. Herbert W. Bowen left Washington this afternoon for Brooklyn to attend the funeral services of Mr. Bowen's mother, Mrs. Ellen Holt Bowen, which will take place in Brooklyn tomorrow. The news reached the minister late last night in a dispatch from his brother. Pressure of work here in connection with the Venezuelan negotiations had prevented the minister from leaving Washington since his arrival here in January. He had, however, planned a visit to his mother upon the completion of his mission, before sailing from New York for Caracas about the middle of March. For several days past Mr. Bowen has been confined to his room with a fever. He will return to Washington in time to sign the Belgian protocol with Baron Moncheur March 5.

SANTA FE TO RAISE WAGES.

Increase Ranging from 12 to 15 Per Cent Granted Employes of the Railway.

Topeka, Kas., March 1.—The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé railway wage conference today agreed to an increase in salaries, effective today, of 15 per cent for through freight, mixed train, local freight, and work train conductors and brakemen, and 12 per cent for passenger conductors, brakemen, and baggagemen. The agreement signed today covered the coast lines of the Santa Fé system only, but the officials of the road and the members of the grievance committee say that the other agreements covering the whole system will be signed tomorrow, and that this will be an informal matter, as the terms have already been agreed upon.

FATHER OF VICTIM SEES ALFRED KNAPP IN JAIL.

Is Unable to Identify Self-Confessed Murderer — Special Jury Likely to Take Up Case Immediately.

Hamilton, O., March 1.—Alfred Knapp was today visited by Herman Littleman of Cincinnati, father of little Emma Littleman, the victim of Knapp's first murder in Cincinnati. Littleman was unable to identify Knapp as any man whom he had ever seen or known. The most significant feature of the interview was the fact that for the first time Knapp expressed some little remorse and showed signs of breaking down. Littleman stood outside the cell, and, after he had looked at Knapp, said: "I have never seen this man. I don't care to look at him any more." Knapp said: "I am just as sorry as can be that little Emma is dead. She had eyes and hair like yours."

Judge Belden said today that he had not been asked to call a special grand jury, and that there might be none, as the courts are busy now.

In jail Knapp eats well, sleeps well, and talks cheerfully and freely to all visitors. He does not use tobacco in any form, and was not known as a drinker.

Knapp's Family Divided.

Cincinnati, O., March 1.—[Special.]—Since it has been decided to bring Alfred A. Knapp, the self-confessed wife murderer, to trial as quickly as possible, the family of the accused has divided into two parties. The only point the two sides agree upon is that he is insane.

It appears that Knapp's brother-in-law, E. F. King, was the moving factor in the man's arrest for murdering his third wife, Hannah Goddard.

After killing his third wife in Hamilton on the morning of Dec. 22, Alfred Knapp, on the night of that date, called on his brother-in-law, King, in Cincinnati and inquired if his wife had been there. King had suspected Alfred of former murders, but on account of the appeals of the family was restrained from calling the attention of officers to the cases.

King Tells His Suspicions.

When it came to disappearance of wife number three neither Mr. nor Mrs. King could suppress their suspicions. Hannah Goddard had lived with them and was regarded as a daughter.

King told of his suspicions, and, accompanied by Detective Eugene Rankin of Cincinnati, went to Hamilton, and after seeing Mr. Goddard and others communicated with Capt. Lenehan of the Hamilton police, who arrested Knapp in Indianapolis the next day, and the same night Knapp confessed.

It is said here that King had his suspicions confirmed recently by Knapp's mother, who got a letter from her son telling about his crimes and that the aged mother told all so as to prevent Alfred from murdering his fourth wife, who is now in Indianapolis.

All possible efforts were made here to get this letter and others, but it is believed that Mrs. Wenzel, Knapp's sister, is correct in insisting that Alfred's letters were burned.

Seeking More Evidence.

The efforts of the city and county officials here have not been relaxed in securing evidence regarding the murders of Emma Littleman, Mary E. Eckhart, and Jennie Conners, wife No. 2, supposed to have been committed here.

Knapp's father says Alfred will be better off dead than alive, but his mother worries over such an ending. His brother Cyrus and his sister, Mrs. Wenzel, are doing all they can for defense.

ST. LOUIS APPEALS TO BRITISH PRIDE

President Francis Shows London That Germany Is Taking Greater Interest.

KING LENDING A HAND.

Prince of Wales Is Expected to Be Head of the English Fair Commission.

[Copyright: 1903: By the New York Tribune.]
[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, March 2, 3 a. m.—President D. R. Francis and the foreign representatives for the St. Louis exhibition are well satisfied with the results of their week's work in London. They have emphasized the fact that Germany is taking a great interest in the exhibition and that England ought not to be outstripped by her chief European rival. The king, Lord Lansdowne, Premier Balfour, and the duke of Devonshire have been convinced that more active measures must be adopted by the British government. It is expected that the prince of Wales will head the commission and that a large grant will be made by parliament.

Prof. Ives started for the continent yesterday after interesting Sir Edward Poynter, James M. Whistler, Edwin A. Abbey, Walter Crane, Joseph Pennell, and others in the art exhibit.

The king's suggestion that a collection of the gifts of the two Victoria jubilees should be exhibited in the British section will be carried out by a British commission. The selection from the many hundreds of jubilee gifts will not be made before the end of the year.

Gifts Valued at $10,000,000.

An unofficial estimate of the value of Queen Victoria's jubilee gifts which will be shown at the St. Louis exposition is $10,000,000. It is too early to give in detail the gifts that will be chosen for the exposition, but it is stated that the emperor of China's jade and porcelain vases and the mikado's gold lacquer cabinet, both of which are priceless, will be sent. Edouard Detaille's painting of King Edward, then prince of Wales, and of the Duke of Connaught at the Aldershot review, will not go. It is reported probable that some men of the royal family will visit St. Louis, perhaps unofficially, but the prince and princess of Wales will not be able to go, even if they are invited, because they will probably visit India in 1904.

Exposition at Cape Town.

Promoters of the British and colonial exhibition at Cape Town lament the lack of interest shown by the home government in that enterprise and assume that the St. Louis exhibition will command the attention at once of Downing street and obtain a money vote at Westminster. They are bent upon having an exhibition at Johannesburg after starting an all British movement at Cape Town. One of the speakers at the south African banquet last Saturday night made a fierce onslaught upon the shipping ring, which was enabling German, Belgian, and American exporters to send goods to south Africa at a half or even a third of the rates charged for freight from Great Britain. The duke of Argyll and other guests warmly advocated the colonial exhibition as a peace measure and sound industrial policy. J. H. Turner, Harrison Watson, and other Canadians displayed interest in the enterprise.

The unionist members of parliament who voted against the government on the army make no secret of their determination to pursue their vigorous policy upon independent lines on military, financial, and social questions. Winston Churchill is the virtual leader of this new fourth party.

Auto Race in Ireland.

It is now practically certain that this year's international automobile race for James Gordon Bennett's cup will be run in Ireland. The bill which has been introduced in parliament to authorize the local authorities to make the necessary arrangements is favored by everybody, and it may get through all its stages before Easter. The course lying between Kildare and Queens county has been surveyed and approved as suitable. Competitors in the race will have to cover 360 miles, and to do this they will run over the course three times. The Irish people are taking a lively interest in the event, which has been provisionally fixed for the first week in July. So far the nations entered for the race are America, England, France, and Germany.

Polo Team Is Coming.

As a result of communications which have passed between those famous polo players, Waterbury and Buckmaster, it is expected that an English polo team will leave here for America in May. The team will not be called a championship one, but as it will comprise Buckmaster himself, Freake, and the two Nichols, it will be fairly representative of the full strength of the country.

NEW SAXON WEDDING PLANNED.

Report That Crown Prince May Marry Margaret Marie, Sister of His Divorced Wife.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, March 1.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily News reports that Princess Margaret Marie, sister of the ex-crown princess of Saxony, is willing to succeed her as the wife of the crown prince. Marriage with a divorced wife's sister is not illegal and Louise would prefer to see Margaret the stepmother of her children than a stranger, and she also believes some of her own popularity among the Saxon people will descend to her sister. Margaret is a Catholic, but if she resembles her sister she would as soon be anything else.

The crown prince would please the Saxons by marrying according to Lutheran rites without trying to obtain the authority of the Vatican for his remarriage. It is added that the grand duke of Tuscany, father of the princesses, is willing, if the interest on Louise's dowry is secured to her for life, to give Margaret a dower equal to that of Louise.

The correspondent does not mention the crown prince's inclinations, which, so far as can be judged from the story, have not been consulted.

Louise Leaves Sanitarium.

GENEVA, March 1.—The former crown princess of Saxony today left the sanitarium where she has been since she left Giron, and went to Lindau, where she met her mother.

All Clocks in British Colonies Turned Half an Hour Ahead for the Sake of Uniformity.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

CAPETOWN, March 1.—All the clocks in the Orange River Colony, the Transvaal, Rhodesia, Portuguese east Africa, and Cape Colony were turned ahead half an hour at midnight, thus making them correspond to the time at Natal, which is two hours ahead of Greenwich time. Henceforth there will be uniform time throughout all south Africa with the exception of German east Africa.

VIENNA, March 1.—The duchess of Marlborough, accompanied by Lady Churchill, arrived here tonight for a stay of six weeks. She will take a further course of treatment from Dr. Mueller for deafness, arising from catarrh, from which she is suffering.

Ex-Princess Visits Mother.

VIENNA, March 1.—The former crown princess of Saxony has arrived at Lindau, which is situated on an island in Lake Constance, where she met her mother. She will stay at her mother's chateau at Lindau for some time.

SAYS EARTH IS CENTER OF WHOLE UNIVERSE.

DR. ALFRED RUSSEL WALLACE.

Dr. Wallace's eminence as a scientist gives sensational importance to his article in the March Fortnightly Review, in which he overturns long standing scientific belief and declares modern astronomical and scientific discoveries prove the earth and its solar system to be the physical center of the stellar universe instead of an insignificant part. He also declares the theory that the purpose of the universe was the production and development of a living soul in the perishable body of man, thus upholding the theological belief that has proven most vulnerable to the attacks of skeptics.

NEAR REVOLT IN HOLLAND

LABOR UNIONS TO ORDER GENERAL STRIKE TODAY.

Workingmen to the Number of 90,000 Expected to Remain Idle Until the Government Withdraws the Pending Law Making It a Criminal Offense for Employes of State Railways to Strike—Ministry Refuses and Martial Law Is Looked For.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

THE HAGUE, March 1.—There are grave fears of a serious recrudescense of the socialist trouble in Holland. Saturday evening a committee consisting of leaders of labor unions representing 90,000 workingmen of all branches, met at Utrecht and resolved upon the firmest possible action against the proposed anti-strike bills. They resolved to proclaim a general railway strike on Monday or Tuesday which will last, according to reports, until the ministers withdraw the bill. This will never be done.

The resolution, if acted on and fully supported, means something near a revolution. The government probably will answer with a proclamation of martial law. It already has indicated its purpose firmly to maintain order. Measures will be taken to keep the troops from infection of the socialist leaders. Distributors of revolutionary pamphlets in the barracks are to be prosecuted.

Vandergoes, the lecturer on socialism at the Amsterdam university, who, in addressing a meeting, advised the soldiers to "shoot in the right direction," will be prosecuted, as also will be the socialist paper Volk, which published the secret circular addressed to station masters on how to act in case of a strike.

MAY FORCE RUSSIA INTO WAR.

Turkey's Macedonian Policy Believed Likely to Embroil Other Powers in the Spring.

ST. PETERSBURG, Saturday, Feb. 28, via Eydtkuhnen, German frontier, March 1.—Some publicists are of the opinion that only the sternest language towards Turkey can prevent a war between Russia and Turkey in the spring. They believe that Turkey will pursue bands of Macedonian revolutionists across the Bulgarian frontier and that public opinion will compel Russia to interfere.

The Russians thoroughly understand that a war with Turkey will be a more severe one than that of 1878. Officers are quoted as saying that the Turkish army is the best in the world, owing to its German organization and armament.

There is an inclination here to anticipate German financial support of Turkey, and, in view of the situation, forebodings of a clash with Turkey are freely expressed in private, although they are carefully suppressed in the newspapers.

Turks and Bulgarians Fight.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 1.—Advices from Bulgaria, Servia, and Macedonia reflect the disappointment felt there regarding the illusory nature of the Austro-Russian scheme of Macedonian reforms. Dispatches from Salonica report encounters between Turkish troops and bands of Bulgarians in the Uskub district, many being killed on both sides.

Thirty-two Turks Killed.

LONDON, March 2, 3 a. m.—The Geneva correspondent of the Daily Chronicle telegraphs that news has been received there of an engagement between Turkish troops and bodies of Macedonians and Bulgarians near Monastir. The Turks suffered a repulse. After the fighting thirty-two dead and many wounded men were found.

JAPANESE TO TEACH CHINA.

Government Decides to Employ Natives of Mikado's Kingdom in the University of Pekin.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PEKIN, March 1.—Owing to the hostility of the government to the employment of qualified native reformers or western foreigners, it has been decided to adopt the Japanese language at the imperial university as the only alternative to utter failure of that institution. Only Japanese will be employed as instructors. This fact has excited bitter criticism from the party favoring native translations of works on western sciences. Teachers are opposing the rude Japanese translations of these works which are flooding China.

CUBAN FORGER IN VENICE.

Bank Cashes Bogus Draft for $8,600 Only to Learn That It Has Been Duped.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ROME, March 1.—A man named Hirsch, professedly a Cuban, cashed at the Venetian bank in Venice a check for $8,600, drawn on a New York bank. He paid a debt of $2,000 from the proceeds. Subsequently the bank received a warning from New York not to cash the check. Hirsch was arrested. He had deposited the balance of the money.

BOLIVIA ASKS FOR HELP.

SOUTH AMERICAN REPUBLIC FEARS WAR WITH BRAZIL.

United States Government Appealed To to Use Its Good Offices to Prevent an Armed Conflict Over the Acre Territory Dispute — American Syndicate Claims Valuable Concessions in Rubber Forests of the Disputed Districts.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—It is understood that Bolivia will appeal to the United States government to use its good offices to prevent war between Bolivia and Brazil over the Acre territorial dispute. When Brazil first demanded that its troops be permitted to occupy provisionally a part of the valuable area in controversy Bolivia made a similar appeal to the United States. Brazil, however, declined to permit any outside interference. After that Bolivia agreed to the provisional occupation of the section as demanded. Brazil has now increased its demands, and Bolivia, feeling that refusal on its part will cause an invasion of its own territory by Brazilian troops, looks to the United States as its only salvation in the present crisis.

It was learned today that the additional demand of Brazil is not merely for the provisional possession of another third of the Acre territory, as stated in the dispatches printed this morning, but for the entire remaining area of the disputed region.

The original demand of Brazil was that it be permitted to occupy 34,000 square miles, or about one-third of the Acre country, pending settlement by arbitration of the controversy.

The trouble between Brazil and Bolivia over the ownership of the Acre territory became acute when Bolivia granted a concession to a syndicate of Americans and Englishmen to exploit a portion of the region containing extensive forests of rubber trees. Brazil disputed Bolivia's right to do this and adopted measures which placed an embargo on the exportation of crude rubber from the region in which the syndicate was operating. An offer has now been made by Brazil to the syndicate to pay it an indemnity in full settlement of all rights conferred upon it by the Bolivian concession. Sir Martin Conway, the head of the syndicate, is now on his way to this country from England for the purpose of consulting with his American associates in regard to Brazil's pecuniary offer.

Verona Socialists Compel Their Deputy to Recognize Official Organ He Had Called Dirty Sheet.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ROME, March 1.—Socialists of Verona have proclaimed their right to compel their parliamentary representative to read the party's newspapers. Sig. Todeschini, a socialist who represents one of the Verona districts in the chamber of deputies, lately declared he did not read the local socialist paper, La Verona del Popolo, because it was a dirty sheet. The local socialist federation, hearing of this, held a meeting and decreed that Sig. Todeschini must read the paper regularly under the surveillance of a specially appointed commission or resign his seat. The deputy unwillingly consented to read the sheet in the presence of the commission.

SAID TO BE KING MILAN'S SON.

Grandson of Sultan's Austrian Architect the Last Scion of the House of Obrenovics.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

VIENNA, March 1.—The Allgemeine Zeitung says in connection with the death in this city of Johannidi Effendi, architect to the sultan of Turkey, that Johannidi's grandson is being brought up as a prince at Constantinople. He is the natural son of the late King Milan of Servia and Artemisa Johannidi, who, after the boy's birth, married M. Christics, a Servian diplomat, now retired. The boy is 14 years old, and is, after King Alexander, the last direct descendent of Obrenovics.

NEW STORM ON BRITISH COASTS.

Gale Returns with Renewed Violence and Shipping Suffers Severely.

STEAMERS PUT INTO PORT

Battleship Resolute Damaged by Heavy Waves in the Irish Sea.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, March 1.—The gale which swept the English and Irish coasts last week returned with renewed violence Saturday night and continued today, doing immense damage to shipping.

Vessels are still taking refuge in the ports, arriving battered by the storm. Others have gone ashore. A quantity of wreckage has been seen off the coast of Northumberland, and the indications point to the wreck of the British ship Cambrian Prince, Capt. Owens, Coquimbo for Middlesborough, which called at Queenstown on Feb. 11.

One Steamer's Experience.

Later news from the south of Ireland shows that the gale was exceedingly fierce. Many storm beaten vessels have taken shelter in Cork harbor. The British steamer Pharsalia went through a terrible experience. It left Boston on Jan. 30 for Leith, calling at St. John, N. B. The hurricane struck it on Feb. 24 and the heavy seas flooded its hold, damaged the cargo, smashed the bridge and almost all the deck fittings, stayed in the boats, and swept the binnacle overboard. The captain's ribs were broken and several of the crew were injured. The Pharsalia was obliged to put into Queenstown.

Turned Back by Hurricane.

The British steamer Cebrania, Capt. Evans, London and the Tyne, Feb. 13, for Boston, also put back to Queenstown, after being seventeen days at sea. It only got 700 miles west of Ireland, and experienced repeated hurricanes. The decks were swept of everything movable, and the boats were damaged. The captain thought the steamer would never weather the storm.

Battleship Is Damaged.

The British battleship Resolution arrived at Plymouth after a terrible experience in the Irish sea on Thursday. The seas continually broke over the vessel, the tiller chains snapped, and it was compelled to steer by manipulating the propellers. The warship arrived at Plymouth considerably damaged. The steamer Mount Royal, bound for New Orleans, was compelled to return to Queenstown, with machinery disabled. The steamer Cebriana for Boston also returned to Queenstown with its foredeck smashed in. Numerous other casualties to shipping are reported, but fatalities are few.

Steamer Helpless at Sea.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 1.—The steamship Switzerland of the International Mercantile Marine company arrived here today from Antwerp after a voyage of eighteen days, during which it experienced terrific gales. On Feb. 14 the vessel encountered a severe storm from the northwest. The storm continued several days, and during its height the steering gear gave way, leaving the vessel helpless for three days, at the end of which time the steering apparatus was partially repaired. The vessel sustained other minor damage. The Switzerland carried 231 passengers

J. PIERPONT MORGAN IN HAVANA.

New York Banker Takes Part in the Carnival and Throws Confetti at the Maskers.

[Copyright: 1903: By the New York Tribune.]

HAVANA, March 1.—J. Pierpont Morgan was an active participant in the carnival festivities this afternoon. From the balcony of his host's home he threw confetti and serpentinas at the passing masqueraders with boyish delight. He was plainly in good humor. Earlier in the day he attended a Spanish basketball game, where he bet money, and lost.

Mr. Morgan, with his wife, his physician, and a party of twenty, arrived from Florida this morning for his first visit to Cuba. Many guesses are made as to his mission here. One story is to the effect, that he contemplates the purchase of the steamship lines, to which is given the color of truth from the fact that he is the guest of Señor Herrera, owner of the Herrera line of steamships.

Another report has it that Morgan intends buying all the railroads in Cuba. He will make the trip over the new line to Santiago in the first Pullman special that ever left Havana.

"I am here simply for rest and to see the island," said the financier this afternoon as he sat alone in his room playing solitaire. The only other thing he would say for publication was that he was quite certain of the approval of the reciprocity treaty in the United States senate.

ROMANCE IN KUBELIK'S LIFE.

Violinist and Young Widow of Hungarian Nobleman Secretly Betrothed Three Years Ago.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

VIENNA, March 1.—The betrothal between Jan Kubelik, the violinist, and the Countess Marianne Czaky, widow of Count Czaky and niece of Coloman von Szell, the Hungarian prime minister, according to newspapers here, is the result of a romance begun at Debreczin three years ago. The countess fell violently in love with the young violinist. He was then 19 and she 21. The next night Kubelik was a guest at the house of her father, Wolfgang von Szell, when a secret engagement was made. The lovers did not meet again until last Friday, but they corresponded daily.

The countess, who is a typical Hungarian beauty, refused many brilliant matches, hoping eventually to overcome the strong opposition of her relatives to her alliance with Kubelik. She finally succeeded, and it was in response to her telegraphic summons that the musician traveled to Vienna last week, when the formal betrothal took place in the presence of the father of the countess.

A year must elapse before the wedding. Kubelik, it is said, will build a palatial residence in Vienna, where he intends to live in the intervals between tours, on which his wife will accompany him.

LADRONE CHIEF IS CAPTURED.

Bandit Leader Who Has Terrorized a Luzon Province for Ten Years Is a Prisoner.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

MANILA, March 1.—Ex-Gen. Tocson, governor of Bulucan, and leading a force of exsoldier volunteers and constabulary against the ladrones, had an engagement with Chieftain Guillermo, who has been the terror of Bulucan for ten years, and captured him. Tocson urges the execution of the captured ladrone leaders, declaring that only this will cause ladronism to disappear.

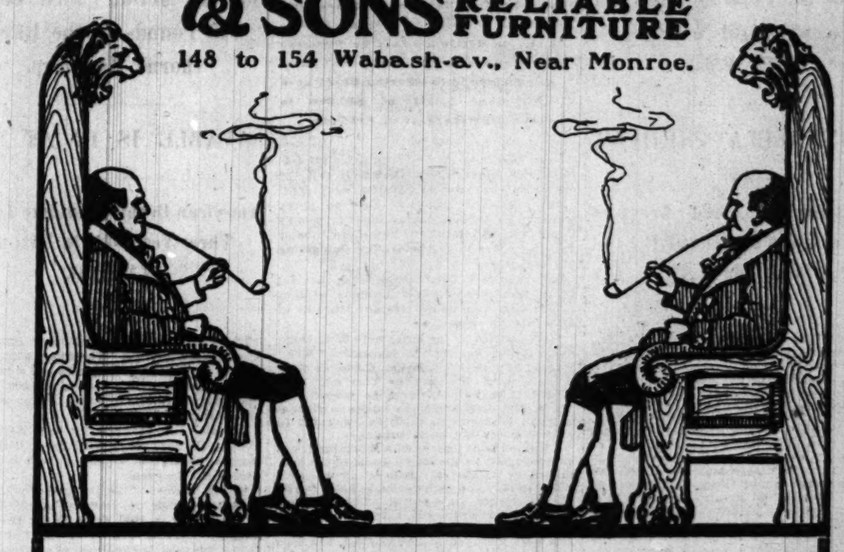

May Collect Indian Tribal Tax.

Ardmore, I. T., March 1.—It is stated here today that Indian Agent Shoenfelt has instructed the Indian police agents to collect the tribal tax of 1 per cent on the dollar valuesfon of merchants' stocks in the Chickasaw and Choctaw nations. Merchants will ask for an injunction to restrict the police from carrying out the order, on the ground that the tax is invalid.

Mrs. Roosevelt on Way Home.

Boston, Mass., March 1.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, accompanied by her daughter Ethel and a maid, passed through the city this evening bound for Washington. She arrived from Groton at 6:30 p. m., and was driven at once to the South station, where she took the 7 o'clock express for the capital.

OHIO RIVER FLOOD HEAVY.

DANGER LINE SWEEPING DOWN FROM PITTSBURG.

Over $300,000 Lost in Wages Because of Shutting Down of Mills—Cellars and Factories Under Water at Many Points—Trouble Expected at Lower Places in Next Few Days—Wide Area Covered at Memphis by the High Water.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 1.—With every tributary of the Allegheny and Monogahela rivers pouring torrents into the two streams and rushing down to the point where they converge to form the Ohio, hundreds of Pittsburg families either had to abandon their homes or seek the upper stories. Mills in the low lying levels throughout the county, numbering between fifty and sixty, were flooded, and 38,375 men are thrown idle for four or five days with a loss in wages of more than $326,748.

The flood was general throughout western Pennsylvania, the streams everywhere overflowing their banks and causing more or less damage to houses and farms. In Pittsburg cellars and basements of business houses which are in the general flood belt were inundated, while in Allegheny two railroads were temporarily stopped.

Crest of Flood Is Passing.

The highest stage reached by the swollen rivers at Pittsburg was 29.4 feet at the government dam at Herr's island. This was at 6 o'clock in the evening. It became stationary at that mark and gradually began to subside. Three hours later the record at this point was 29.1 feet.

The Market street gauge at 8 o'clock showed the highest point reached by the Monongahela river to be 25.8 feet. In an hour after it had fallen little over one inch. The government gauge at Davis island dam, five miles below the city, showed the highest stage to be 26.5 feet at 9 o'clock, when the waters were stationary. From that time the flood began to fall.

Soon after daylight the water took possession of the point districts in Pittsburg and came up almost into Penn avenue. River men took early precautions to place shipping under safe control and as a result property of this character suffered comparatively little damage.

Towns on the Ohio Suffering.

From the territory up the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers comes reports that much damage was done by the flooding of the lower floors of houses, mills, and factories.

East Liverpool, O., reports thirty feet of water, seventy-five houses flooded, and several of the pottery plants damaged. Street car service to Smith's Ferry has been abandoned. At Wellsville, four miles below East Liverpool, the mill of the American Tinplate company is partially inundated.

Steubenville, O., reports thirty feet of water and rising five inches an hour. Five more feet are expected, which will cause the Wheeling and Lake Erie and the Cleveland and Pittsburg railroads and mills on the low ground to suspend.

Wide Flood Area at Memphis.

Memphis, Tenn., March 1.—The Mississippi river is at a standstill at this point, the gauge tonight marking thirty-four feet. The water covers an area of ten miles in the Arkansas lowlands opposite the city. Many farmers have left their houses and stock has been placed on high ground.

At present the river is above the danger line from New Madrid to Helena. The government engineers tonight say the levees are in no danger at the present time.

Past Danger Line at Wheeling.

Wheeling, W. Va., March 1.—The danger point in the Ohio has been reached and the river is still rising. The stage at 11 o'clock was thirty-seven feet six inches, and it was rising six inches an hour, with indications for a maximum stage of forty-one or forty-two feet. The iron and steel mills on both sides of the river have been partially submerged.

NEW POWERS IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

Sale of the Philadelphia Club Places Control in Hands of the West.

"BIG THREE" AT THE HELM

Hart, Hermann, and Dreyfuss Form the Nucleus of the Combination.

The deal by which the Philadelphia National league club "changed hands" Saturday removes one of the last hurdles in the way of clinching the peace agreement under which the American and National leagues have been working since early in the year.

It is a matter of record that John T. Brush, the mouthpiece of the New York National league club, was forced to swallow that agreement, much against the dictates of his palate, and, for that reason, the Freedman representative would jump at the first excuse to force the old league to abrogate that compact. So long as John I. Rogers owned the balance of power in Philadelphia it was always possible for Brush to influence the Philadelphia lawyer's vote on some proposition not to his liking. That vote, added to the Brush faction, which includes Boston and Brooklyn magnates, could have produced at least a deadlock in the league.

West Controls Old League.

With the Philadelphia club in the hands of the syndicate got together by Dreyfuss of Pittsburg, the west now controls the National league, with a working majority of five to three, and no chances for desertion on personal grounds. The importance of this appears when it is remembered the National league is to meet day after tomorrow in New York for the purpose of adopting the playing schedule and rules prepared by the joint committees in this city last week. By provoking a disagreement over that schedule and refusing to adopt it, Brush and his allies could have caused endless trouble if anxious to do so, or if the dates allotted their respective clubs did not suit them.

James A. Hart, Garry Hermann, and Barney Dreyfuss are the new powers in control of the old league. With them are associated Frank De Haas Robinson of St. Louis and the new Philadelphia syndicate, which is made up of friends of Dreyfuss and Hermann. It is true the published accounts of the transfer make it appear that the club is still in the hands of Philadelphians. The fact is emphasized that out of a long list of shareholders only three are from outside cities—Julius Fleischmann of Cincinnati, H. R. McGowan of Indianapolis, and W. H. Schoepf of Pittsburg and Cincinnati. It also endeavors to make it appear that the control of the club is in the hands of some of the social leaders of the Quaker City.

Fleischmanns Own Phillies.

The actual facts of the transfer, if revealed, would show that the control of the club is in the hands of Julius and Max Fleischmann, part owners of the Cincinnati club, who have furnished the financial backbone of the deal. A large number of Philadelphians have been interested to the extent of a few shares each in order to give the public the impression that they controlled the club.

There is no harm in this kind of deception, because the baseball public does not like the syndicate bugaboo a little bit, but the facts of the transfer make plain just how well Dreyfuss and his allies have secured control of the league. The Fleischmanns, being partners of Hermann, will vote with the Cincinnati club, which is one of the new "big three" in baseball, and Robison of St. Louis is bound to them by close personal interests and relations aside from the other fact that his interests naturally will be served by sticking to the western clique.

Advances Cause of Peace.

The cause of organized baseball on a peaceful basis is also advanced by this combination, as Hermann and Fleischmann are firm friends of Ban Johnson, the American league leader, and Hart and Dreyfuss are avowed advocates of peace and organized sport. While there may be considerable mighty interesting history made at the meetings of the big leagues this week, it will be underneath the surface to a great extent and the developments on the surface will show little except the formal ratification of schedules and rules drafted during the conferences here.

The National league will convene on Wednesday at the Victoria in New York and the American will probably meet at the Fifth Avenue hotel on Thursday, although the official notice to that effect has not been issued by President Johnson. It is believed the delay is due to consulting the convenience of the American magnates in the matter, but it is practically certain the meeting will be held on Thursday.

American League's Problems.

Whether the location of the new grounds in New York will be announced then is the most interesting feature, and President Johnson has appeared more confident than ever in manner recently, which is indicative of his belief there is clear sailing for the American league in Gotham hereafter. The chief difficulty he has encountered there has been the number of different and conflicting interests which desired to become identified with the new club and which showed a disposition to block any plans which did not include themselves.

President Johnson will leave for New York today to frame up matters for the coming meeting and will probably be accompanied by President Comiskey of the White Stockings. President Hart of the Colts will start tonight or tomorrow for the east to attend the National league session.

PRIZE FOR THE BEST SCHEDULE.

Central Baseball League Offers $50 for List of Dates That Is Accepted by Directors.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 1.—[Special.]—The baseball fans in most of the cities of the Central league are just now more interested in the schedule than any other phase of the new league's opening season. The directors have offered a prize of $50 for the schedule which is accepted at the meeting to be held soon. The peculiar location of the eight cities, together with the requirement that there are to be an equal number of holiday and Sunday games in each city, makes the schedule a puzzling undertaking.

The greatest difficulty is in arranging for the jump to Wheeling. Dayton is the nearest town, and it is 211 miles. In the Indiana cities some of the distances are less than 100 miles. Anderson and Marion can travel by trolley line, so that railroad facilities and connections cut little figure.

There will be 140 games, each city having seventy on its home grounds. Some of the schedules that will be submitted provide for off days; others have continuous playing. The point which will count most with the directors, however, will be in the saving of mileage. It is said that while there are 100,000 more people in the towns of the Central league than in the Three I league, from which Terre Haute and Evansville withdrew, a schedule can be made with several thousand less miles of travel.

First Baseball of the Season.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 1.—[Special.]—Manager Connie Mack backed his Philadelphia baseball men against the local team today, winning by a score of 9 to 1. The Phillies loaned the locals Shreck and Bender for their battery. Mack was well pleased with the batting of Murphy, Wilson, and Seybold, and the pitching of Bender and Quinn.

Hartman Goes to Minor League.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 1.—Frank De Haas Robison of the St. Louis National league club has completed a deal with the Buffalo Eastern league club whereby David L. Brain of the Buffalo team goes to St. Louis this season in exchange for Fred Hartman of the St. Louis club.

'JEFF' AND 'JIM' TO FIGHT

TWO HEAVYWEIGHTS MEET AND AGREE TO MAKE A MATCH.

Hour's Confab Between Jeffries and Corbett Results in Verbal Agreement to Battle Twenty or Twenty-five Rounds in California Next Summer Before Club Offering Best Purse—Minimum Limit of $25,000 Is Fixed—Part as Best of Friends.

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—Jim Jeffries and Jim Corbett, champion and ex-champion heavyweight fighters, were practically matched today at Delevan hotel, where they held a confab lasting over an hour. The encounter will be held in June or July in California and before the club giving the best purse.

The fight will not be to a finish, but for either twenty or twenty-five rounds, without a side bet, and under straight Marquis of Queensberry rules.

With Jeffries at the hotel were Billy Delaney, his manager; Bob Fitzsimmons, "Kid" Eagan, and Dan O'Rourke. Corbett's companions were his brother Tom and Fred Block. The fighters were as peaceful as doves, and dispatched the business without a ruffle of feathers. Jeffries consented to Corbett's wearing hand bandages.

A limited bout instead of a finish fight was agreed upon, as the latter would not be permitted in California. Jeffries shook hands with Corbett, and each denied he had "roasted" the other, as reported. They intended to be the best of friends, they said.

Jeffries' proposed trip abroad, now that he has been matched to box Corbett, has been abandoned.

It was agreed that the principals meet in Baltimore on Thursday to sign articles.

Match for Benny Yanger.

Benny Yanger will appear in a bout at Detroit on March 13. Yesterday his manager, John Hertz, accepted an offer to put the Italian boy against any one the Michigan club might pick on the date named, the weight to be 126 pounds at 3 o'clock.

Hertz also has offers for Harry Forbes to meet Paddy Nee at Pittsburg on March 15 and to meet "Kid" Goodman before the Criterion club of Boston. For the latter bout no date has yet been proposed.

FOURTH STRAIGHT FOR CHICAGO

Whist Club Defeats Ravenswood Team by Single Trick in Last Frame for A. W. L. Trophy.

[BY A. R. METCALFE.]

The Chicago Whist club won its fourth consecutive victory for the American Whist league challenge trophy by defeating Ravenswood by a single trick. As in the game against Cincinnati, the Chicago won out in the last frame, but, unlike the former contest, the winners were lucky in pulling out the game, as both teams played badly at the finish.

The contest was fierce throughout, Ravenswood having a slight lead most of the time, and at the close some of the players appeared to be demoralized.

The Ravenswood team was composed of George W. Collipp, R. R. Richards, T. O. Moulton, and W. B. Battelli, the Chicago team W. A. D. Montgomery, M. M. Cohen, W. F. Rollo, and H. N. Perry.

The score by deals was as follows:

FIRST HALF.

Deal No.—	1.	2.	3.	4.	5.	6.	7.	8.	Gain.
Ravenswood	7	4	7	6	8	4	10	3—5
Chicago	7	6	6	5	7	5	10	1—3
Deal No.—	9.	10.	11.	12.	13.	14.	15.	16.
Ravenswood	12	2	8	4	6	6	5	3—1
Chicago	12	2	9	4	7	7	5	2—3
Deal No.—	17.	18.	19.	20.	21.	22.	23.	24.
Ravenswood	4	8	9	6	4	8	4	10—4
Chicago	4	5	9	7	4	9	5	9—3

SECOND HALF.

Deal No.—	25.	26.	27.	28.	29.	30.	31.	32.
Ravenswood	11	5	2	9	11	1	5	7—4
Chicago	10	5	3	10	12	0	6	5—3
Deal No.—	33.	34.	35.	36.	37.	38.	39.	40.
Ravenswood	8	3	5	7	7	4	3	6—3
Chicago	5	8	5	9	6	4	4	5—8
Deal No.—	41.	42.	43.	44.	45.	46.	47.	48.
Ravenswood	7	5	7	2	6	6	5	5—4
Chicago	8	4	7	4	8	8	3	4—7

Total score—Ravenswood, 21; Chicago Whist, 22.

It will be noticed that Ravenswood led by one trick at the end of the first half, and that during the whole contest that team was never able to secure a lead of more than two, while Chicago never led at any stage.

The next game will be between Chicago and Minneapolis, and without question will be the most important contest of the year, as these are at present the leading teams in the west, and the result of the contest will decide whether there is any chance for Minneapolis to secure permanent ownership of the trophy.

BUSY DAY FOR SKAT PLAYERS.

Three Tournaments Held Yesterday—Bindgen, Finder, and Christensen Are the First Prize Winners.

Three skat tournaments kept the local players busy yesterday. The most important was the one held under the auspices of the Lake View Skat club at Knuth's hall, in which first prize went to Jacob Bindgen, who won eighteen games.

The other prize winners were: Second, August Duehring, 527 points; third, Charles Derrwaldt, sixteen games; fourth, Louis Bernhard, 499 points; fifth, Frank Straub, spade solo without five matadores. One hundred players participated.

At Braun's hall the West Side Skat club held the first tournament since its organization, first prize being awarded to M. Finder, who won sixteen games. The other prize winners were: Second, William Siefried, 495 points; third, William Retting, club solo against for matadores; fourth, Charles Ziegenhagen, 15 games; fifth, Max Ziegenhagen, 418 points.

I. Christensen took first prize in the tournament at Stumpf's hall, winning twenty games. The other prize winners were: Second, Frank Stauber, 456 points; third, W. Kuehn, 408 points; fourth, Charles Lorenzen, highest individual play—88; fifth, Charles Lorenzen, heart solo without five matadores.

Plans for Skat Congress.

Cleveland, O., March 1.—The committee having in charge arrangements for the national skat tournament to be held here May 30 to June 6 met tonight and listened to reports of committees. Indications are that fully 1,200 delegates will be present when play begins, Chicago alone sending 300. Large delegations from New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, and other cities will be in attendance.

NEW POLO LEAGUE ORGANIZED.

Cincinnati Included in Six Club Roller Skating Circuit, with Frank Bancroft as Promoter.

Dayton, O., March 1.—At a meeting of baseball and business men here today a new roller polo league was organized, comprising Cincinnati, Hamilton, Dayton, Columbus, Springfield, and Indianapolis. The name of the new league is the National Roller Polo league. Franchises were awarded to F. C. Bancroft, Cincinnati; T. J. Bryce, Columbus; W. H. Watkins, Indianapolis; C. W. Jessup, Dayton; C. H. Fisk, Hamilton; C. F. Ruschaupt, Springfield.

Frank Bancroft, business manager of the Cincinnati baseball club, was elected president, secretary, and treasurer. New rinks will be built in several of the cities. James Canavan, manager of the New Haven baseball club, will manage and captain the Cincinnatis.

The season will open next November and run five months.

Fast Time for Ice Yachts.

Pewaukee, Wis., March 1.—[Special.]—Two exciting ice yacht races were sailed in a heavy wind today. Only four boats got away in the first race, and they went over the course in record style, the time being: Tiskalwa, 18:00; Blitz, 18:30; Papoose, 19:00; Edgewood, 19:21. At 2:30 p. m. the wind hauled slightly to the southwest, with increased velocity. Six boats started, and Fred Pabst's Comet finally won by a few seconds, establishing a new record for the course. The times were: Comet, 16:00; Tiskalwa, 16:30; Papoose, 17:21; Blitz, 18:03; Edgewood, 18:10; Snowbird, 19:00.

Evanston Golfers Want to Move.

The question of the change in the location of the Evanston Golf club has again claimed the attention of the members. It is said by members that if the site on the north shore which has been under consideration for some time can be secured the club will move to the new quarters soon.

M'CHESNEY DOWN FOR TOP WEIGHT.

Son of McDuff Must Carry 128 Pounds in the Hawthorne Handicap.

SAVABLE IS IN AT 106.

American Derby Candidate Leads Three-Year-Olds in Matter of Weight.

The weights for the Hawthorne handicap were issued yesterday. The stake, which is to be run on May 23, is at a mile and a furlong with a guaranteed value of $10,000. McChesney is naturally down for the top weight. He must pack 128 pounds.

Savable, the favorite for the American Derby this year, is in with 106 pounds. He carries the highest weight of the 3 year olds named for the event.

Wyeth, winner of the Derby last year, is in with 118 pounds up. Sidney Lucas, winner of the Derby in 1900, is down for the same weight. Claude, winner of the California Derby this year, is handicapped at 100 pounds.

Besides Savable, Drake has named his American Derby candidates High Chancellor and Von Rouse. The former is scheduled to carry 102 pounds and the latter 100. Von Rouse is considered by many turfmen, who have watched the work of the Drake string so far this year, to be the best 3 year old in the stable.

Topsoil, Witful, Skillful, and other Derby candidates are named for the handicap at Hawthorne. The last of these, however, probably will not start, as his owner has said that Skillful will not go to the post until he lines up before the barrier for the great classic at Washington park.

The Hawthorne handicap, which closed with ninety-nine nominations, is a sweepstakes for 3 year olds and upward, by subscription of $15 each for entrance, $150 additional to start, $50 forfeit, or only $15 if declared out by April 1; guaranteed cash value to be $10,000, of which $1,500 to the second, and $700 to the third horse. A winner after publication of weights of a race of $1,500 to carry four pounds; of two of $1,500, or one of $3,000, eight pounds; of two of $3,000, twelve pounds penalty; penalties to apply to the extent of one-half only to horses handicapped at 116 pounds or more, and to the extent of one-quarter only to horses handicapped at 122 pounds or more, and not to apply to horses handicapped at 128 pounds or more; and shall not make the weight for a 3 year old exceed 112 pounds.

Following are the weights:

CRESCENT CITY DERBY ON 14TH.

That and Bush Cup the Two Most Important Three Year Old Races at New Orleans.

New Orleans, La., March 1.—[Special.]—The two most important stake events of the Crescent City Jockey club meeting still remain to be run. They are the Bush cup, over the cup distance, two and one-quarter miles, and the Crescent City Derby, the first of the big contests exclusively for 3 year olds in the middle west.

The latter event closed with eighty-two nominations, and it is likely that the biggest and best field which has ever gone to the post since the race was inaugurated will line up at the barrier. Warranted, winner of the Washington cup; Adiante, Potheen, Major Mansir, Ceylon, Ben Chance, Sarilla, Azim, last season's winner; Huzzah, Hayward Hunter, and Huntressa are looked upon as sure starters, and there are others which will make the field the biggest in the history of the race. The Bush cup will be run a week from next Thursday, and a handsome piece of plate will go to the winner.

From present indications the winner of the Derby will come from Memphis. John W. Schorr, according to reports, will send down Rightful, Spencer Reiff, and Ravenspur, and Jockey Bullman will ride the best of the trio. Flocarline, owned by Tichenor & Co. of Chicago, is also being prepared at Montgomery park. She beat some of the best of the probable starters in the preliminary Derby, and Trainer Poole thinks that she can duplicate the feat on March 14. Philo, Lord Melbourne, Prince of Endurance, My Surprise, Sheriff Bell, Witful, Eclipse, and Josette are likely starters besides those which will come from Memphis.

George C. Bennett expressed the belief a few days ago that Jockey Coburn, who is under the ban at San Francisco, will be reinstated before the day of the race. In that event he will probably ride one of the Schorr trio.

E. E. Smathers, who bought the great 4 year old McChesney, will campaign him in the west until after the Washington park meeting. The son of McDuff—Manola Mason will be shipped to Saratoga after that. On Saturday Mr. Smathers told Patrol Judge Hall to enter the colt in all of the races at the Spa to which he is eligible, and McChesney will finish the season on the metropolitan tracks. Mr. Smathers says that he is not looking for a match with Hermis, the acknowledged champion of the east, and did not buy him for the purpose of getting a race with L. V. Bell's crack, but hopes that the two will meet at the American Ascot or later on in the fall at one of the New York tracks.

It has developed since the sale of the colt that Mr. Smathers' offer of $30,000 was the largest bid which Durnell & Herz have received for the horse this winter. Mr. Durnell said tonight: "We needed the money worse than we needed the horse and sold him." He further said that M. H. Tichenor bid $25,000, and that Sire Bros.' offer was $20,000 and half of the winnings for the year.

Capt. Brown said he might buy him, but gave no hope that the deal would be closed in the near future, so when the check for $30,000 was forthcoming Durnell & Herz turned the horse over to the trotting horse man.

Work on New Cup Defender.

Bristol, R. I., March 1.—Nearly every scrap of bronze plating which has been received at the Herreshoff shop last winter has been used in sheathing the new syndicate boat which will be a candidate for defense cup honors. Today little daylight could be seen through the sides of the yacht. It is expected to have the plates all in place the latter part of next week. When the plates are all on it will take ten days longer to finish riveting. Then the work of plating the deck will be resumed. The mainmast is completed and all it needs now is the hanging of the rigging.

EAST VOTES TO SECEDE.

NEW YORK WITHDRAWS FROM AMERICAN BOWLING CONGRESS.

Charles Johnson of United Clubs Scores Chicago Tenpin Men—Says Recent Session in Indianapolis Was Disgraceful—Game Is Now in Hands of Manufacturers—Calls Prize Winning Teams "Fake" Organizations for Advertising Only.

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—Delegates to the United Bowling Clubs' meeting here today by a majority vote decided to conduct the meeting's proceedings in German. This settled a controversy of several months' duration. When the "loaded" ball subject came up Charles Johnson severely scored the methods of Chicago bowlers.

"The east was not recognized when it came to the loaded ball issue," said Johnson. "Chicago bowlers were for themselves and the manufacturers. They had an idea before they went to Indianapolis they would control the congress, and were not mistaken. Only Chicago men wanted the loaded ball, but would not allow a roll call. When it came to a vote a gang from Chicago, who were not even delegates, yelled 'aye,' and that settled it.

"The convention was a disgrace to the American bowling congress. The way it was conducted the congress was a secondary consideration to the national tournament, as the rules which were adopted are not for the masses but only for this annual event."

Johnson said that the winners of the first and second five men team prizes were "fake" teams from Chicago; that they did not represent any club, but were sent to Indianapolis for advertising purposes only.

Although two United Bowling clubs did not favor resigning from the American bowling congress until the next meeting, the other delegates refused to wait, and it was voted to withdraw from the congress.

AVERAGES ON LOCAL ALLEYS.

Southwest League Does Most Consistent Work with Averages of 971 1-3 and 970 2-3 in Two Series.

With so many experts away at Minneapolis the records made last week in local tournament games were not of extra quality. The most consistent work of the week was done by the Senators of the Southwest league, who averaged 971 1-3 in one series and 970 2-3 in another. In the latter series they secured a high game of 1,080.

Seven four figure totals were made, the First National team in the Bankers' league getting 1,048, and Seifert's colts in Seifert's league notching 1,089. Baum of the Senators led the high averages for a single series with 225 2-3.

League games will be resumed this week and as most of the tournaments will finish this month, the play will be watched with interest. Standing and averages are as follows:

"DARK HORSES" IN FIRST REGIMENT

George Gray and Clark Leiblee to Compete on the Soldiers' Team.

STAGG LEAVES FOR EAST.

Illness of His Mother Compels Athletic Director to Leave His Pupils.

More athletic stars will be seen in the A. A. U. meet at Milwaukee on March 7 than have been seen at this meet for years. The First regiment has secured all the old time heroes of the track and field who can be found in and about Chicago. Max Beutner expects to spring two dark horses in the meet who have not competed thus far. One of them is George Gray, the world's champion in the shot put, and the other is Clark Leiblee, the famous ex-Michigan sprinter.

George Gray has been traveling out of Chicago into Michigan for a big wholesale house and had given up his athletics when he was discovered and immediately pledged to the First regiment team. There is little doubt he will be able to win the shot put. He has been putting the unwieldy indoor weight more than forty-four feet easily in practice, and is good for a foot more when pushed. His record for the shot put outdoors is more than forty-seven feet. Gray won his fame as shot putter for the New York Athletic club.

Trio of Fast Runners.

Clark Leiblee, James Nufer, and Howard Hayes are three crack Michigen men on the First regiment team. Leiblee is a sprinter. Nufer is a quarter miler and hurdler, while Hayes is a half mile runner. These, with the dozen or more seasoned athletes who wear the colors of the First regiment, ought to make a strong bid for the banner at Milwaukee. The relay team, composed of Hayes, Capt. George Smith, "Zell" Pettit, formerly of the University of Chicago, and Uffendall, the former Notre Dame crack, is regarded as invincible.

Director Stagg left yesterday for Orange, N. J., the home of his boyhood. He received a telegram from his former home yesterday stating that his mother was exceedingly ill. He may not return for several days. He had a conference with Director Raycroft of the gymnasium and left athletic matters largely in his hands. Capt. Magee will have full charge of the track men and will try to get them into shape for the big A. A. U. meet March 7.

Wisconsin Men Going Fast.

"The records made by Wisconsin in their meet Saturday night were remarkably good," said Director Stagg yesterday. "They have improved much within a week. Breitkreutz's time of 2:03⅗ in the half mile was fast, and Post's 2:36 in the mile was great work for a freshman.

"We will have a strong team in the Milwaukee meet on Saturday whether all the ineligibles get back into the team or not. I hope they will all be able to compete at that time, but their own work will determine that."

Stagg's absence in the east will interfere with his training of his athletes for the meet. He has been putting on a few fine touches in order to get his men in the best shape, but they will be obliged to rely on what they already know, and it is possible Stagg will not return in time to attend the contest.

EVANSTON ATHLETES ELATED.

Results of Northwestern Interdepartment Meet Encourage Director Butterworth for Future of Track Team.

Northwestern university athletic authorities are elated over the success of the interdepartment meet at the First Regiment armory Saturday night. No records were broken, but this was not expected. Butterworth has not had enough time with his men to develop any "phenoms."

The success of the meet lay in the interest taken in the university's athletics by the men from the professional schools. The College of Liberal Arts, which has heretofore been supreme in athletics, was overthrown so completely that it became evident the professional schools would hereafter furnish most of the members of the track team. The performances of the law and dental school men were so much better than those from other departments that Butterworth has great hopes of bringing out some point winners from them. On every hand yesterday the athletic director was congratulated on the success of the meet and the machine-like manner in which it was carried off.

"I think the meet was an unqualified success," Butterworth said yesterday. "The spirit of the contestants was as good as I ever saw, and it is evident all the Northwestern men will do their best to bring out a good varsity team."

"The meet was great," said Professor Long, president of the athletic board of control. "We never saw anything like it in the university before. If the men take hold in this manner there is no doubt the university's athletics will improve wonderfully. The showing of the professional school men was more than we had hoped for."

Butterworth will begin working the track men this week for participation in the A. A. U. meet at Milwaukee Saturday and building up a relay team to send to Philadelphia next month.

WILLARD CAVE SERIOUSLY ILL.

Well Known Speedway Driver Not Expected to Recover from Attack of Typhoid-Pneumonia.

Willard Cave, the well known harness horse driver, is dangerously ill with typhoid-pneumonia and it is not expected he will recover. Eight physicians were in consultation at the home of the horseman, 5025 Forrestville avenue, yesterday and last night they gave little hope of his recovery.

Cave probably was better known as a driver on the speedway than any other man in Chicago. He always had charge of the best and fastest of the ice racers, and his skill as a reinsman often brought him to the finish ahead, when some rival driver held the lines over a better horse.

Two of the best horses Cave ever had were Donnoh and Hattie B. With both of these he did remarkable work on the local speedways.

Cave's father, one of the old timers in this city, was in the dry goods business. He has two brothers, who are in this business at present, one on Thirty-ninth street and the other in South Chicago.

JENNINGS STABLE IN THE LEAD.

Coast Turfman Heads List of Winning Owners at San Francisco with a Total of $25,120.

San Francisco, Cal., March 1.—[Special.]—During the race meeting now in progress the New California Jockey club has distributed $271,120 in purses and stakes. W. B. Jennings leads the winning owners, with $25,120 to his credit. Next on the list are Green B. Morris, with $17,745; Bianchi & McGovern, with $10,730; W. H. Ketchman, with $8,980; Burns & Waterhouse, with $8,055; and M. J. Daly, with $7,155. Twelve owners have won $4,000 or more, while thirty-eight have passed the $2,000 mark. Among the likely starters for the Waterhouse cup next Saturday are Nones, Cunard, Siddons, Watercure, Artilla, and Rio Shannon.

Wonderly to Ride for Tichenor.

Memphis, Tenn., March 1.—[Special.]—M. H. Tichenor & Co. today engaged Jockey Otto Wonderly to ride Flocarline in the Crescent City Derby on March 14, and Waswift on March 30 in the Montgomery handicap. Wonderly also contracted to do the entire riding of the Tichenor stable during the Memphis meeting.

CORNER OF LUMBER PRODUCT.

Edward Hines Said to Have Gained Control of the Great Lakes Output.

The lumber product of the lake region is said to have been cornered by Edward Hines, who is expected to be in position to dictate prices and freight rates this year. The lumber trade was never in so uncertain a shape at this season of the year. None of the big lumber firms has made a charter for carrying its product, and some of the heaviest shippers in recent years state to vesselmen that they do not know whether they will want any vessels at all.

Book Typewriters in Combine.

Cleveland, O., March 1.—[Special.]—A $10,000,000 combination of book typewriter companies has been consummated by M. J. Mandelbaum of the Mandelbaum-Pomeroy syndicate. The companies included are the Fisher Typewriter company of Cleveland and the Elliott-Hatch Typewriter company, with works at Harrisburg, Pa. The president of the new company will be ex-Senator Donald Cameron of Pennsylvania.

OPENS FIGHT ON LOCAL OPTION.

Liquor Dealers' Association Sends Protests to Members of the Legislature.

PREDICT MANY DANGERS.

Vermont Held Up as a Horrible Example of How Prohibitory Laws Will Work.

Springfield, Ill., March 1.—The local option bill of the Illinois Anti-Saloon league is to be taken up in the senate committee on license this week. The committee is to hold a meeting on Wednesday, and friends of the measure are to be heard during the afternoon. A week later the opponents of the bill will be given a hearing. The bill is before the elections committee in the house, and it will also come up in that body this week. If it is possible to do so, a joint meeting of the committees will be held for the purpose of considering the bill.

The members of the anti-saloon league, churches, and civic organizations of various sorts have been bombarding the members of the assembly for several weeks with petitions in behalf of the bill.

Liquor Dealers Issue Letter.

The opponents of the measure are now getting busy, and the members have received the following communication from Henry F. Malwauerm, secretary of the Liquor Dealers' Protective association.

"The liquor dealers' associations, numbering nearly 4,000 members, are closely watching the action of the present legislature in regard to the local option bill recently introduced by the anti-saloon league.

"At a meeting of liquor dealers in your district, at which a large number of your constituents were present, it was the general opinion that you would oppose the passage of the bill, and we have every reason to feel confident of your support in this direction.

"The passage of the local option bill means the closing of many saloons in your district and consequently the loss of a large revenue derived therefrom, especially to the city of Chicago, without any corresponding benefit.

"The experience in all parts of the country is that the closing of the legitimate licensed saloon does not stop the use of liquor, but causes the opening of blind pigs, holes in the wall, and other secret places, where liquor is sold, and the turning of the drug stores into saloons, without any financial benefit to the city or town, as, for instance, Hyde Park.

"As a rule the condition of the city or town without a saloon is infinitely worse than the one that licenses and regulates the place where liquor is sold.

Horrible Example of Vermont.

"Local option means prohibiting, and it is only in the last few days that after fifty years of prohibition the state of Vermont has voted to license saloons, and as one of her leading statesmen aptly said: 'Prohibition to Vermont meant fifty years of bribery, fifty years of corruption, fifty years of blackmail, fifty years of plunder, fifty years of extortion, fifty years of drunkenness, fifty years of debauchery.'

"Surely you do not wish to inflict upon Illinois a curse. This is what prohibition has done for Vermont and what local option means for Illinois.

"You will also bear in mind that the prime movers of this local option law are men who fail to contribute one cent to taxes, either to the state or local government, yet they desire to dictate to our lawmakers. We trust that, in the interest and welfare of our great state, you will let well enough alone, for the citizens in the smaller cities and towns of the state now express their wish in regard to the liquor traffic by selection of their local aldermen."

Representative Oliver W. Stewart, the prohibition member of the house, received a copy of this letter.

Civil Service Bill to Come Up.

During the week there will be a joint meeting of the civil service committees of the house and senate, at which all of the bills on this subject will be considered. A number of advocates of state civil service, representing reform organizations, will be present. Owing to the interest in the subject it has been arranged to have the meeting held in the senate chamber, and most of the members of both houses are expected to be present. The meeting will be held Wednesday evening.

Among the speakers who will address the meeting will be the members of the special commission appointed by Gov. Yates to consider the question of civil service in the state institutions.

Other Measures Contemplated.

The subcommittee of the joint committee on penal institutions and labor and industrial affairs, which has in charge the matter of preparing a convict labor bill, will meet on Tuesday to enter upon its work.

The railroad committee of the house will hold a meeting this week, and it is understood that it has practically agreed to report with favorable recommendation the bill placing electric railways under the control of the railroad and warehouse commission. Under this act the electric roads will be required to go before the board to secure crossings over steam roads.

During the week twenty subcommittees, which were appointed by the appropriations committee to look into the needs of the various state institutions, will report to the main committee.

A committee representing the St. Charles Home for Boys will visit Springfield today to inform the governor and the general assembly concerning the plans for conducting the school. Among the trustees will be Judge Richard S. Tuthill of the Juvenile court, Henry E. Weaver, John W. Gates, and Justice T. D. Hurley. Tomorrow morning they will meet representatives and senators and will ask for an appropriation of $785,000 for building and maintenance.

INDIAN'S HEIRS WIN LAND.

PROPERTY WORTH $1,000,000 DECLARED HELD ILLEGALLY.

Packing Houses, Railways, and Water Plant at Kansas City Involved in the Decision, Which Holds Descendants of Silas Armstrong, a Wyandotte, the Real Owners—Change in Channel of the Missouri River Responsible for the Litigation.

Kansas City, Mo., March 1.—A jury in the case of Annie B. Wood and other heirs of Silas Armstrong, an Indian, to recover Missouri river bottom land in Kansas City, Kas., valued at $1,000,000 and occupied by Armour and Fowler, packers, and others, has returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiffs.

The attorneys for the defense have filed notices of appeal. If the decision of the lower court is sustained perhaps the Armour Packing company will be the heaviest loser. The portion of the tract claimed by Armour lies adjacent to the packing plant, and is valued at nearly $100,000. It is occupied by the company's machine and car shops, stables, and private car tracks.

Many Large Firms Involved.

Other large losers will be the Fowler Packing company, the Hannibal and St. Joseph railroad company, the Rock Island railroad company, and the Metropolitan Water company. Smaller interests are claimed by numerous other companies and corporations. In all there were forty plaintiffs and ten defendants.

The tract of land contains nearly eighty-five acres, and originally belonged to Silas Armstrong, a Wyandotte Indian, and, according to the jury's verdict, was an island from 1867 until 1891.

The contention in the suit hinged on a change in the channel of the Missouri river in 1867, just before Armstrong had transferred his property.

River Changes Course Again.

The property transferred extended to the bank of the river, but that year the channel of the river had changed several hundred feet. The portion thus cut off from the tract was not sold, but in the course of time the river reformed and ran in the old channel. When the river changed back to its former channel the portion in litigation and the main body again were connected.

The defendant companies began to extend their industries on that portion which had been an island, claiming it as an accretion, but the heirs of Armstrong stepped in and claimed that the companies had no right to it. The suit was filed in 1900.

MISTAKE OF DRUG CLERK NEARLY KILLS A FAMILY.

Allan H. West of Hammond Wants Quinine—Is Given Capsules That Cause Symptoms of Strychnine Poisoning.

The mistake of a drug clerk in Hammond, Ind., nearly caused the death of Mr. and Mrs. Allan H. West, and did cause severe injury to their child. It is thought that they took strychnine instead of quinine. The doses were not large and both probably will recover.

The capsules were sold to Mr. West, who is at the head of the beef shipping department of the G. H. Hammond company, by a young woman, who is employed as assistant pharmacist in a drug store. Mr. West says that when he made the purchase the clerk was exceedingly busy with a rush of customers. When he reached home he and his wife took two capsules each. An hour afterward they were seized with violent pains. West was carrying their child at the time, and his arms stiffened out so that he dropped it to the floor. He staggered to a neighbor's house and Dr. W. F. Howat was summoned. The doctor gave restoratives. He is unable to tell certainly whether the capsules contain strychnine or not, but says the symptoms indicate strychnine.

The girl who sold the capsules spent Sunday out of Hammond and could not be found last night.

JUMPS IN RIVER BY MISTAKE.

Emil Fiede Gets a Cold Bath and His Father, Who Also Leaps, Is Bruised.

Emil Fiede, with his [illegible] Grand-av[illegible] Grand-av[illegible] ROMANO..... Halsted-s[illegible] BETTING..... Halsted, [illegible] LEE..... Halsted [illegible] night, [illegible] Twenty-sixth street," he looked from the window and thought the station had been passed. The train, however, was then crossing the bridge over the river.

Fiede hastened to the platform of the car, and as the train slowed down swung from the step and pitched headlong into the river, his head striking one of the timbers of the bridge as he fell. Daniel Mahoney and Henry Gaska, who were on the bank of the river, heard the splash and rescued Fiede.

Meanwhile Fiede's father, also thinking that the station had been passed, jumped from the train just after it had crossed the bridge and was painfully bruised.

MISSING BOY IS FOUND SAFE.

Minister's Son for Whom Police of Many Cities Searched Is Located in Michigan.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 1.—Thornton Stansfield, 13 year old son of Dr. Stansfield, pastor of the Meridian Street church, who disappeared from his home on Tuesday, was located this afternoon at the home of Josiah Millikan at Saginaw, Mich., a former neighbor of Dr. Stansfield at Port Huron, Mich. The city has been searched daily since the boy disappeared and the mayor issued a proclamation last night asking for a general search. Cities within a radius of 100 miles have taken part in the hunt. The boy gives no reason for leaving.

ANIMAL STORIES FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

WHY THE MONKEY DENTIST BECAME A SHOEMAKER.

SIMON MONKEY was not satisfied with staying at home and attending to the farm, but he wanted to go out into the world and make a whole lot of money and get his name in the newspapers. So he decided to become a dentist, and he thought he would set up his shop in the jungles and attend to the bad teeth of all the animals of animal land.

One day he opened up his office and sent word to all his friends that he would charge them the lowest rates for pulling their teeth and furnishing them with false teeth.

It was pretty dull for a few days, but after awhile along comes Mr. Tiger. He was an awful sight. Tears ran down both cheeks and his mouth was drawn down at the ends, which is always the case when a person is angry or is in great pain. The tiger was in pain. He had a bad tooth, and it was aching so that he could hardly see straight.

"Does it hurt?" asked Mr. Monkey.

"O, my, yes," answered Mr. Tiger.

"Has it hurt long?" asked Mr. Monkey.

"For three days," answered Mr. Tiger.

Mr. Monkey wrapped his tail around a post in front of his office in order to be able to pull hard, and then he aimed his tooth-puller at Mr. Tiger.

"Are you ready?" asked Mr. Monkey.

"Yes," answered Mr. Tiger.

"Is it a front tooth?" asked Mr. Monkey.

"No," answered Mr. Tiger.

"Is it a back tooth?" asked Mr. Monkey.

"Yes," answered Mr. Tiger.

"Then open your mouth wide," said Mr. Monkey.

"All right; hurry up!" cried Mr. Tiger, and he opened his mouth like only a tiger can open his mouth.

Mr. Monkey gave one look.

The tiger's mouth was so wide and so deep and his teeth were so sharp that the only thing that Mr. Monkey could think of was that the tiger was going to gobble him up.

With a yell Mr. Monkey dropped his pincers on the ground and scrambled into the office. He threw up the back window and took to the woods as fast as ever he could. Straight home he went, and the next day he opened a shoemaker's shop and stuck to that to the end of his days. He said he never wanted to take any chances of being eaten alive again.

The light opera on which Sir Arthur Sullivan was at work at the time of his death, and which Edward German completed from the unfinished score and the sketches, had its first presentation in Chicago last evening at the Grand Opera house before an audience that filled the theater, and came ready to be pleased, and was easily satisfied.

"The Emerald Isle" is not a work that will add anything to the luster lent the name of England's ablest light opera writer by "Mikado," "Patience," "Pirates," and "Iolanthe." It contains music which is superior to most of the music found in the comic opera of the present day, but it is not the music of Sir Arthur at his best. It is music well made, effectively made, but none of it is of the sort that tangles itself up in the mem[illegible] the listener and insists upon being [illegible] whistle or a hum.

[illegible] not a number heard in the [illegible] the two acts last evening that the [illegible] could carry home with him. He had the consciousness of listening to music that was of a higher grade than he had heard of late—music that reminded pleasantly of "Patience" and "Iolanthe," but distinct recollection of the character of any particular number or numbers he did not have when the evening was at an end.

The first act, which is probably more purely Sullivan than the second, lacked any exciting or particularly inspiriting musical feature, a trio, "On the Heights of Glentann," and some of the dance music being the most attractive numbers. The second act moves more briskly, the jig, "Dooley's Alibi," "Sing a Rhyme," and "Fol-de-rol" rousing the audience and making a distinctly favorable impression, but it is doubtful if Sullivan had to do with the composition of all of these. The choruses, as a rule, are the best numbers in the work, the solos lacking character, but the ensembles being skillfully constructed and well orchestrated.

The book is helpless, and its story, being thin for two acts, drops down to virtually nothing in the latter half. The lyrics are fashioned on the Gilbertian model—a model than which there can, of course, be no better, but a model dangerous for any one not exceptionally gifted to adopt. And Capt. Hood is clearly not thus gifted. He rhymes acceptably in the "patter" manner, but his wit is of the heavy sort beloved of the sons of Albion, and the pronouncedly British sentiments expressed in many of the sung and spoken lines, while they probably would prove applause winning in England, fall comparatively flat here.

The major measure of the enjoyment obtained from witnessing last evening's performance was due to the efforts of Mr. De Angelis and the members of his company. They all did their best to make things move brightly and briskly, and as a rule their endeavors were crowned with fair success. That they gave a performance destined to startle the town by its jollity cannot be truthfully stated, but they accomplished much that merited commendation and considerable that was genuinely entertaining and amusing.

Mr. De Angelis as the mountebank hypnotist, prestidigitator,, and impersonator has a rôle supplying him with abundant opportunities for displaying his powers as a funmaker in all their various forms. He changes costume and character countless times in the course of the evening, and in each he has something to offer amusing to his audience. Of singing he has nothing to do that he cannot do acceptably, and his delivery of the spoken lines is characterized by all the little mannerisms and tricks that have won him favor and popularity as a comedian.

The support last evening discovered no especially notable abilities. Miss Condon, who was cast for the leading woman rôle, was vocally incapacitated by an attack of laryngitis, and her place was taken by Miss Norma Bell, who, it was said, sang the part of Molly for the first time. Miss Bell did acceptable work, acting with animation and spirit and singing pleasingly. Mr. Hyatt, who appeared as Pat, impressed also as being new in his part. He stumbled several times in his lines and seemed a bit uncertain as to what he should do in the way of acting.

Resurrection.

A new régime was inaugurated yesterday at the old Auditorium, rechristened the Thirty-first Street theater, when the transplanted Columbus stock company opened in a dramatic version of Tolstoi's novel, "Resurrection." Coming at this time it was an event of double importance, for, besides adding to our list of local playhouses, it was the first presentation in Chicago of the play that has claimed the attention of theatergoers in France and Italy for months, is now being given in London and in New York, and threatens to become a dramatic craze in this country.

The performance yesterday was under disadvantages, for the theater was far from being in finished condition. The management announced that it had secured possession only at 4 a. m. yesterday and that the resultant disorder was unavoidable. Camp chairs were used throughout the house and the floor was level instead of inclined.

In the rôle of Katusha Maslowa, Annie Sutherland has the best opportunity to display her talent afforded her in some weeks. Her every appearance is eminently satisfactory. In her opening scene she is charmingly pretty and girlish, while later she is the debauched, unlovely creature, a denizen of the lowest haunts of vice. Her finest work is done in her interview with the priest in the last act, when, just at the time her future seemed most propitious, she is induced to renounce her love rather than bring the degradation on her lover which a marriage with her would mean.

Richard Buhler is a handsome Prince Nekludov, but no great opportunities are his. His strongest scene is in the courtroom. Frederick Hartley is satisfactory as the careless, easygoing Capt. Shenbot. John Arthur is effective as Councilor Korchagin. Frederick Julian gives a studied portrayal of Father Peter. An artistic character sketch is given by Edith Julian as a shrewish virago. William Jossey, Marguerite Sutherland, Lydia Knott, Clara Knott, and the remaining members of the company, do good work in the less important parts assigned them.

Gabrilowitsch Recital.

When Ossip Gabrilowitsch, the young Russian pianist, was heard here in recital for the first time, over two years ago, his playing contained elements of merit and of promise, but also discovered many attributes that called for unfavorable mention. His performance of the Tschaikowsky concerto a short time before had been far more satisfying than was his recital, and it was felt, after hearing him without orchestra, that, while he was talented possibly beyond the average, his talents were as yet not sufficiently matured to make safe the estimating of his ultimate position among the younger piano virtuosi of the world.

He came again this season, and his appearance with the Chicago orchestra proved a pleasant surprise—he played the Chopin E minor concerto in a manner superior to what had been expected of him, even after expectation had taken thought of the development possible to him in the two years that had passed. He had improved remarkably, and the announcement of a recital by him was welcomed with pleasant anticipations. These anticipations knew realization yesterday, and they brought with them nothing of disappointment.

The young player demonstrated brilliantly that he has not only worked to excellent purpose during the two years, and that he now stands among the ablest of the youthful pianists, but also that his powers are such that the music world may with confidence look to him to become one of the best equipped and most genuinely eloquent apostles of beauty piano playing can call its own. None except Hofmann of the young pianists heard here has done such thoroughly admirable work as did Gabrilowitsch at his recital in Music hall yesterday afternoon.

Healthy, best describes his work. Touch, tone, facility, strength, lightness, all that goes to make up the technical side of his performance, are, like the musicianship, sentiment, emotion, and taste that constitute his interpretative ability, essentially healthy and sane. There is nothing of effect seeking, pose, or finickiness. It is the piano playing of a man normal, intelligent, refined, and musically clear sighted and straight eyed—a man who is still young, but to whom youth is a blessing, since it has given him enthusiasm, vigor, and hopeful confidence, but not affectation and conceit.

His tone has the ring of true strength in it, his phrasing is clear, clean, and sensible, his shading is rational and natural, his sentiment is manly and sweet, his musicianship distinguished by intelligence and taste. That he has technical equipment such as fits him to perform any pianistic task he sets himself was amply demonstrated yesterday, but he never uses this power to astonish or impress his hearers. He is one of the few virtuosi of the present day who has the courage to play slowly.

The Beethoven sonata—the E flat major, op. 31—was not only read with remarkable insight, poetry, and taste but the technical finish that characterized its performance was enhanced by the fact that the tempos were such that the hearer felt the player was at no time testing or exploiting the speed and facility of his fingers. The first of the Chopin B major nocturnes and the same composer's C sharp minor waltz were interpreted with unusual revealment of their poetic content, and largely because neither of them was hurried, as they often are. The A flat polonaise was also taken at admirably deliberate tempo, but with a vigor, breadth, and manly bigness that, without suggesting any forcing of the instrument, gave the impression of splendid strength and power.

Had Mr. Gabrilowitsch done nothing more than this Chopin group and the Beethoven sonata the debt of his hearers to him would have been large, but he increased that obligation by giving a finely balanced, technically admirable, and deeply interesting performance of the Brahms variations on a theme by Handel, and by playing a bright gavotte of his own, Henselt's "If I Were a Bird," Arensky's "Près de la Mer," and the Rubinstein Valse le Bal, and adding as encores finely poetic readings of Schumann's F sharp romance and the Nachtstuck in F.

TRADE UNION A BULWARK.

PROF. J. H. GRAY SAYS IT KEEPS UP STANDARD OF LIVING.

Prevents General Lowering of Social and Economic Conditions—Northwestern University Man Addresses Co-operative Bible Class at Evanston, Criticising Recent Speech of Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis and Defends Labor Organizations.

Labor unions were defended and Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis was criticised for his attack on them by Prof. John H. Gray, head of the department of political and social science of Northwestern university in an address yesterday at Evanston. Prof. Gray was speaking to the coöperative bible class of the First Congregational church, his subject being: "What are the most glaring evils of our industrial and social system and what are the remedies in sight?"

"The labor organizations," Prof. Gray said, "are not only a safeguard to the interests of laborers, but, under present circumstances, are necessary to prevent a general lowering of social and economic conditions.

"Dr. Hillis, in his speech before the manufacturers' association, severely arraigned labor unions for their acts of violence. I do not say that what Dr. Hillis said is not true, but in view of the number of deaths and physical injuries to working people for which industries are responsible, it is out of place to lay such emphasis on the small number of cases of violence. Dr. Hillis merely emphasized the minor evil as the greater one.

"Under the competitive system, where employers are driven hard and competition is severe, the pressure to drive workingmen is correspondingly keen. As a result of this and the concentration of wealth and energy, certain great evils grow up.

"The phases that seem to be most appalling at this stage are tendency to increase child labor and the insanitary conditions which carry off many workmen. Another manifestation is the enormous number of accidental deaths and physical injuries to working people. America is the only country that has not wrestled with that difficulty in an adequate way. Nearly all European nations have established complete systems of insurance of working people against accident, sickness, and old age.

"America, in failing to make adequate compensation to those who suffer industrial accidents, hides behind antiquated legal theories. German statistics prove that in this age of complex machinery accidents are due to no negligence, but are necessary concomitants of machinery production. Society, as a whole, gets the benefit of the machine. Society, therefore, should bear the burden."

GIVES DRAMATIC SCHOLARSHIP

Henry Miller Promises to Pay Expenses of One Student in Proposed New College.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 1.—[Special.]—The first scholarship in the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, for which $300,000 was pledged at a dinner here a few nights ago, is to be known as the Henry Miller scholarship. Miller, who was playing here in "The Taming of Helen," made a formal offer to endow a scholarship and cover all the annual expenses of one student. George Clarke, who is engineering the proposed American Academy of Dramatic Arts, has accepted Miller's offer.

Favors School Dramatic Art.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, March 1.—Charles Frohman, speaking in reference to the proposed academy of dramatic art at Philadelphia, said:

"I hope the enterprise shown by the citizens of Philadelphia in subscribing so liberally will be at once followed by similar enterprises in New York, Boston, and Chicago. The plan is a good one, and shows splendid modern spirit and appreciation of dramatic art when an appeal of this nature meets such generous response. I hope the promoters of the enterprise will be entirely successful.

"I also hope that in carrying out the plans they will aim at something different from the Comédie Française, which, in my opinion, lives entirely upon its traditions. Let us have something original and American."

STUDENT DEAD ON HIGH ROCK.

Body of Youth Believed to Have Fallen Down Precipice Discovered After Five Days.

New Haven, Conn., March 1.—[Special.]—Edward L. Howard, a junior in the Sheffield scientific school, was found dead on the shelf of a table rock 100 feet down the precipitous side of East Rock, which is 400 feet high, this afternoon. Howard lived in Mont Clair, N. J. He disappeared from college last Tuesday, but was thought to be visiting relatives at his home until yesterday, when his brother came and started a search. It is believed that Howard was walking along the brow of East Rock and accidentally fell off last Tuesday, and his body since has been lying covered with snow half way down the rock's front. Howard was 20 years old and a scholarship leader in his class.

What paint is for

The best reason for painting is commonly least thought of.

Paint protects property; but it's usually put on merely for appearances: what your house needs has less to do with it than what your neighbors think of you.

Might as well paint for both: looks and protection: doesn't cost any more.

Devoe ready paint is the surest way of having both, and having 'em a long while.

Travelers' Sample Handkerchiefs.

The sale that always draws the crowds, because everybody knows that no such handkerchief bargains are offered elsewhere or at any other time.

These handkerchiefs are the samples returned by the traveling salesmen of our wholesale house after finishing their spring business. They are through with the samples, and while they are as good as though never shown they cannot be used to fill orders. We, therefore, hold this semi-annual sale, which is looked forward to as an "occasion." There is no sale during the year which draws such crowds of eager purchasers. This year's will exceed all other sales in quality of samples, varieties of styles, beauty of designs and intrinsic values.

Men's and women's sample handkerchiefs, in every known style and quality, at ⅓ original prices.

Prices, 3, 5, 8, 10, 12½, 15, 18, 25, 35, 50 cents.

LYON & HEALY'S ALTERATION SALE OF PIANOS! A very important movement. Our old second floor warerooms having become insufficient in size and equipment for the demands of business we have undertaken alterations of the most extensive character. Some little inconvenience will attend selecting a piano at this sale, owing to the workmen, but we have made such sweeping price reductions in both new and second hand pianos that no one can afford to overlook this opportunity.
The following will convey an idea of the exceptional values in slightly used and second hand pianos:
Collard & Collard upright, $75.
Lyon & Healy upright, $100.
Chickering upright, small, good condition, $175.
Lyon & Healy, walnut case, $125.
Hackley upright, good as new, walnut case, $140.
Washburn upright, mahogany case, $175.
McPhail upright, nearly new, $265.
Steinway small upright, a fine instrument, $350.
Blasius mahogany upright, good as new, $280.
Huntington upright, rented short time, $165.
Sterling mahogany, colonial, $225.

Special values in pianos of the following makes: Steinway, Knabe, Miller, Mason & Hamlin, Krakauer, Hazelton, Strick & Zeidler, McPhail, Anderson, Fischer, Blasius, Kurtzmann, Sterling, Huntington, Winter, Packard, Mathushek, Krell, Kohler & Campbell, Woodbury, Regent, and many others. Neat new uprights reduced to $125, $135, and $150. In short, a CHOICE OF 600 PIANOS.
EASY PAYMENTS—These pianos may be secured from us on very easy terms. No advance in price when paid by installments.
Buyers at a distance should write for special bargain list and also our schedule of freight rates on pianos. We ship pianos everywhere.
Inexpensive pianos bought from us may be exchanged later toward the purchase of a Steinway or a Knabe.
LYON & HEALY, Wabash-av. and Adams-st.
The business of Lyon & Healy largely exceeds in volume and value that of any other musical establishment in either Europe or America.

PLAN A STRIKE IN GAS PLANTS.

Union Men Employed by the People's Company May Go Out This Morning.

ONLY 200 ARE INVOLVED.

Said by Leaders That the Life of Their Organizations Is Threatened.

Every union man employed by the People's Gaslight and Coke company will be asked to strike at 10 o'clock this morning. It is said the union men number about 10 per cent, or 200 in all.

On the result of this walkout is believed to hang the future of the labor organizations which deal with the gas company, and arrangements have been made for a long battle.

The strike was decided on yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Chicago Federation of Labor, when Organizeer J. J. Fitzpatrick announced that unless labor took some action all the organizations connected with the gas company would be crushed out of existence. He asserted that thirty-eight meter inspectors and statement takers had been discharged within the last month and that a strike must be called to save the unions.

The federation voted to indorse any action taken by the men, who will meet at 10 o'clock this morning and adopt plans for their fight. They have given up hope of negotiations, as last week they sent two delegations and one communication to the company and received no response.

The union leaders do not claim to have a large proportion of the 2,500 employés of the company, but declare they have enough to warrant their delegations being received.

The unions involved in the controversy are the teamsters, the statement takers, the gasfitters, the gas meter inspectors, and the gashouse workers.

See Chances of Failure.

That the unions are doubtful of success was voiced frequently in the meeting. J. J. Ryan of the gasfitters said that his union has been fighting the company for ten years and has not been able to win. Organizer Fitzpatrick told of the gashouse strike last year, which resulted in defeat for the men, and said in this case the unions must fight together.

"There is but one way you can win," said G. V. Lighthall, former president of the federation, "and that is by going it together and getting aid. Every union man and woman should refuse to allow a meter inspector or a statement taker to see the meter in the house until he can show a union card."

Business Agent Feather of the flat janitors promised that his organization would "lead the nonunion men a merry life," and the elevator men agreed to do all they can.

Company's Side of It.

Secretary L. A. Wiley of the company said last night concerning the situation:

"There have been no men discharged for joining a union. We never ask a man whether he is union or nonunion. The reason why some of the men were dropped recently was because we combined two departments. This forced some out and others were dropped on account of slack business.

"The company has had little trouble with the unions, and does not expect any serious difficulty now. Even should the strike be called, it will not cause any cessation of business and no one will feel its effects save the men who walk out. We have over 2,000 men employed, but I do not know how many of them belong to unions. We have never investigated."

Chorus Girls Seek Aid.

Chorus singers from Glickman's theater told the federation that Mr. Glickman discharged two of their leaders because they belonged to the Chorus Singers' union. Ida Bloom, 330 Morgan street, and Dora Miller are the ones discharged. It was decided to send a committee of musicians and federation officials to try and settle the trouble.

The federation adopted plans to submit to State's Attorney Deneen some evidence that has been collected against the coal operators. It also indorsed the Torrens law, the Jandus lien law, and the fellow servant act.

Other Labor Affairs.

The tobacco trust came up for condemnation in two resolutions, which were adopted. One was framed by the tobacco salesmen's union and the other by the cigarmakers' union. Both asked a boycott on the stores and goods of the trust.

The federation refused to seat the united garment workers, who again made an attempt to get recognition. The matter was given over to a committee for investigation and will be acted on at the next meeting.

Just at the close of the session a measure condemning tax dodging, which has been pushed by Patrick H. O'Donnell, came up in the form of a long report. It was read hurriedly and adopted by about twenty-five delegates, the only ones present, and half of whom did not hear it.

COUNCIL GETS THE BUDGET AT ITS MEETING TONIGHT.

Appropriation Bill to Be Reported and on Thursday It Will Be Taken Up in Committee of the Whole.

The finance committee will report the annual appropriation bill into the city council this evening and an adjournment will be taken until Thursday, when the aldermen will meet in committee of the whole to consider the budget. The expectation is the bill can be disposed of inside of the week.

Ald. Werno also expects to call up the Municipal Art league's anti-smoke ordinance, which at the last meeting was postponed for two weeks. While the appropriation bill carries an item of $2,000, which is necessary to put this ordinance into effect, Ald. Werno is afraid this item may "get lost" if the anti-smoke ordinance is not passed first.

Were the appropriation bill to pass without the item named it would mean postponing the smoke ordinance for a year.

EVANSTON LOSES LIBRARY GIFT

Failure to Raise Fund Forfeits C. F. Grey's Offer—Women Blame the "Upper Classes."

The offer of C. F. Grey to give Evanston a $100,000 library was forfeited at midnight on Saturday through failure to raise money to buy the site selected by Mr. Grey. Members of the Woman's club, who have been working to raise funds, attribute their failure "to the apathy of the 'upper classes.'" They say the moderately well off and even the poorer people subscribed, but only two rich men's names were put down, and one of these two subscriptions was not authentic. There is a report that the recent agitation of the project has aroused interest and that certain residents will provide a library building, but no names are mentioned.

FALSE ALARM OF "MAD DOG."

Policeman and Others Pursue an Unoffending Canine and Then Learn Their Mistake.

Three policemen of the West Chicago avenue station, followed by a crowd, chased a dog supposed to be suffering from rabies yesterday, only to find that the animal was not mad. The cries of "mad dog" caused excitement in the neighborhood of the police station, and then the chase began, lasting for three blocks, when the frightened dog secreted itself under a house. Finally the policemen succeeded in persuading the dog to come out, and then they saw their mistake.

HELP CAUSE OF NEW CHARTER.

Members of Civic Federation Committee Go to Springfield Today to Appear Before Senators.

A committee representing the civic federation leaves today for Springfield to be present tomorrow when the charter amendment resolution introduced by Senator Campbell comes before the senate judiciary committee. The members of the committee are Fred W. Upham, H. S. McCartney, Adolph Nathan, John M. Clark, D. E. Sunny, Frank O. Lowden, E. R. Bliss, E. Allen Frost, Honoré Palmer, S. P. Shope, W. W. Baird, Judge O. N. Carter, John P. McGoorty, Daniel D. Healy, and Secretary William H. Brown.

NEBRASKA FARMERS IN TRUST.

Grain and Live Stock Men Combine to Control Buying and Shipping for Entire State.

Lincoln, Neb., March 1.—A state organization of the Nebraska Grain and Live Stock association was effected at a meeting held here last night. The association will incorporate immediately with a capital stock of $500,000. The ultimate plan is to have the farmers control the grain buying and cattle shipping industries of the state. Elevators will be built wherever feasible and stockyards established.

Entertainment for Troop E.

The date of the entertainment at Steinway hall for the benefit of Troop E, First Illinois cavalry, will be Saturday, March 7, instead of Friday, March 6, as at first announced.

STATUE OF WASHINGTON GIVEN TO CHICAGO.

An equestrian statue of Washington, a replica of Daniel Chester French's creation, now on view in Paris, is to be given to Chicago by a dozen or more citizens whose names are not revealed. The statue is to cost $13,000, and probably will be put in position at the head of Grand boulevard at a site to be selected by the South park commissioners, who will furnish the pedestal. Charles L. Hutchinson announced the gift at a meeting of the Chicago Public School Art society, held Saturday afternoon. The original of the statue was presented to the French government by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

LABOR TO FIGHT FOREMAN

FEDERATION ADOPTS RESOLUTIONS DENOUNCING HIM.

Calls Him the Enemy of Unions Because of the Reduction in Wages of Janitors and Elevator Conductors in County Buildings—Determination Announced to Resist the Cut—President of Commissioners Says Pay Is Still High.

President Henry G. Foreman of the board of county commissioners was bitterly denounced by the city hall element of the Chicago Federation of Labor yesterday afternoon for his part in the reduction of appropriations for Sheriff Barrett's office. Resolutions condemning him and promising to fight the cut were passed after several attempts to defend him had been stopped by jeers.

The officers of the janitors, elevator men, and janitresses' unions went to the meeting ready for trouble. Several former leaders in the federation are now holding offices in the sheriff's department, and they had friends present to demand that organized labor prevent any cut in the salaries of their chiefs. Several clamored for the floor when the matter came up, among them Peter Dienhart, a pressman, who stumped for Barrett last fall.

"A certain prestige was foisted upon the president of the board last fall by a few men here, who made him out to be a friend of labor," he shouted. "Now what does he do? He cuts the salaries of the scrubwomen, the janitors, and elevator men. He once filled the boathouses in the south parks with nonunion men.

"Why did the board not start at the top and cut the salaries of the men who get their money for dropping into their offices occasionally?"

"Are the men whose wages he cut union men?" demanded a delegate.

"It makes no difference," came Dienhart's reply.

"That's because they are democrats," was shouted.

Resolution Put to Vote.

President Schardt then put to vote a resolution which had been introduced by the janitors and elevator men, and it was carried. It reads as follows:

"Whereas, The county board, under the pretense of economy, has seen fit to reduce the wages of those men and women who, by faithful and heavy labor, earn fully the stipend which they have received in the past—namely: the elevator men, janitors, janitresses, and guards; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the Chicago Federation of Labor denounces such action on the part of the commissioners and asks that this body take such action as will force the board to know that organized labor will not submit to the reduction of wages at the present time, when the cost of living would rather create the necessity for an increase."

Business Agent Fieldstack acknowledged that even with the cuts the janitors and elevator men in most of the county buildings will be paid more than the union scale.

Maximum Wages, Says Foreman.

President Foreman, when seen in the evening, said that the county pays all its employés wages as high as the union scale.

"Before the finance commitee fixed the pay for the elevator men," he said, "a thorough investigation was made of the union rate. It was ascertained that that rate ran from $52 to $60 a month for elevator conductors. The average is $55 a month. So, in deciding the reduction from $75 to $60, we still give the top figure.

"I believe the county should not pay any more for what it gets than individuals do."

In regard to the contest between the county board and Sheriff Barrett over the appropriations made to the latter's office Mr. Foreman declined to say more than to review the case.

SCHOOL CORNER STONE IS LAID.

Ceremonies at Jewish Building Are Held After Two Postponements—Privileges Bring $650.

After two postponements the corner stone of the Jewish school at Blucher and Wood streets was laid yesterday afternoon. The privilege of laying the corner stone was sold to M. Marks for $150, and other privileges and gifts made the total receipts $650.

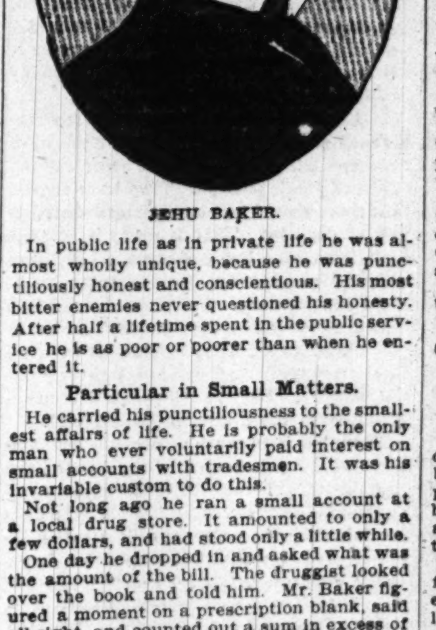

DEATH OF JEHU BAKER.

PASSING OF UNIQUE FIGURE IN ILLINOIS POLITICS.

Represented His District in Congress Three Different Times and Was the Only Man Who Ever Defeated "Horizontal Bill" Morrison—Was United States Minister to Venezuela Under Hayes and Arthur—Noted for Being Particular in Small Matters.

Belleville, Ill., March 1.—[Special.]—Jehu Baker, former member of congress, died at his home in this city today, at the age of 81 years. He had been ill for several days and his death was not unexpected.

Mr. Baker's death removes an unique figure from Illinois political life. He had been a member of congress three different times, in 1865-'69, 1887-'79, and in 1897-'99, being the only man who ever defeated "Horizontal Bill" Morrison. In 1878 he was appointed United States minister to Venezuela by President Hayes, and in 1882 was reappointed by President Arthur.

JEHU BAKER.

In public life as in private life he was almost wholly unique, because he was punctiliously honest and conscientious. His most bitter enemies never questioned his honesty. After half a lifetime spent in the public service he is as poor or poorer than when he entered it.

Particular in Small Matters.

He carried his punctiliousness to the smallest affairs of life. He is probably the only man who ever voluntarily paid interest on small accounts with tradesmen. It was his invariable custom to do this.

Not long ago he ran a small account at a local drug store. It amounted to only a few dollars, and had stood only a little while. One day he dropped in and asked what was the amount of the bill. The druggist looked over the book and told him. Mr. Baker figured a moment on a prescription blank, said all right, and counted out a sum in excess of that named by the druggist. The latter called attention to what he supposed was Mr. Baker's mistake.

"The excess," said Mr. Baker, "is interest at the rate of 6 per cent."

Refuses to Ride Free.

When the conductor of a Washington street car refused to accept fare from him because he was a congressman, he had the car stopped and got off and walked.

Once a woman high in the social life of the capital, the wife of an official, wrote to him asking for a few franks to be used in a strictly philanthropic way. He sent the franks, but after he had done so he tried the case over again in his own mind, found himself guilty of a wrong act, and set himself to right it.

He wrote to the woman that on mature thought he had decided that it would not be right, even in the cause of charity, to permit the use of the official franks for other than official business. He requested her to return them, and she did so.

For over a year Mr. Baker had been almost blind, owing to the growth of cataracts over both of his eyes.

WAY TO DEFEAT SURFACE TRACKS

Fourth Ward Citizens Would Have the Council Harass the Railways.

MAYOR IS URGED TO AID.

Campaign Against Grade Crossings Is to Be Extended by Indignant Ones.

"Harass the railroads till they agree to raise their tracks," was the cry raised yesterday at a meeting of the Fourth Ward Improvement club.

The meeting, held in Liberty hall, was largely attended and plans were put on foot to extend the agitation and form a central body of the various anti-grade crossing associations.

It was suggested that the city council could bring the railways to terms by adopting an ordinance compelling them to stop trains at all crossings. Such an ordinance, it was reasoned, would be so objectionable to the railways that they would be glad to elevate their tracks immediately.

Father Kelly Leads Attack.

The Rev. Edward Kelly of St. Cecelia's church, who has been prominent in the agitation, was the principal speaker.

"It has been claimed," Father Kelly said, "that the railroads cannot be compelled, under the terms of their contract with the city council, to raise their tracks along Stewart avenue until 1906, but, in spite of this, something must be done to stop this wholesale murder. I do not think I overestimate it when I say that there is an average of one train every three minutes passing along Stewart avenue every day. Thousands of persons cross the railroad tracks in this time, and every day you hear of some one being killed or injured. Today it is your neighbor or your neighbor's child. Tomorrow it may be you or one of your family.

"With all these murders—and I call them nothing but murders—the railroads deliberately continue to maintain the grade crossings, and we are justified in adopting any means in fighting the railroads. If they insist in holding to the terms of their agreement, because they find it cheaper to kill people at $5,000 apiece than to elevate their tracks, we must do all we can to harass them.

Asks Mayor to Aid.

"We must have the coöperation of the mayor, and if he will go after the railroads it will mean a great deal to our cause. Let him tell them that they must raise their tracks and that he means to compel them to do it. Let the council pass an ordinance requiring the railroads to put two able bodied flagmen on each crossing and to bring all trains to a full stop on each side.

"The bill now before the legislature providing for the abolishment of the $5,000 limit on human life should be passed. If the railroads find that it is costing them more than $5,000 for each person they kill the elevation of the tracks will follow."

A resolution was adopted authorizing the executive committee of the club to seek the coöperation of kindred organizations, and to arrange for a convention to be held in Father Kelly's hall on the evening of March 14. Fifteen delegates were appointed to attend the convention. They are Richard Powers, Robert P. Echlin, Henry Stuckart, Frank J. Doubek, Maurice Fitzgerald, Michael Blake, William Lant, B. Braughtigan, Thomas Sullivan, L. N. Opitz, James Hanley, Thomas Whitlamt, M. Hattus, J. Guide, Anton Stolte, Henry Schroeder, and August Fess.

ADOPTION OF FREE TRADE AS A REMEDY FOR TRUSTS.

Edwin Burritt Smith Says a Protective Tariff Fattens Big Combinations at the Expense of Consuming Public.

Free trade was declared to be the remedy for trusts by Edwin Burritt Smith in an address before the Henry George association in Handel hall yesterday. Mr. Smith said the trusts "are an ever present help to spend our earnings."

"There are people, some of whom occupy high places, who are as blind as bats to all objections to the protective tariff," said the speaker. "They object, or profess to entertain objections to the trusts, but they decline to admit any possible relation between the blessed tariff and the monopoly corporations.

"Yet, with few exceptions, the trusts are based on the tariff. They exercise the powers of private taxation with which it invests them, brazenly sell their products at higher prices to domestic than to foreign consumers, own and manage the organization of the dominant political party, and claim that they are divinely appointed to administer what they call 'prosperity.'

"While it is unlikely that free trade in all trust made goods would destroy all trusts, there is no doubt whatever that it would rob them of their strongest support. If these monopoly combinations are indeed heaven sent results of a natural evolution, if they are the product of natural laws, as is claimed for them, they need no human laws for their support."

Allen Ripley Foote, the editor of Public Policy, also made an address explaining the Campbell municipal ownership bill.

"The enactment of this measure will mark the beginning of a new epoch in the regulation of public service utilities," said Mr. Foote. "Its influence will be felt in every city council and state legislature. It will increase the value of the holdings of every urban property owner. It will ease the pressue on the earnings of every urban worker.

"It is founded on correct principles. It is fair. It is honest. It is right. A sound economic proposition is politically expedient. On these grounds this measure will be enacted."

VERDICT IN RIVER LANDS SUIT.

Case That Has Been on Trial for Nearly Three Months to Have a Decision Today.

In Judge Dunne's court this morning a verdict will be read in the condemnation suit brought by the sanitary district to secure possession of property lying along the west bank of the Chicago river, between Madison and Randolph streets. The case has been on trial for nearly three months.

Some time ago Attorney General Hamlin filed an intervening petition in the case and endeavored to prove that a ten foot strip of land along the west bank of the Chicago river had been encroached upon by the property owners and that it belonged to the state. Judge Dunne ruled that the only right of the state was to the easement that existed, giving the people the right to travel on this strip of land.

The city of Chicago also put in a claim in the case.

ILLINOIS AND MICHIGAN CANAL.

The sum total of the various appropriations the general assembly has been asked to make is a much larger amount than it can be induced to vote or than it ought to vote. Not all the objects for which money is asked are meritorious. It is proposed, for instance, that a large sum be spent on the Illinois and Michigan canal. Whatever sum is voted for the purpose of patching up that public work will be thrown away. For the time being the value of the canal for traffic purposes is at an end. The state might spend half a million dollars on it and it would remain a canal without canal boats.

The day will come when the general government will relieve the state of the burden of the Illinois and Michigan canal—will widen and deepen it from Joliet to its western terminus, and make it a serviceable waterway between the Mississippi river and Lake Michigan. If the general government were to do no more than make it seven feet deep—the depth of the Hennepin canal—substantial benefits would accrue to Illinois and neighboring states.

As for that section of the canal which has been paralleled by the Chicago drainage channel, it is utterly without value. Money expended in efforts to better its condition clearly is thrown away. An appropriation for that purpose simply gives the canal commissioners a little patronage. As that part of the canal between Chicago and Lockport has no value, present or future, opposition to legislation looking to the cutting of a waterway from the Calumet to the Chicago drainage channel on the ground that it will harm the Illinois and Michigan canal is ridiculous. The proposed waterway will be useful for purposes of sanitation and ultimately of navigation. Its construction ought not to be blocked out of consideration for the nasty ditch which lies alongside the drainage channel.

QUESTIONS FOR THE COURT.

Associate Justice Brewer of the United States Supreme court summarizes in the March number of Scribner's the most important questions which appear likely to arise and to be pressed upon the attention of the court of which he is a member. The article would be more interesting if the writer would tell how the questions he specifies are likely to be decided, but that he cannot do, for it would not be becoming in a judge to say too much about matters he may have to pass on, and because, when the court finally reaches some of the questions mentioned, its personnel may be changed so much that the decision will be different from what it would be if rendered by the court as it is. Old judges go and new judges, who think differently on many subjects, replace them.

The important matters which the Supreme court is to pass upon are divided by Justice Brewer into four classes. The first embraces questions growing out of controversies between capital and labor, the second those which will arise from the movement in the direction of increasing national power at the expense of the powers of the states, the third those arising out of the new insular possessions, and the fourth those which will result from closer and more extensive relations with the other nations of the earth.

The purpose of the framers of the constitution, says Justice Brewer, was to give the freest scope to individual action. They had large notions of individual liberty and a jealousy of governmental power. Since their day the relations of employer and employé have been changed materially. Machinery, the concentration of capital, and the organization of labor have so modified the industrial situation that legislation is demanded which conflicts with the theories of the fathers of the republic. They believed freedom of personal action was the inalienable right of every person. Today arguments are advanced in favor of compulsory arbitration, which would limit the personal freedom of employer and employé. Should a compulsory arbitration law be enacted, says Justice Brewer, there will be much to challenge the careful consideration of the courts. Today the spirit of paternalism is abroad. It is suggested that the general government condemn coal mines and operate them for the public benefit. The question is, says Justice Brewer, how far the language and guarantees of the constitution are, if unchanged, consistent with legislation expressing the changed ideas of the present.

Ever since the civil war there have been efforts to enlarge the activity of congress. There has been a marked and a natural centralizing tendency. The unending antagonism between the national authority and state rights, which began with the republic, will bring into the Supreme court an increasing number of difficult and important questions. Many serious questions have already grown out of the acquisition of the insular dependencies, and others will arise, especially when citizens of American birth move into the islands and acquire property and engage in business there. Out of the expanding international relations of the United States will arise cases involving questions of constitutional and international law and of general jurisprudence. There will be no idle days for the Supreme court.

The questions which Justice Brewer will have to pass on those ...ken the greatest popular interest, and regarding which there will be the greatest diversity of opinion, will be those concerning the relations of capital and labor.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.

Tomorrow the judiciary committee of the state senate will consider the constitutional amendment whose ratification means so much to Chicago. Friends of the measure will explain its provisions to the committee, although an explanation hardly is needed. The subject has been under discussion for some time. There is nobody in Chicago who does not know, and there are not many persons in the state at large who have not been informed, that Chicago is so hampered and fettered by the restrictions of the constitution that it cannot have a proper form of government, that it cannot provide itself with the necessaries of municipal life, and that its progress is retarded and the interests of its citizens injuriously affected. Indirectly the interests of all Illinoisans suffer, for the welfare of the city and the state are indissolubly united.

The amendment contemplates the consolidation of distinct governments operating within the same territory, to the end that greater economy and efficiency in administration may be secured. It will enlarge the borrowing capacity of the city and enable it to make improvements which are necessary but which cannot be had under existing conditions. It will make possible the abolition of a justice court system which is oppressive to the poor and a mockery of justice.

The amendment, if ratified, will conflict with the rights of no locality and of no individuals. It will not force upon the people of the city and county anything they do not want, for they are to determine what shall be done under the amendment. It simply gives local popular sovereignty a broader scope than it has now. Distrustful residents of county towns may tell the legislature that danger for them lurks in the constitutional amendment. That is not the case. Their rights are amply protected. Through excess of suspicion they would defeat a measure essential to the well being of Chicago—and of the county towns, which are the most prosperous when the city is most flourishing.

A refusal of the general assembly to submit the new charter amendment to the voters of the state will be a calamity indeed. It will postpone the day of relief from almost unendurable conditions by two years. It will force the city to struggle along as best it may without money, without needed improvements, and with a clumsy, expensive, inefficient system of local administration. The legislature, familiar as it is with the urgent needs of Chicago, surely will not disregard its appeal for relief.

THE GOVERNMENT BUILDING.

The passage by the house of representatives of the omnibus public buildings bill sends it to a conference committee with a reasonable certainty of its becoming a law. This means that the limit of cost of the Chicago government building will be raised from $4,000,000 to $4,750,000, and it will be possible to complete the interior in accordance with the original plans. Marble and bronze will be used instead of stucco and plaster. There will not be a cheap interior, contrasting offensively with a handsome exterior.

As the opposition in the house to the provision for the proper completion of the postoffice building was feeble and fruitless, Chicagoans take a more lenient view than they otherwise would of the peculiar attitude of Representative Mann. The other members from this city and those from the rest of the state were on the right side and he was on the wrong side. As Representative Mann intimated, his course in the matter has not met with the approval of his constituents or of any Chicagoans. The delays in construction have displeased greatly the people of this city. They have no higher opinion of those responsible for the delays than Mr. Mann has, but they have not been so carried away by resentment as to consent to punish themselves by having the interior of the great government building an eyesore.

On all previous occasions Representative Mann has worked with zeal and ability for his constituents. He was altogether on the wrong side in the postoffice matter, but, fortunately, he did no harm.

DEMOCRATIC INCONSISTENCY.

The Aldrich bill to regulate the deposit of public funds in the banks was debated in the senate on Saturday. It met with little favor among the democrats. They pretended to discover in it a dangerous extension of the powers of the secretary of the treasury and opportunities for "gross favoritism."

The attitude of the democratic opponents of the bill is irrational. The measure is designed to cure evils which they have long complained of, and yet they reject a remedy when it comes in the form of republican legislation. Democrats have contended that the frequent congestion of money in the treasury is harmful to the business interests of the country. No doubt that is the case. The Aldrich bill will relieve that congestion, but democratic senators act as if they did not wish it to be relieved. They prefer it to continue so that the republican party may be blamed for its continuance.

It has been asserted by the democrats that the great banks in the great cities have been specially favored in the matter of deposits of public moneys. They have argued that there should be a more general distribution of deposits. That is really impossible so long as none but government bonds are accepted as security, for the great banks alone can get them. Under the Aldrich bill, which allows other than government bonds to be used as security, the surplus funds of the government may be spread throughout the country. Yet the Aldrich bill is unacceptable to most democratic senators.

There has been much democratic denunciation of the practice of letting banks have the use of government funds without the payment of interest. The Aldrich bill makes provision for the payment of interest on deposits, and yet that bill encounters democratic opposition. Its enactment into a law would deprive the democrats of some cherished occasions for fault finding. For that reason they oppose it, though they should support it heartily.

STILL SCHEMING FOR A SUBSIDY.

The man whose bill for the payment of a revolutionary war or French spoliations claim has been defeated in one congress after another never is discouraged. While life lasts he will lobby for his bill. He is a type of persistency, but he is no more persistent than the seeker after a subsidy—the man who is resolved that the government shall vote him a continuing appropriation from its revenues so that he may accumulate a fortune speedily.

The ship subsidy people have been badly beaten in this congress. The refusal last week to report their bill to the house puts them back where they were when congress convened. They are not disheartened. They have not given up the fight. They are planning to be in a better position when the Fifty-eighth congress meets than they occupied when the present congress assembled. At their procurement a joint resolution has been introduced for the appointment of a joint commission to sit during the recess, to investigate "our policy of international navigation," to ascertain "how we may constitutionally encourage our foreign trade and thereby regain our lost position upon the seas," and to report a bill embodying its conclusions to congress. The resolution places the appointment of the members of the commission in the hands of persons who will take care that a majority, if not all, of the appointees will be of the opinion that the constitutional way to encourage foreign trade is by voting unconstitutional subsidies to men largely interested in some fleet of ocean passenger steamers and in the recently organized marine trust.

Probably the joint resolution will not get through, and the unwearied seekers after subsidies will not secure the advantageous position they are working for. Failure will not make them abandon hope. A ship subsidy bill will be one of the first bills introduced next December. It will be pressed quietly and unremittingly. The opponents of subsidy legislation will have to fight the battle over again, but they will have one advantage they did not have last year. The passage immediately prior to a presidential election of a bill to subsidize a trust is an act of which neither senate nor house will be guilty.

MORE SCHOOL DAYS NEEDED.

Education, Mr. Eltzbacher has assured us, is not an "all powerful panacea." If it isn't an all powerful panacea, it probably isn't any panacea at all. Few persons have ever said it was. Still fewer persons, however, would be willing to try to maintain that it was in no sense and to no degree a remedy. The opposition to house bill 287 in the Illinois state legislature ought therefore to be feeble.

Sixteen weeks a year from the age of 7 to the age of 14 is the present school requirement in this state. House bill 287 will make a change, a radical and a useful change. It will provide that between the ages of 7 and 14 a child must have instruction during the entire annual session of the school which he is attending, said session to include at least 110 teaching days.

The results will be two. First, the child will learn more. There is not much danger, meanwhile, that in 7 years the child will learn too much. Second, the child will be prevented from having such a long vacation that his parents are tempted to set him at work in store, office, or factory before he has reached the legal age. At present many children complete the compulsory term of sixteen weeks and then either run wild or sneak into employment. Neither of these ways of killing time is without evil consequences. The right régime for children under 14 is a good deal of instruction and a good deal of play. One hundred and ten days of instruction per annum will not be too much. Twenty-two weeks of school will hardly be of any serious injury to any ordinary child. And a twenty-two week school year will be better than a sixteen week school year by just the additional six weeks during which the factory will be impossible.

Woman's clubs, the Chicago compulsory education department, child saving conferences, Catholic and Lutheran clergymen, are all in favor of the bill. Who is against it?

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright: 1903: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

KING EDWARD'S action in conferring the grand cross of the order of St. Michael and St. George upon Sir Michael Herbert, who only received the knight commandership—that is to say, the second class of this order—last autumn, constitutes a striking demonstration of the falsity of those stories circulated throughout the length and breadth of this country to the effect that the authorities in England were discontented with their ambassador's conduct of the negotiations with Minister Bowen in connection with the Venezuelan imbroglio.

Far from being dissatisfied, the king, as well as Lord Lansdowne, appreciates the manner in which he has managed to extricate his government from this unfortunate controversy without forfeiting any of that American good will and friendly feeling towards England which the late Lord Pauncefote had so successfully labored to create, alike in administrative circles and among the public at large. Sir Michael's treatment of the Alaska boundary question has likewise earned the approval of the foreign office, and he has thus fully justified the selection made of him for the post of ambassador to the United States last summer, when he was promoted at one bound over the heads of so many of his seniors in the service.

Today he is, by nearly twenty years, not merely the youngest of Great Britain's ambassadors, but also the youngest of the knights of the grand cross of the order of St. Michael and of St. George. Sir Michael's new distinction, unlike so many honors that are conferred, is certain to meet with widespread satisfaction, instead of arousing sentiments of carping criticism and insinuations as to court influence, for he has inherited from his gifted father, Sydney Herbert, who died as Lord Herbert of Lea, that wonderful faculty of making friends of all those with whom he is brought into contact, and no one grudges him the good things that come to him.

Leo. XIII., by appointing Mgr. Stanley as coadjutor to Cardinal Vaughan, archbishop of Westminster, has deprived himself of one of the most popular members of his household and the London Times of one of its best informed foreign correspondents. For, whereas the Times has a resident correspondent in the Eternal City, who is treated with marked consideration by the Italian government, and whose dispatches and letters are naturally flavored with a sympathy for the Quirinal, Lord Stanley of Alderley's younger brother Algernon, who for many years past has been a domestic prelate of the pope and one of the most influential members of his court, has been credited with sending the Times dispatches and letters from within the vatican, which of course served to account for the fact that often on the foreign page of the London Times would be found two separate dispatches from Rome, taking a diametrically opposite view from one another.

Mgr. Stanley, who as coadjutor will, according to the new rules, have the right of succession to Cardinal Vaughan as archbishop of Westminster and as primate of the Roman Catholic church in Great Britain, like the late Cardinal Manning and so many other English Roman Catholic prelates, started out in life as a clergyman of the Church of England after being educated at Rugby and at Cambridge, and was curate for some years of St. Mary's, Soho, and rector of the church of the Holy Cross at St. Pancras in London. Then he 'verted and in short order was attached to the papal household.

The appointment is likely to give a good deal of satisfaction to the Roman Catholic community in England. For there it is composed to a great extent of the cultured classes—that is to say, of the old county families and the old aristocracy—which naturally prefer a prelate of their own caste to exercise spiritual rule over them to an archbishop of such radical tendencies as the late Cardinal Manning.

Mgr. Stanley, by the way, is a brother-in-law of Lady Jeune, whose first husband was his brother, and he is consequently an uncle of Mrs. Brodrick, the bride of the secretary of state for war. Another brother of Mgr. Stanley is the Hon. Lyulph Stanley, who is well known on this side of the Atlantic, and who has achieved a good deal of distinction in parliament in connection with educational questions.

Cecil Spring-Rice, who spent a number of years in this country as secretary of the British embassy at Washington, and who has for some time past been stationed at Cairo as commissioner of the Egyptian debt, with a salary of $10,000 a year, has now been appointed first secretary to the British embassy at St. Petersburg, and will doubtless receive ere long in conjunction therewith the rank of minister plenipotentiary. He is one of the favorites of the foreign office, having been in turn private secretary to the late Lord Granville and to Lord Rosebery, and is a grandson of the first Lord Monteagle of the present creation, whose peerage, I may add, has no connection, save that of name, with the former Lords Monteagle, who were not Spring-Rices but Stanleys, one of whom played a notable rôle in connection with the gunpowder plot in the reign of King James I.

In order to understand the sudden abandonment by Mr. Bromley-Davenport and other of the relatives and friends of Col. Kinloch of their project of bringing before the house of commons his removal from the command of the Grenadier guards in connection with the recent "ragging" scandal in that regiment, it should be explained that in the English army an officer has no legal redress whatsoever for arbitrary dismissal, for the crown—that is to say, the sovereign—has the legal power to dismiss any one from the army or navy at his will. According to the Manual of Military Law, issued by the war department, a dismissed officer cannot invoke the aid of the courts of law. He has agreed to subject himself to military regulations in this respect, and must take the consequences. Nor can the deprivation of rank or the reduction or deprivation of military pay be remedied by a court of law. From 1866 to 1869 a Col. Dawkins brought a series of actions against his commander, Lord Rokeby, and against another of his commanders, Lord Paulet, for what they had said and written about him and his fitness to command in military courts of inquiry and reports, and it was then the law was settled as now laid down by the manual.

No steps taken in parliament or in law could therefore compel the crown to reinstate Col. Kinloch. But the king has it in his power to restore him to his rank and command at any time that he sees fit, and this he will probably do at an early date, as there is no doubt that this gallant officer has been treated with undue harshness.

One of the most entertaining features of the scandal is the violent attack of Winston Churchill upon Col. Kinloch and the practice of "ragging" during the course of a political address the other day at Newcastle. For I can recall that Winston Churchill while a subaltern of the Fourth Hussars was the ringleader of a "ragging" affair, which aroused a good deal of noise at the time, and which led the unfortunate victim of the young officers to leave the army. Winston Churchill and his fellow "raggers" narrowly escaped court martial and being cashiered.

IN THE INNER TEMPLE.

In the inner temple
Of your heart there lies
A secluded altar,
Sacred from all eyes.
You the hidden image
Never will disclose,
And the thing you worship
Of it never knows.

In the inner temple,
Sacredly you hold—
Holy, high, and hidden
Back of cloth of gold—
Something of your dreaming,
Something of your dread,
Something of your living,
Something long, long dead.

Times you go to worship;
Times you go to pray;
Yet you never, softly,
Draw the veil away.
You alone enshrine it—
Know what it may be—
Still you tremble, fearing
All the world must see.

HAND MADE PHILOSOPHY.

Miss Elizabeth White, president of the Dressmakers' Association of New York, has invented a "wind defying skirt." It is claimed that the new garment will defy the stiffest gale that ever blew and will refuse to be twisted, wrapped, raised, flapped, or otherwise affected by the angry breezes, to the embarrassment of its wearer. It is further announced that it will be a boon to womankind.

Any person who is so misguided as to think that womankind wants a boon is making the largest mistake of his or her life.

Inventors have wasted, in round figures, about ten centuries of the world's life in the devising of helpful boons for woman's wear.

None of them ever got more than half a block beyond the stage of being invented.

Dr. Mary Walker, Mrs. Bloomer, Mrs. Jenness-Miller, and some twenty or thirty other dress reformers could add valuable testimony to support these statements.

A wind defying skirt! Brethren, it isn't the skirt. It's the woman who wears it. Is it reasonable to suppose that a woman is going to spend ten dollars for a pair of the prettiest shoes that ever were made, to say nothing of fighting for two hours to get up to the hosiery counter during the February sales, and then fly in the face of a providence that fills March with wind?

The wind defying woman will not wear the wind defying skirt.

FROM AN END MAN.

Dear Sir: I inclose a little gem that may serve to brighten your column:

"Because the Australian hens have been laying for them ever since they started."

HIS RECORD AGAINST HIM.

"John," gasped the suffering politician to the sympathizing friend who had called to comfort his hours of illness, "John, I feel that the final change is coming. I am about to join the great majority."

"Great Scott, Bill!" ejaculated the friend. "Do you mean to say you are going to flop again?"

THE VERY IDEA!

[The fair sex is displeased with the criticism embodied in a recent divorce decision by Judge Holdom. The jurist said: "Women are more irritable than men. They are aroused by little things that to well poised, well balanced men would mean nothing." Published interviews with a number of ladies show that they are indignant over being characterized as "irritable."]

You see, Judge Holdom told 'em that they yielded to their anger
O'er things that in a man would only cause a sort of languor.
In truth, Judge Holdom told 'em—and his words were far from jestful—
That they flew off the handle where a man grew rather restful.
Now they're denying, crying that a woman's a serene thing,
And Holdom—how they scold 'im!—is a cross, mistaken, mean thing!

The things Judge Holdom told 'em were that woman lets mere trifles
Arouse the scrappy anger that the man and brother stifles;
They fight, Judge Holdom told 'em, and they vow they'll go to mother,
When hubby mildly criticises this, that, or the other.
And now they're shouting, pouting—and their words are hotly scornful—
That Holdom shall not scold 'em—no, indeed, not by a hornful!

But, as Judge Holdom told 'em, they are full of great surprises.
For instance, getting mad when he their nature analyzes.
And still they're raging, waging war upon the judge who rates them,
As touchy, sensitive, and proud. You see, it irritates them.
The things Judge Holdom told 'em have but made the outlook cadder;
Instead of calming them his words have made them all the madder.

DO YOU REMEMBER THAT—

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO TODAY:

President Thomas Jefferson, in order to attract population to the national capital, revoked Gen. Washington's regulation against building wooden houses there.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY:

Charles M. Gray, democrat, was elected mayor of Chicago.
Five negroes were lynched in Georgia as murder suspects.

FORTY YEARS AGO TODAY:

Five confederates were killed, thirty wounded, and 100 captured in a fight between the Third and Fourth Ohio cavalry under Col. J. W. Panamore, and the Second Kentucky cavalry and Fourteenth Alabama, at Bradyville, Tenn.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY:

The new $5,000,000 Chicago postoffice was declared to be progressing so rapidly it would be finished by 1876.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY:

Plans for the first street railway cable line in New York were announced by the Third avenue company, it having been shown in San Francisco and Chicago that the system was practicable.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY:

Investigation of the isthmian canal question by congressional committee resulted in a report that the interests of the United States demanded some sort of canal between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, with absolute control.

Gen. Supt. Law of the Pennsylvania railroad was indicted by the Cook county grand jury for alleged murder, as a result of the killing of four persons and injuring of sixty in a grade crossing accident at Forty-seventh street.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES
What shall they do with themselves

A TOTAL of 1,307 young men and women will graduate from the fifteen high schools of Chicago next June. Of this number 832 are girls; 475 are boys.

What opportunities in the business or professional world are open to these graduates? In what direction are the opportunities the greatest? What particular trades or professions offer the best chance for ambitious youth of good education? In other words, "What shall the high school graduate do with himself?"

Does it pay the boy or girl who does not expect to enter one of the professions to finish the high school course? Is a high school education a help to a man or woman in business or working at a trade?

These inquiries addressed to men prominent in many lines of trade have been almost universally answered in the affirmative. Most of the men at the head of organized labor in the various trades take the position that while a high school education is not essential to success in their line yet, other things being equal, it is the man with such an education who is most likely to find advancement either in the trade itself or in some line allied with it.

As a matter of fact, however, hardly more than one out of every forty children who enter the first grade in the public schools of Chicago graduates from the high school. The figures are startling. During the school year of 1900-'01, for instance, the number of children in the first grade of the public schools of the city was 47,410; by the time the fifth grade was reached practically half of them had dropped out, the number remaining being 24,013. When the eighth grade was reached the number of pupils was but 9,987—almost four-fifths of the number entering having dropped out. And the graduating class this year, as already stated, will be approximately 1,307, or a survival of only a fraction more than one in every forty.

Either, then, the parents of the average child, who is expecting to go to work at some trade or in business, do not feel that a high school education will be of sufficient benefit to justify the expense and time required; or else their circumstances are such that they do not feel able to keep their children at school after they are able to work and earn even an apprentice's wages.

What becomes of all the children who drop out of the public schools before reaching the grammar grades? This is a pertinent question, because there is apparently a grave discrepancy between the number of children at work, as shown by the reports of the state factory inspector, and the much larger number who are dropped from the rolls of the public schools after spending only three or four years in "gaining an education."

The report of the state factory inspector for 1901 shows a total of a little less than 20,000 children at work in factories all over the state, while from the statistics of the public schools it would seem that 20,000 children drop out of school in Chicago alone each year somewhere between the first and the fifth grades. Of course some of these 20,000 children die and others move away, but if the great majority of them do not go to work, what does become of them? And if they do go to work, why does not the report of the state factory inspector show a much larger number than 20,000 at work in the whole state—since once a child has gone to work it is likely to remain a worker until and after it reaches manhood?

The following table shows the approximate number of boys and of girls who will graduate from each of the fifteen high schools of the city next June:

School, principal.	Boys.	Girls.
South Chicago High, C. J. Parker	20	38
South Division, Spencer R. Smith	32	88
John Marshall, Mary M. Abbe	14	70
Hyde Park, E. E. Hill (acting)	70	155
McKinley, G. M. Clayberg	35	78
Austin, G. H. Rockwood	13	24
Northwest, F. P. Fisk	21	68
English High, A. R. Robinson	100	0
R. A. Waller, O. S. Wescott	25	50
Calumet, A. S. Hall	18	20
Lake View, B. F. Buck	28	72
Jefferson, Charles A. Cook	12	28
Medill, E. C. Rosseter	35	85
Englewood, J. E. Armstrong	34	92
Lake, E. F. Stearns	18	14

It will be seen that the Hyde Park High school will graduate the largest class of any of the fifteen, turning out 70 boys and 155 girls, a total of 225. Of this number more than 125 have already determined what they will do with themselves—as follows:

	Boys.	Girls.
Going to college	46	55
Going to Normal school	..	2

Study for special work:

Law	2	Teaching	1
Architecture	2	Illustrating	1
Engineering	3	Kindergarten	1
Journalism	1

All but a dozen of the boys of the graduating class will either go to college or take up some special line of professional study. The others are either not yet decided or will go into some kind of business or clerical work. A great many of the girls do not expect to pursue their studies further or to engage in active work of any kind. They will remain at home with their parents. So far as reported none of the graduates of this school for the present year will enter a trade.

By way of contrast consider the English High and Manual Training school, at which two courses are offered to male students only, one the manual training course and the other the course of the school of commerce. A careful canvass of the graduates of this school, which has been in existence as a distinct institution since 1890, shows that of the more than 500 graduates about 65 per cent have directly entered some line of work for which their high school training has prepared them. Their most common employments are drafting, machine shop work, electrical work, etc.

About 25 per cent of the graduates of this school attend various technical and professional colleges after their graduation and the remaining 10 per cent take up various clerical occupations.

Of the twelve boys who will graduate from the Jefferson High school next June five will attend a university, five will go into business, having taken the high school courses in bookkeeping, stenography, etc., with that object in view. The other two boys expect to study medicine.

Of the twenty-eight girls in the graduating class six will attend a university, two will go into normal school, seven will go into business from the high school business courses, three will study music as a profession, three will attend a medical school, and the other seven have no particular plans.

For several years about 30 per cent of the graduates of this school have gone later to some university or professional school, 40 per cent have gone directly into business; the remaining 30 per cent are hard to account for specifically. Some of the girls have married; some of the boys are working at some trade, where their high school training in mathematics is useful to them. The others have simply drifted out of touch with the school authorities.

"From our statistics," writes Principal Charles A. Cook, "I can prove that our most successful graduates are those who go into lines of work in which their high school studies come into play to the greatest degree."

Half of the twenty boys in the graduating class at the South Chicago High school will go to some university or technical school. The remaining ten will enter business and trades or are without definite plans. Of the twenty-eight girls in the class eight will go away to college and six will attend a normal school, with the idea of preparing themselves to serve as teachers in the public schools. The plans of the others are not definite.

Seven of the thirteen boys in the graduating class at the Austin High will attend college or technical school; the other six will go into business. Six of the twenty-four girls will pursue their studies further, the rest staying at home or going into some line of business.

Of the 150 graduates of this school since 1890 a total of thirty-five are still going to college, eight are music and art students, five are at normal school preparing to become teachers, two are at business college, eight are engaged in teaching, seven are at technical schools, twenty-seven are working in some line of business, and the occupations of fifty-eight are not known by the school authorities.

Of the South Division graduating class thirty-two out of 120 will go to college, two will attend a technical school, and two will go into business; the rest are not decided.

John Marshall High will send twenty-four out of a total of eighty-four to college and technical school and thirteen into business. From the Lake High sixteen will go to college, two to normal school, two to technical schools, and twelve into business. Fifty per cent of the class at the Lake View High school will go to college. Information as to the other half is lacking.

The reports as to the plans of the graduates from the other high schools will be printed later, after which an attempt will be made to give some answer to the questions asked in the opening paragraphs.

Our Charming Displays of Spring Merchandise Are Practically Complete

As a result of our efforts to have a larger and an earlier representation of spring goods than in any previous season, there are now being made throughout the entire house magnificent exhibits of new fabrics, new modes, and of new spring merchandise in general. At almost every turn there is something bright, interesting and attractive to engage the visitor's attention. So comprehensive and thorough have we been in gathering together these lines that this great store will be more notable than ever as the grandest exposition of the world's newest and best fashions Conspicuous in these displays are the charming, exclusive novelties which are now seen here in unusually large numbers—fresh from the hands of the greatest artist-designers of Europe and America.

Cheviot Waists, $3.50.

Waists of fancy black and white mercerized cheviot, with laundered cuffs and fancy stock, special—see cut—at $3.50. Fourth Floor Middle Room.

Ruffled Comforters.

These are made in our own workrooms—a guaranty not only of the perfection of the workmanship and of the dependable qualities of the materials, but of unequaled sanitary conditions, such as are highly desirable in factories of this kind. Sixth Floor South Room.

These Comforters are filled with the best grade of cotton and covered with the finest quality of silkoline—figured top, and 4-inch ruffle and back of plain pink, blue, yellow or lavender, size 2x2¼ yards; a very special value at this price, each, $2.50.

Toilet Goods.

The best of all the new toilet preparations brought out each season are represented in this section.

Annual March Sale of Sterling Silver Tableware, Toilet Articles and Novelties.

This sale beginning this morning is of unusual importance—undoubtedly without precedent in all our previous March Sales of Sterling Silverware. It is an event which, in the immensity of the lines as well as in the wonderful extent of the values, offers advantages to be equaled here at no other time of the year, nor elsewhere at any time. Annex First Floor.

During this month it will be possible to purchase Sterling Silver at prices but little above, and in many instances at exactly the same, as those quoted on plated ware. This is principally due to our seeking out conditions in which the manufacturers are willing to take heavy losses in disposing of surplus lines.

It will pay you to purchase Wedding Presents for the coming season, to purchase Sterling Silverware for your own household purposes, and to purchase Toilet and Manicure Implements —in these latter the prices are extraordinarily low.

In addition to the above articles, our special purchases for this sale include pieces and sets priced upwards to $150. In every instance a saving of at least one-third is assured.

Clearance of Fine Kid Gloves.

All goods which during our February Sale became slighly soiled or mussed only to such an extent as to exclude them from our regular lines, have been marked at very low prices for quick closing. This reduction makes them especially desirable, since in quality, workmanship, and style, they are strictly high grade. The assortment is complete in both the Main and Basement Sections, and comprises practically all makes. Prices 75c, $1.00, and $1.15. First Floor and Basement South Room.

Embroidery Specials

The constant arrivals of more new goods make necessary a quick clearance of all odds and ends of Embroidery, including broken sets of edges and insertions and allovers in lace and embroidery tucking and embroidery, and tucking and lace. First Floor South Room.

At these very low prices it is expedient to purchase for future needs, as the uses of dainty embroidery are almost innumerable. Some are slightly soiled, others are perfectly fresh, but all are reduced about one-half the regular price.

Scotch Novelty Homespun Suitings.

An attractive display is now being made of a very complete and carefully selected assortment of handsome genuine Scotch Homespuns, 56 inches wide, in patterns exclusive to us for America. Dots, figures, broken lines, scroll effects and the famous Celtic weaves form the designs, with mixed grounds predominating; while an almost infinite variety of color combinations is produced by the use of Mural yarns. The quantity of each pattern is very limited—a fact which every purchaser will appreciate. An inspection will prove interesting to all desiring handsome materials for tailored gowns. Second Floor South Room.

Sale of Men's and Women's Umbrellas, $2.50.

More than half of this special purchase of 2,000 Umbrellas was sold last week—a number very much greater than we anticipated when we placed them on sale. There is an exceptionally large variety of sterling silver trimmed natural wood, pearl, horn, ivory, tortoise shell, gold and silver handles. First Floor South Room.

The coverings are of an unusually durable quality of union taffeta silk. At this special price—which is half their regular value—they are undoubtedly the best bargains we have ever offered in this section —$2.50.

OUTLOOK FOR DEAR MONEY

LEGISLATION WILL NOT INCREASE TREASURY SURPLUS.

Secretary Already Doing What the Aldrich Bill Proposes—Wholesale Trade More Active—Poor Quality of Corn Arrivals and Light Contract Stocks Excite Apprehension on the Part of May Shorts and Market Has Fair Advance.

Whether the Aldrich bill shall be passed or not the outlook for money is steady to firm during the summer months and with probably high rates in the fall. The Aldrich bill could not add anything to the surplus cash in the United States treasury, and that is the only source from which additional money can come in the way of government deposits.

It must not be forgotten that the United States treasury has loaned out now between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000 with bonds other than "governments" as security. In other words, the secretary of the treasury is doing at this time all the Aldrich bill would give him permission to do, for he has not yet called in the deposits secured by municipal and other bonds. He has loaned out to the banks at this time altogether $150,000,000. There is some excess in the treasury over the ordinary amount of free working capital, but it is not sufficient materially to influence the money market. Following his action last fall the secretary of the treasury could deposit this additional surplus without authority from the Aldrich bill. We have a firm money market at this time, with the same amount of government funds on deposit that the secretary put out last fall. The question arises, therefore, where is the secretary going to get money even if the Aldrich bill were passed?

It might be said that a further substitution of bonds other than governments to secure deposits might be made. Then it would be a question whether the banks chose to use the governments released to take out new circulation. The restriction to $3,000,000 a month in retiring circulation stands as a deterrent, though this clause may be repealed with the adoption of the Aldrich bill. But the high price and scarcity of governments still operates against their free use for circulation. This fact is evidenced by the existing one that the only way the present moderate expansion of circulation could be effected was through freeing governments as security for deposits and substituting therefor other bonds.

Big Increase in Loans.

The movement of money in New York in the last three months shows that loans have expanded nearly $82,000,000, deposits $80,500,000, while the excess reserve has lost over $13,000,000 and is at the lowest point for any corresponding period in three years. While loans and deposits have increased over 9 per cent, the excess reserve has decreased 69½. These facts may be summarized as follows:

	Loans.	Deposits.	Surp. res.
Feb. 28, 1903..	$950,156,300	$956,206,400	$ 5,951,900
Nov. 22, 1902..	868,217,200	875,706,100	19,529,975
Increase...	$ 81,939,100	$ 80,500,300	*$13,578,075
Per cent......	9.4	9.2	*69.5

*Decrease.

The greater part of expansion in loans has gone into bond issue put out by railroad companies and for the transfer of sterling loans to this country. The placing of this large amount of funds into a permanent security is better than using them to assist stock market speculation. But after all the bonds are available as collateral.

The bank statement Saturday showed a decrease of a little over $3,000,000 in excess reserve, largely because of the loss in deposits of double that amount. The cash decreased over $4,700,000. The changes in detail follow:

Loans decreased	52,400
Specie decreased	4,071,600

Big Gain in Porto Rican Trade.

The development of commercial relations between Porto Rico and the United States since the transfer of that island to the control of this country has been phenomenal. The people of Porto Rico now find a market in the United States for five times as much of their products as they did in 1897, the year preceding that transfer; and the people of the United States find a market in Porto Rico for more than five times as much of their products as in 1897. Some figures just compiled by the treasury bureau of statistics covering the commerce between the United States and Porto Rico in the year 1902, and compared with the figures of preceding years, fully sustain this assertion. They show that the value of merchandise shipped from Porto Rico to the United States in 1902 was $9,634,176, against $1,943,251 in 1897; and that the value of merchandise shipped from the United States to Porto Rico in 1902 was $12,195,297, against $2,023,751 in 1897.

The table which follows shows the total value of merchandise sent from Porto Rico to the United States in each calendar year from 1897 to 1902, and that of merchandise sent from the United States to Porto Rico in each year from 1897 to 1902:

Calendar year.	Shipments from— Porto Rico into the United States	United States into Porto Rico.
1897	$1,943,251	$ 2,023,751
1898	2,382,170	1,404,004
1899	3,416,681	3,677,564
1900	3,604,089	5,845,829
1901	7,018,697	8,889,274
1902	9,634,176	12,195,297

The principal articles for which Porto Rico finds a market in the United States are sugar, tobacco, coffee, fruits, manufactures of straw, hides, and distilled spirits. The principal articles for which the United States finds a market in Porto Rico are rice, cotton cloths, manufactures of iron and steel, provisions, breadstuffs, manufactures of wood, boots and shoes, spirits, tobacco, refined sugar, cars and carriages, paper, chemicals, and coal, the articles named in each case being in the order of their relative value in the commerce passing in each direction, respectively.

Wholesale Demands Enlarged.

The advent of milder weather during the last week operated to enlarge demand in wholesale lines, the only restriction to trade generally being the continued difficulties incident to transportation and the breaking up of the country roads, which latter was, in some sections, a sufficient barrier to the retail business to materially affect the volume of transactions. Marked gains over the corresponding period in 1902 were shown in many lines, and in none was there a decrease in the amount of business done.

In dry goods and kindred lines considerable activity was manifested and many retail buyers were replenishing stocks, depleted long before the usual time. The gratifying condition of country buyers giving first attention to dress fabrics and accessories of high grade still prevails, and the feature is especially noticeable in the market selling of all kinds of wash fabrics and white goods. In most cases purchasers are not willing to wait for deliveries in the usual time, but demand immediate shipment of all merchandise selected in the open market. Prices are gradually advancing, silks and cotton goods being especially strong.

In the wholesale groceries the steady demand of some weeks past did not abate, but showed an increase. The volume of business of the week was far in excess of that of the corresponding period last year. Reports of traveling salesmen, as well as the disposition of visiting merchants to purchase in heavier quantities than formerly, point to a spring trade beyond any so far recorded. Prices as a rule were not changed, but there is a firmness to the market encouraging to wholesalers in that it does not act to restrict trade in the least. Some difficulties existed in the matter of transportation, and receipts from the east were delayed to a point where considerable inconvenience was caused.

The strength gained during the period of extreme cold weather was lost last week, and the tone of the coal market was barely steady. Prices on bituminous ranged from 50c to 75c per ton lower, with large supplies at hand. A serious congestion of coal on track exists, the belt line roads not being able to handle the cars arriving, and the demand having fallen off to actual and immediate requirements. In consequence, much high priced fuel is on the hands of shippers, with no immediate prospect of sale. In anthracite the situation is different, the quantity arriving not being heavy. On account of the difficulties of eastern transportation, both anthracite and bituminous coals have been much delayed in arriving, and the result in the former has been to keep prices above the level expected from the amount produced at the mines, and actually consigned to this market. In a retail way, prices held around $7.50 per ton, but some dealers were receiving $8.50, and a few sales were reported at as high as $9.00.

In the paint and color trade February was utilized to make preparations for the spring business, which is expected to be enormous. The year gives every promise of being a record breaker, and the activities of grinders and wholesalers, based on positive information as to prevailing conditions, indicate a preparation for business such as was never before experienced. White lead has increased in price and other staples of the trade are on a firm basis. In drugs and chemicals there was a good demand from outside retailers. Prices are generally tending upward, opium, cod liver oil, and the essential oils already having advanced. In some lines values are so unsettled as to cause daily quotations to be made, blue vitriol being an instance.

Lumber Trade in Good Condition.

The lumber trade of the week was in excellent condition and stocks moved freely, the only impediment being the continued scarcity of cars. A large demand for manufacturing purposes existed and yard trade was spirited for the season, being especially heavy in northern pine. So confident are consumers that the present level of high prices will not be abated, at least for some time to come, that many are laying in spring supplies, not usually bought until long after this date. The new prices of hemlock, adopted Feb. 10, generally have been maintained. Long hemlock piece stuff, 18 foot and over, is reported scarce, generally bringing $18.00 to $18.50. The demand for poplar is good and supplies are at a low ebb. All stock arriving eagerly is taken at prices based at or close to $45.00 for inch firsts and seconds. The local market is absorbing all of the Pacific coast lumber readily obtainable, a decided increase in movement having come within the last two or three weeks.

A larger trade than ever before known is expected in all woods from the coast sections during the present season, and at good prices. Numerous orders for timbers and yard stock of southern pine are being received. Trade in yellow pine promises to be heavy, mills turning out immense amounts, and the same being hurried to this market as fast as cars can be obtained. Hardwood still continues the central figure of interest to the entire lumber world, producers, dealers, and consumers. It is stated that double the volume of business could be done in this line were transportation facilities normal and supplies at points of production on the level of former years. Stocks are generally narrowing down at all lumber centers until there is little in the way of assortment to be had. Prices on all kinds and qualities of hardwood are strong and show every indication of advance.

Iron and Steel Values Higher.

Concerning the events of the metal market of the week the Iron and Machinery World says: There has been a clear tendency towards higher values, though, perhaps, unmarked by the same keen demand which impelled prices upward last year. The potent influence in this advance is the higher cost of production, including changes in the cost of material and labor and a general increase in transportation charges. The producing interests have also obtained a firmer control of the market, adding materially to its strength. Wire and wire nails have advanced $2 per ton, iron bars are quoted about $2 higher, and bale ties are marked up 5 per cent. Pig iron is exhibiting conflicting symptoms, and its trend cannot be accurately foreseen. There is a certain degree of cautiousness among some buyers on account of the wage uncertainty, but actual consumption has not been adversely affected.

Foreign billets and other forms of steel continue to be sold in the Chicago market in fairly good quantities, an excellent evidence of both current demand and scarcity. The railroads were large buyers of all kinds of metal supplies and their requirements for the year will consume a heavy percentage of the production, to the lasting good of transportation facilities. Quotations on pig iron ranged from $23.50 to $24.50. There was during the week the usual carload purchases and some sales of from 300 to 500 tons, but the transaction of importance was a sale of 2,000 tons of Bessemer iron to a large malleable concern, delivery to be made in early months. This was supplementary to a like order placed during the preceding week. For spot delivery the market seems a shade stronger than during the last two or three weeks, when southern iron was reported selling at $18.50. Now $19.00, Birmingham, is a common price.

Corn Leads in Activity.

Most of the activity in the grain markets the last week has centered in corn, trade in which has been on a larger scale and the fluctuations wider than in wheat. The poor quality of the receipts in this market, practically none of which have been grading contract, and the heavy rains through the corn belt which postponed the possibility of any improvement in the grading, besides threatening interference with the country movement, called attention to the small local stocks of contract grade, about 2,335,000 bu.

The market had the support of various influential interests which appreciated the possibility of making matters uncomfortable for short sellers, who have been feeling secure in the knowledge of a corn crop of 2,500,000,000 bu, according to the government figures, and reports that country stations are full of corn waiting to come to this market as fast as cars can be got to move it. The difficulties of their situation were also appreciated more and more keenly by the shorts as the market advanced, and for several days there has been covering on a liberal scale. The demand of all sorts carried the May price up 2c to 57⅝c on Saturday, but profit taking was on a liberal scale and there was a reaction at the close to 47c, this a net gain of 1½c for the week.

The May corn question is entirely a question of quality. The argument of those who are most persistently bullish is that the bulk of last year's crop is excessively moist and poor in nutritive qualities, so that from 25 to 100 per cent more of it is necessary to produce ordinary results in feeding, and that corn of good quality will be scarce enough to command good prices all through the year.

On the other hand, the shipping demand has been poor the last week and low grade corn has been pressed on the market at steadily declining prices, the bulk of the No. 4 corn sold on Saturday going at over 10c discount under the May. Only the fact that its quality is exceptionally poor could prevent its use at such a discount in the drying houses, but the poor demand, even at the decline, is a fair indication it is not available to be turned into contract grade.

Because of its poor quality the winter shelled corn now arriving and now held at country stations is expected to cause trouble for its handlers when warm weather comes, and there were complaints from various points in Illinois and Nebraska during the week of corn heating. The difficulty of getting cars has made the shipping demand appear poor, and no one feels certain what the situation would be if it were not for the railroad congestion.

Unless conditions change higher prices for the May delivery are possible, as there is supposed to be a large short interest. The shorts find some comfort in the fact that several different interests are campaigning on the bull side and each of them presumed to be afraid lest the others secure an advantage by closing out their lines first.

Wheat Little Changed.

Wheat has been at times supported by the strength of corn and on any decline to 77c there appeared a general commission demand for May sufficient to check the downward tendency. But the close for the week was only ⅜c above that figure and at a loss of ⅝c from the previous Saturday. The export demand has apparently been dull, foreigners, encouraged by liberal Russian and Argentine offerings, to wait for lower prices on this side. Clearances from both coasts and Canada have averaged 2,700,000 bu weekly for two weeks, although some foreign statisticians assure us Europe will need 3,600,000 bu weekly from this country for the rest of the crop year. The movement to primary markets has been lighter than a year ago, but stocks in the visible supply are maintained, and the prophecies of scarcity before the next crop is harvested are less confident. The conditions of the growing crop are generally favorable, although a cold wave following the recent rains may cause damage.

Oats have sought a slightly lower level, the effect of the heavy liquidation by large holders of May, and the May future closed 11½c under May corn, compared with a discount of only 7½c a few weeks ago. There is a fear shipping demand and receipts are light, owing in part to the fact that country shippers are more anxious to market their corn. Stocks of standard grade increase but slowly, only 600,000 bu, but there is no energetic bull interest now at work.

Moderate receipts of hogs and small stocks of meats and lard, which show no accumulation of consequence, have kept the provision market strong, and May pork, with some help from the leading holder, advanced 35c to $18.00. All meats were higher, lard little changed.

IN THE NEW YORK MARKETS.

Quotations on Dry Goods, Coffee, Poultry, Butter, Metals, and Other Special Lines.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Owing to the inclement weather conditions, purchases at first hands in dry goods have been limited. Prices continued unusually firm, with many lines held at value. The manufacturers in many instances are unwilling to accept offers which would have been taken a week ago. In jobbing quarters a fair trade is in progress, with improved conditions anticipated for the coming week.

Coffee, Spot and Future.

Coffee—The market opened steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 5 points, the weakness being chiefly the result of lower cables and the evening up of speculative contracts over Sunday. Trading was quiet, and the market at the close was still steady, with quotations on the opening basis. Sales officially reported were 5,000 bags. The spot market was steady, at 5⅝c for Rio No. 7.

Poultry, Alive and Dressed.

Poultry—Alive—Fowls, per lb, 14c; roosters, young, 12½c; do, old, 9c; turkeys, 15c; ducks, western, average, per pair, 80c@$1.00; do, southern and southwestern, 70@80c; geese, western, average, $1.75@1.87; do, southern and southwestern, $1.37@1.50; live pigeons, 35@40c. Dressed—Turkeys, average best, 18@19c; do, fair to prime, 16@17c; do, common, 13@14c; chickens, Ohio and Michigan, scalded, average best, 14@15c; other western, average best, 14@14½c; do, fair to good, 12@13c; chickens and fowls, mixed, average best, 14@14½c; do, fair to good, 12@13c; fowls, Ohio and Michigan, scalded, fancy, 14½c; other western, fancy, 14@14½c; do, fair to good, 12@13c; squabs, prime, large white, per doz, $2.75@3.00; do, mixed, $2.25; do, dark, $1.25@1.50.

LONDON BANK RATE HIGH.

CREDIT MARKET GRUMBLES BECAUSE IT IS NOT REDUCED.

Traders, It Is Said, Should Be Thankful, for a Drop, Coincident with the Export of 159,000 Sovereigns, Would Have Injured Their Credit—Consols Are Weak, Due to Sales in Paris—Home Rails Show a Revival—American Shares Depressed.

[Copyright: 1903: By the New York Times.]

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Feb. 28.—The bank rate continues at 4 per cent, and the credit market continues grumbling, though traders should be thankful, for, if the rate had been reduced on Thursday, coincidently with the net export of 159,000 sovereigns, the credit of the jobbers would have been shivered and a worse condition of affairs would have supervened than exists now.

The market was short of money this week. The maturing of treasury bills gave a slight relief on Wednesday, but the effect was largely neutralized by the payment of £2,000,000 on the Japanese loan. Discount rates were easier, owing partly to the continental buying of bills. The bank's recent acquisition of gold and the Japanese demand for gold continues. The bank reserve is £415,000 higher, but the proportion to current liabilities has fallen ⅝ per cent to 47⅝ per cent, the total deposits being higher.

The stock exchange was weak on Monday in sympathy with the weakness in consols, due partly to sales in Paris, where the bourse was depressed, but chiefly to continued lack of public interest in consols. It improved on Tuesday, but subsequently relapsed in view of the heavy contango rates on Friday, and a new issue of local loans on stocks on Friday was completed without trouble.

The chief feature of the exchange this week was a marked revival in home rails. The continued excellent traffic returns form a defense, on the whole satisfactory, by the various boards to the recent criticisms. It is believed these are the chief causes of a return of public attention to this long neglected department. American railway shares sold freely on Monday because of the New York bank return, but prices were subsequently depressed by fears that Saturday's New York bank return would be bad. American railway shares further weakened on Friday by arbitrage selling.

A good tone was given the stock exchange on Tuesday by the news that the Porte had accepted the Austro-Russian Macedonian scheme. The strength of Turkish shares gave a firm tone to other foreigns on Thursday. General mining stocks were slightly more active. South Africans ended dull, and West Australians were supported. The markets were called firmer on Friday, especially in home rails. Silver was called dull at 22⅛ for spot and 22 1-16 for forward.

TRADERS WAIT ON MONEY.

Contrary Reports Regarding Chances of the Aldrich Bill Disturb Wall Street.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—Stock market trading last week was governed to a large extent by the position of the money market, following the tendency of both time and call funds. This naturally induced a bear pressure on securities and checked whatever bull enthusiasm there may have existed in commission house circles. The active demand for money from out of town points, together with heavy payments by local banks to the subtreasury, caused a material demand for cash. The holdings of the first named institutions brought about higher lending rates and caused a decline in sterling exchange quotations.

Gold exports are out of the question at present, but so far as the local money market is concerned the drain for the interior and subtreasury account has as much adverse effect, if not more, than shipments of the precious metal to Europe would have had.

The chances for and against the passage of the Aldrich bill were also influential factors in the week's speculative operations. The various reports from Washington regarding this measure are helping at times the operators who wish for a decline, and at other times the operators who favor an advance.

The outgo of money reflects the growth of the country's industries and foreshadows prosperity for many months to come. The demands for the large corporate enterprises will be heavy this year. The railroad combinations, extensions and improvements will call out many millions of dollars, insuring, therefore, an active demand for funds in the leading financial centers, making a plethora of money impossible and maintaining the leading rates at firm figures.

Time money ruled at 5 per cent at the close last week for three, five, and six months periods, and it generally is believed that lower rates for a long time to come would be the exceptions.

That big deals involving many railroads are pending is reflected in the passing of the control of the St. Louis and San Francisco system to the Rock Island, in the activity in Wabash stocks, and in other well known signs and indications.

The buying of Wabash shares last week, which came from good sources, was accompanied by reports that the Pennsylvania railroad interests had bought enough stock to entitle them to a representation in the Wabash directorate. It is hardly probable the Goulds will permit the control of the Wabash to be shared by the Pennsylvania people. Wabash preferred has enjoyed a striking advance in the last two months, but the friends of the company predict still better figures for this issue, as well as for the common and all the so-called Gould stocks.

The earnings of the Gould southwestern roads are steadily increasing, exceeding all past records, and giving a promise of ending the year far beyond the estimates made by conservative observers. On the decline in Friday's and Saturday's markets excellent buying was reported. People of means are apparently willing to take the stocks at the declines on the belief that higher prices will be made later on in the season. It is worth noting that they are favorably disposed toward the cheap and medium priced issues at a moment when traders are bearish, owing to unfavorable developments in money. There, however, is no apparent uneasiness among the important market interests. Although there is a growing disposition to discourage activity in stocks, the declines are not accompanied by any investment liquidation, most current sales representing operations for the short account.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Movement of Cattle, Hogs, Sheep, and Lambs, with the Range of Prices and Comparisons.

Saturday's receipts at the stockyards here were of small volume, only 200 cattle, 15,000 hogs, and 1,500 sheep. The cattle market was nominal; hogs dull and 5@10c lower; and sheep steady. Estimated receipts for Monday are 28,000 cattle, 38,000 hogs, and 25,000 sheep.

The following is a statement of the movement of live stock at the Chicago stockyards for the period indicated, with comparative figures:

Cattle.

There were not enough cattle at hand to establish a market, and the little trading was of a peddling and clean up character on a basis of Thursday's prices. As the market stood at the close of business for the week, prices on the general run of dressed beef, shipping and export steers showed a decline of 10@15c, but trade had been active at the declines and there had been no accumulation of stale stock.

Top steers sold at $5.90, but not many above $5, and the bulk of 1,200@1,450 lb offerings went over the scales on a basis of $4.40@4.75. Big demand for cheap beef held a steady market for fat cows and heifers at $3.00@3.50 per bulk. Canner stock did not meet much demand and prices were lower than a week ago. Veal calves, $1.00@1.50 lower for the week. Stock and feeding cattle were in limited supply, and prices were fully 15@20c higher than one week ago, with tops selling up to $4.70. Quotations:

Prime beeves, 1,250 lbs and up	$5.50@5.90
Good to choice, 1,250 lbs and up	5.00@5.40
Medium to good, 1,250 lbs and up	4.60@5.00
Poor to medium, 1,250 lbs and up	4.20@4.50
Good to prime steers, 900 to 1,250 lbs	4.60@5.35
Medium to good, 900 to 1,250 lbs	4.10@4.60
Poor to medium, 900 to 1,250 lbs	3.00@3.80
Medium to choice feeders	3.50@4.60
Medium to choice stockers	3.20@4.00
Inferior to medium stockers	2.20@2.90
Medium to choice heifers	3.65@4.75
Medium to choice cows	2.85@4.50
Canners	1.60@2.50

Veal calves	6.25@7.75
Stock calves	2.25@4.50

Hogs.

Saturday's market for hogs was dull and weak from the start and settled to a lower level as the forenoon advanced. A few early trades showed steady prices, but the bulk of the 15,000 fresh and 8,000 stale hogs on sale went at a 5c decline from Friday's prices, and the close was fully 10c under the Friday average cost of droves to the buyers. Top price of the day was $7.42½ paid for 355 lb averages, but aside from this one sale there was nothing above $7.35, and the bulk of the standard mixed and packing droves sold between $7.00 and $7.25, with light weights largely at $6.75 to $6.90. Decline of Saturday put closing prices for the week 20c to 25c lower than one week ago. Quotations:

Good to prime, 245 to 400 lbs	$7.20@7.42½
Common to good, 245 to 400 lbs	6.85@7.20
Good to prime, 190 to 225 lbs	7.00@7.25
Assorted light, 160 to 180 lbs	6.60@6.80
Common to good, 130 to 160 lbs	6.50@6.75
Mixed, 200 to 245 lbs	6.70@7.15
Light mixed, 160 to 200 lbs	6.65@6.95
Pigs	5.40@6.40

Sheep.

Little business was done in the sheep house. The few small trades were on a basis of steady prices, compared with Friday, which showed desirable grades of sheep to be strong to 10c higher on the week, but the proportion of lambs was large, and prices showed a decline of 40@50c since last Monday. Quotations:

Good to choice wethers	$5.25@5.60
Good to choice ewes	4.90@5.25
Poor to medium ewes	2.75@4.90
Lambs	4.50@6.85
Rams	3.25@3.75
Fed range wethers	5.25@5.60
Fed range ewes	4.90@5.25
Fed range lambs	5.00@6.75
Fed yearlings	6.00@6.15

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS.

DR. TRUMBULL'S FASCINATING SKETCHES OF MISSIONARIES.

Work and Experiences of the Pioneers Sent Out by the American Board—Distinct Genius for Diplomacy and Statesmanship Exhibited by Some—Earl of Shaftesbury Declared They Were a Marvelous Combination of Common Sense and Piety.

One of the most interesting books on missions and missionaries since the original Book of the Acts of the Apostles is Dr. H. Clay Trumbull's "My Memories of Missionaries." (F. H. Revell company.)

Dr. Trumbull is himself a member of the famous Connecticut family of that name. As editor for some thirty years of the Sunday School Times he has had more influence perhaps than any other man in giving direction to the more thorough bible study in the Sunday schools of the country.

In this book he has given with fascinating simplicity and tact his memories and character sketches of some thirty American missionaries with whom he had been personally acquainted. But these several missionaries were of such varied characteristics and did their life work in so many different lands and languages that the book presents a survey of almost the whole missionary enterprise of the past century. Taken as a whole, there could hardly be a more convincing argument for the modern, world wide missionary undertaking.

Among the men here noted and vividly portrayed are some of the earliest missionaries of the American board, as Samuel Nott, who went to India; Adoniram Judson, who went to Burmah; Miron Ainslow, who went to Ceylon; John Scudder, to India; Hiram Bingham, to the Sandwich islands; William Goodell, to Constantinople; Josiah Brewer, father of Justice Brewer, to Smyrna; Justin Perkins, to the Nestorians; W. M. Thompson, to Palestine; Dr. Peter Parker, to China; Cyrus Hamlin, to Turkey, where, at Constantinople, he founded Robert college; and Samuel R. Brown, who had so much to do with the renascence of Japan.

One thing characteristic of all these great pioneer missionaries was not merely their spirit of personal heroism but the breadth and audacity of their outlook upon the world as a whole. They long ago anticipated the lately awakened popular sense of the fellowship of the nations and America's relation to the rest of the world. Cyrus Hamlin at Constantinople was not alone in exhibiting distinct genius for diplomacy and statesmanship. Dr. Peter Parker, who in China as a medical missionary led the way in that vast movement for the actual revolutionising of the medical ideas and medical practice among a fourth part of the human family, was said with almost literal truth to have "opened China by the point of his lancet."

The earl of Shaftesbury, in a public address in London, referring to the American missionaries in Turkey, declared: "I have said it twenty times before, and I will say it again, they are a marvelous combination of common sense and piety." At any rate, as Dr. Trumbull's so readable narratives and sketches show, these missionaries were men and women who have done things; have done things which in their radical influences and educational force have had not a little to do toward preparing the nations for the new conditions of today. Fiction could not be more romantic than are the facts which Dr. Trumbull has here so admirably brought together.

A MUSICIAN'S MEMORY.

Recollections of Fanny Reed, Who Knew Many Famous Folk.

Long resident in Paris and admitted into the most exclusive circles of artists of the highest type, Fanny Reed has set down in her entertaining little volume, "Reminiscences: Musical and Other," impressions and first hand information regarding a few of the most notable figures in the world of art.

Herself an artist, glorying in the possession of a marvelous and superbly trained voice, intimacy with musicians naturally matured. Her girlhood recollections of the Abbé Liszt are ingeniously told, and she gives many interesting sidelights upon Massenet and Paderewski. Munkaczy, Coquelin, Paul Deschanel, Benjamin-Constant, Felix Faure, Mme. Lemaire—all were her friends, and her sketches of these famous people are delightful in accurate description and charming anecdote. The marquise de Bloqueville, whose salon is perhaps the most interesting in the French capital, is intimately portrayed. Miss Reed's memories are simply told, but these random bits from her artistic and esthetic life are irresistible in their charm. Excellent portraits, some of them hitherto unpublished, add to the value of the book. (Knight & Millet.)

AN ESSAY ON HEGEL.

John Grier Hibben Writes a Study of the German Philosopher.

"Hegel's Logic," which John Grier Hibben, its author, calls "an essay in interpretation," is the work of an enthusiast and of indisputable value to the student of philosophy not at all or only insufficiently acquainted with the German language. The "provincial obscurity" of Hegel, to which the author refers in his preface, has ever been a serious hindrance to students of philosophy, even among Germans. Hegel's peculiar terminology and method of expression have always stood in the way of his thorough appreciation as a clear and logical thinker, and the numerous commentaries to his works by German and foreign philosophers have added to the difficulty of understanding Hegel's philosophical writings rather than lessened it.

Dr. Hibben deviated from the ordinary method of the Hegel commentators by depending upon interpretations furnished by Hegel himself instead of supplying commentaries second hand. The result is a book simple in language, clear of meaning, and conscientiously representing the spirit of Hegel's philosophy.

It is an excellent text book on Hegel's logic, which will undoubtedly be of great value to students of philosophy, especially to those who are not sufficiently familiar with the German language to read Hegel's logic in the original.

"It is my conviction," says the author in his preface, "that the text of the 'Logic' is self-illuminating. It has been my endeavor, therefore, to simplify all technical terms and explain their significance in the light of the definitions as given by Hegel himself, and as indicated in the context where such terms severally occur. There has been throughout an attempt to render intelligible the fundamental Hegelvan doctrines by means of simple statements and illustrations. The method of interpretation has grown out of the belief that the best commentary upon Hegel is Hegel himself."

A glossary of the more important philosophical terms in Hegel's "Logic" has been added to the work in the form of an appendix. The definitions of the German terms are remarkably clear and concise. (Charles Scribner's Sons.)

FOUR BOOKS FOR CHILDREN.

A Quartet of Belated Tales For the Young.

"Doughnuts and Diplomas," by Gabrielle E. Jackson, makes one wonder whether the writer ever knew any real people. This is not because there is anything impossible, or even improbable in the story, or even in the various irrelevant incidents which are dragged in by the heels because they are supposed to be amusing. A great many girls in the United States have worked their way through college, and this is the sum total of the plot of the story. But neither the girl nor any of her family or friends live or move naturally, or awaken any sympathy or interest in their various hardships and triumphs. (Henry Altemus company, Philadelphia.)

"Four Little Indians" are not real sure enough Indians. They are four live children, three boys and a girl, masquerading when they dare, in walnut stain and chicken feathers and doing all the wild, ridiculous things that only healthy, active country children can think of. Miss Ella Mary Coates writes of little people she has known, and she has not only known them but she has understood them. (Henry T. Coates & Co., Philadelphia.)

"Jerry's Reward" is a charming little story of an old man who loved children, and of twenty-one little folks who had been taught by an ignorant nurse girl to be afraid of him. How their fear was turned to affection and the lives of the old man and his crippled wife made brighter is delightfully told. The story is by Evelyn Snead Barnett, and is cleverly illustrated by Etheldred B Barry. It belongs to the cozy corner series published by L. C. Page & Co., Boston.

"Millicent in Dreamland," by Edna S. Brainerd, is a story of a little girl's dreams, and while it is not exactly a fairy tale, it suggests that the little dreamer must have read such things as "Davy and the Goblin" and "Alice in Wonderland," to say nothing of Grimm and Hans Anderson. Perhaps the fact that it is not a fairy tale and makes no pretense of being true will give it a place in the libraries of those poor, unfortunate children to whom fairy stories are forbidden. It deserves a place in any juvenile library. It is the latest addition to L. C. Page & Co.'s Cozy Corner series.

NEW LIFE OF CARLYLE.

Bright Biography of the Sage by G. K. Chesterton.

G. K. Chesterton, who is rapidly coming to the front as an essayist of unusual ability, has, with J. E. Hodder Williams, written a sketch of Carlyle for the Bookman Biographies (James Pott & Co.). It is a slight little book of unusual shape, and consists largely of pictures, there being no less than sixteen portraits of Carlyle, besides many other illustrations, but it will bear reading. In the opening paragraph the author say "The picture of the real progress, the real mental and moral improvement of our species during the last few centuries will not be complete until Mr. Lecky publishes a companion volume entitled 'The History of Irrationalism in Europe.' The two tendencies (rationalism and irrationalism), acting together, have been responsible for the whole advancement of the western world. Rationalism is, of course, that power which makes people invent sewing machines, understand Euclid, reform vestries, pull teeth, and number the fixed stars. Irrationalism is that other force, if possible more essential, which makes men look at sunsets, laugh at jokes, go on crusades, write poems, enter monasteries, and jump over hay cocks. Rationalism is the beneficent attempt to make our institutions and theories fit the world we live in, as clothes fit the wearer. Irrationalism is the beneficent reminder that, at the best, they do not fit." They then go on to prove that Carlyle was the natural irrationalist who followed the French revolution. The sketch is unusually witty for a biography, and it is thoroughly enjoyable.

FRIEND OF THE BIRDS.

Charming Life of Audubon by John Burroughs.

John Burroughs has written for the "Beacon Biographies" a short life of John James Audubon, the great ornithologist. Mr. Burroughs does most things well, and he has succeeded in putting in an exceedingly small compass a fund of information about this foremost American naturalist. Mr. Burroughs drew a large part of his material from Audubon's journals, which a few years ago were edited and published by Maria R. Audubon, the ornithologist's granddaughter. John Burroughs is always blunt. In this little book he gives the names of prominent Europeans who subscribed for Audubon's "Birds of America," received and accepted the copies, and then defaulted on the payment of the bills. The defaulters were George IV., the duchess of Paris, the marquis of Londonderry, and the princess of Hesse-Homburg. We are told that "Rothschild paid for his copy, but with great reluctance." These copies, by the way, are now worth about $4,000 each.

Just how the living Audubons will like Mr. Burroughs' statements that their grandfather was given to exaggeration, if not to prevarication, it is hard to say. The New York naturalist does not hesitate to declare his belief that some of Audubon's statements are hardly worthy of credence. He does not put this down, however, to anything more than what might be called a volatile temperament. Mr. Burroughs, however, has shown a thorough appreciation of Audubon's tremendous work, and his little book is, in the main, sympathetic. (Small, Maynard & Co., Boston).

DR. BRIGGS' NEW BOOK.

"The Incarnation of the Lord." By Charles A. Briggs, D. D. Charles Scribner's Sons.

A few years ago Prof. Charles A. Briggs of the Union Theological seminary, New York, was chiefly known as the vehement, not to say militant, defender of the "higher criticism." He doubtless believes that he fought a good fight and won the day. But the gentler and sweeter side of his really winsome personality was in those discussions hidden, as was the intensely evangelical and constructive side of his biblical thinking.

This volume is a collection of ten sermons, tracing the unfolding of the doctrine of the incarnation in the New Testament. The book is lovingly dedicated to Bishop H. C. Potter, "true friend, man of God, without fear or reproach, strong, wise, and good." While these sermons, he says, contain nothing contrary to catholic doctrine, they yet give the biblical supports of that doctrine in those new relations and new lights which modern biblical science furnishes.

PRINCIPALS IN SOUTH SIDE WEDDING.

GEORGE W. DIXON.

MISS MARION ELOISE MARTIN.

With their attendants, composed entirely of relatives, Miss Marion Eloise Martin and Mr. George W. Dixon will be married tonight at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. S. K. Martin, 2600 Michigan boulevard. The ceremony will be followed by a reception. Mrs. Wilton B. Martin, the bride's sister-in-law, will be the matron of honor, and the bridemaids will be the groom's four sisters—Miss Clara, Miss Grace, Miss Elsie, and Miss Edna Dixon. Mr. Arthur J. Dixon Jr. will be the best man, and the ushers will be Mr. S. K. Martin Jr., Mr. Walter L. Martin, Mr. Homer Dixon, and Mr. Will Dixon. Two nieces of the bride, Coe Marion Martin and Elizabeth Dixon Martin, will be flower girls. Wesley Dixon, nephew of the groom, will act as page. A house on Michigan boulevard is the wedding gift of the bride's mother.

The Englewood Woman's club will give a minstrel show at the Englewood Men's club house, Harvard avenue and Sixty-third street, tomorrow under the direction of Bartley Cushing.

The Germania club will give a vaudeville and dance on Saturday evening, March 7, at Swithiod club house, 1768 Wrightwood avenue. The club possesses considerable amateur talents. The program will be varied and contain fifteen numbers.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hoadley and family are preparing to leave for Pass Christian, where they will spend March and April.

LET CHURCHES PAY DEBTS

MINISTER URGES THAT THEY PLEAD NO SPECIAL PRIVILEGE.

Dr. R. A. White Thinks Religious Organizations, Like Others, Should Be Sold Out Under the Hammer in Case of Default and Holds That This Would Increase Their Influence — Evil Always the Result of Misuse of Some Good.

"Let churches pay their debts or go under the hammer. Let ministers cease to plead that creditors shall forgive debts because the debtor is a church. A little more courage in the ministry, a little less time serving, and the church will go a long way toward banishing the devils of this world."

This is the suggestion of the Rev. R. A. White for making the influence of the church for good felt. He offered it in the course of a sermon in Stewart Avenue Universalist church yesterday. The general subject of his remarks was the evil in the world. He said in opening:

"As a general proposition it may be asserted that evil is the result of the wrong use of good. Water is a blessing to man, fire warms him, cooks his food, turns the wheels of commerce. Misuse either and they become fiends of destruction.

"Our physical evils result from our misuse of what is intended for good. Food is necessary, but overeat and you are ill. Not a native characteristic of human nature but in its proper use is good. Misuse it, and evil results. Evil, then, is the result of breaking natural law, of misusing natural forces.

"Why is evil, then, in the world? First, because men are ignorant. They do not know how to use properly the forces of the universe and life. The major part of the world's suffering is due to ignorant use of forces which, properly used, bless mankind.

"Greed is another reason for the misuse of things good. Industry, commerce, properly and unselfishly conducted, bless men, contribute to their happiness. Controlled by greed, they become instruments of robbery, of injustice, and suffering.

"The devil against which the modern church must needs fight is ignorance, greed, selfishness. How much time has the forces of modern Christianity wasted in theological discussions. Let the modern church and ministry become interested in this world, and let the next world take care of itself. Let them have the courage, if need be, to point the finger at the rich pewholder who is getting his profits at the expense of the suffering of others and say: 'Thou art the man.' Let them paint the evils of Chicago a little more, and the pains of the future state a little less. Let them be ethical in their preaching and their practices."

GOVERNOR'S THREAT A TEXT.

Dr. George F. Hall Criticises Executive's Course in Threatening an Editor.

The course of Gov. Yates in threatening the editor of a weekly paper was criticised yesterday by Dr. George F. Hall in his sermon in Bush temple. After saying that the offending paragraph was a minor criticism and of little importance, the minister continued:

"Yet if the article had been ten times as insulting Richard Yates should have maintained his dignity. In playing the bluffer he has simply called the attention of the whole world to the facts. Of course, his personal friends, those who flutter like moths about the gubernatorial candle, applaud. But those not directly interested, and of a philosophical turn of mind, can hardly find anything worth commending in the governor's conduct. Of course, his love for his wife is beautiful. And had her character been attacked he would indeed have been censurable if he had not defended her. But under the circumstances he has raised a tempest in a teapot, and, in my judgment, proclaimed himself a weak man rather than a strong and courageous one.

"If it was so bad as he really thought, why didn't he shoot? Among cowboys on the western plains there is a rule that parties to a dispute must either 'shoot or give up the gun.' Is it possible that Gov. Yates lost his nerve when he saw his opponent's hand in his hip pocket?

"In conclusion, I wish to say that I think Richard Yates has allowed himself a play of temper not becoming to an executive. He has set a bad example to the young men of the country in acting the bravado, carrying a pistol, threatening to kill, etc. Admitting, for the sake of argument, that the provocation was great, it would have been braver, more gentlemanly, and more Christian for him to have dismissed the matter as unworthy of his attention."

TALKS OF MIDNIGHT CLOSING.

Wilson M. Backus Tells How the Church Can Have More Influence in City Affairs.

The request of the grand jury that saloons be closed at midnight was touched on in the sermon of the Rev. Wilson M. Backus yesterday in the Third Unitarian church.

"When all forms of law are violated by the highest as well as the lowest of our citizens with impunity we need not be surprised that violence prevails," said the minister. "The saloons in Chicago are open every Sunday in direct violation of the law, and are responsible for nine out of ten of all Sunday murders. The police cannot close these places because public sentiment is not in favor of it. Chief O'Neill pays the church a deserved compliment when he recognizes its police power. It is by the virtue it creates, rather than the might of the policeman's club, that society is able to maintain itself.

"Now the reason for the inefficiency of the church rests on the fact that those who ought to give their influence to the church to help create a healthy moral sentiment in our city refuse to do so. Teachers and persons of education lead thoroughly selfish lives. They imagine because they are wider read than their fathers that they are better, while the reverse is often true, for their fathers were duty loving.

"It is by the psychic power of good men uniting in good thoughts and high ideals that evils are conquered."

TALKS OF THE NEGRO PROBLEM.

M. M. Mangasarian Finds It Difficult to Reach the Truth of the Matter.

"It is difficult to get at the truth about the political worth of the negro to the nation," said M. M. Mangasarian yesterday in his lecture at the Grand opera house. "The north is inclined to exaggerate the progress which the black race has made since the emancipation proclamation; the south to underestimate it.

"To be entitled to the privileges of civilization, the negroe does not have to be as good as the white man. On the other hand, the interests of the white man should not be imperiled by any artificial patronage given to the negro.

"The negro will not be admitted into full fellowship, socially nor politically, until he shall deserve it. At present he does not deserve it, but in time he might. To impose negro rule upon any section of our country would be a retrogressive step; and yet a fair count of votes will make them the dominant power in not a few of the southern states.

"In a moment of national enthusiasm the ballot was thrust into the hand of the negro, but after these many years the negro has no more than the mere vocabulary of freedom. Even in the north his vote has no resistance to it, his politics no character."

TRUTH MUST BE LIVED OR LOST.

Dr. Polemus H. Swift Talks in Wesley Church on "Birds and Beasts of Satan."

Dr. Polemus H. Swift, pastor of the Wesley Methodist Episcopal church, last night discussed the theme "Birds and Beasts of Satan." He said:

"We are all familiar with failure and barrenness where success and golden harvests were expected. Children of godly parents grow up and go to the bad. Many churchgoers are without the fruits of godliness in their lives. There are many nominal Christians whose souls are barren of the fruits of the spirit. This parable of the sower reveals the secret of failure. The first cause of failure gives me the theme. The golden seed did not get into the soil.

"As with fields, so with souls. Truth is powerless unless it gets into the heart. Every surrender of a principle or virtue lessens the love and desire for that principle or virtue. Truth was never meant for an ornament. It was given to be lived. If you will not do the truth you hear on Sunday it will say good-by to you before the coming Saturday night."

FALSE FAITH GOOD IN PART.

Dr. William E. Barton Says No Belief Is the Worst Possible Condition.

"Is a false faith better than no faith? Is a religion of error better than no religion?" asked the Rev. William E. Barton yesterday in his sermon in Oak Park First Congregational church.

"It might be answered fairly," he continued, "that there are no absolutely false faiths, no wholly erroneous religions. In comparison with monotheism, all polytheism is debasing; but in comparison with godlessness, who shall affirm that it is always so? Who shall say of any people, however low their religion, that it is not better than the same people would be if left in atheism?

"But the world is treading hard on the heels of the gods of the past. The question for the Christian world is not whether it shall leave the old faith undisturbed, but whether in place of the old faith, which is sure to go, it will supply the fuller knowledge, the purer morality, the larger hope of the gospel."

HEAVEN AND HOW TO REACH IT.

Dr. John Merritte Driver Preaches to the People's Church on Eternity.

Dr. John Merritte Driver preached yesterday morning in the People's church, Handel hall, on "Heaven and How to Get There." He said in part:

"Our departed ones are in glory. We do not understand by this that they have reached eternity's highest pinnacle of beatific splendor. The scale of glory, even in this world, is always an ascending one. The awakened soul is at the daybreak; the converted soul is at the sunrise; the sanctified soul is at high noon on Easter Sunday. Each added grace, then, as the days go by, and the years go by, and the centuries go by, and the eternities ripen and richen, increases the measure of glory.

"Instead of weeping, then, when we think of our departed loved ones, let us rather rejoice, remembering that they are with Moses and Elijah and all the saints made perfect."

Two Chicago Graduates Appointed.

Neven M. Fenneman, who received a doctor's degree at the University of Chicago in 1902, has been called to a chair in the department of geology at the University of Wisconsin. During the last year he has been professor of geology in the University of Colorado. Frederic W. Sanders, another Ph. D. of the Chicago university, has been appointed to a professorship in the department of economics and sociology in the Thomas S. Clarkson School of Technology at Potsdam, N. Y.

ONE REASON FOR THE CHILD LABOR PROBLEM.

—New York Herald.

A Story of the Flood

There was a cloud burst and the grocery store basement was partly flooded.

The grocerman sent the boy down to see if any damage had been done to the stock stored there.

15 minutes passed and the boy failed to return; 30 minutes and still no boy. Then the grocerman investigated.

He found the boy there all right, seated well above high water mark; a package of Uneeda Biscuit in his hand; his mouth full of the contents.

"What in the name of common sense have you been doing down here all this time?" inquired the grocerman.

The boy looked up with a good natured grin; gulped once or twice; finally gained control of his speech and replied:

"Gee! I ain't found a spoiled package of Uneeda Biscuit yet. I've opened and tried all of this big pile here, and this is the last package. They're just as good and fresh as ever!"

MORAL.—A hungry boy will "spoil" more good, fresh Uneeda Biscuit than a cloud burst.

DR. PRICE'S TRYABITA FOOD

THE ONLY WHEAT FLAKE CELERY FOOD

Is more healthy and nutritious than broiled steak. Every man of science knows that there is twice as much nourishment in a pound of pre-digested wheat flake than in a pound of roast-beef, for more than half the beef is water. Wheat has all the elements of nutrition, and men can live on it alone. DR. PRICE'S TRYABITA FOOD is made of the whole product of the grain of wheat.

SERVICES FOR THE PONTIFF HELD IN CHICAGO CHURCHES.

Roman Catholics All Over the City Assemble in Reverence for Pope Leo—Big Meeting Downtown.

Services commemorative of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the elevation of Leo XIII. to the pontificate were held in every Roman Catholic church in Chicago yesterday. High mass was sung at 11 in the morning, followed by special services, and in many churches there were services in the evening. The picture of the venerable pontiff was conspicuously displayed in the houses of worship and the American flag was used in the decorations.

The largest general observance of the anniversary took place in the afternoon at McVicker's theater, where 3,000 members of the Polish Roman Catholic churches of the city attended the meeting. The program consisted of addresses in Polish by members of the clergy and laymen, an address in English by Bishop Muldoon, and music by a chorus composed of all the Polish church choirs of the city under the direction of Anthony Mark.

"Leo XIII., His Life and Work," was discussed by the Rev. Father Gulski of Milwaukee. Ald. John F. Smulski followed with a paper on "The Papacy and the Polish Nation," while Bishop Muldoon spoke on "One Church, One Head." The meeting closed with the Polish national hymn being sung by the audience.

A polyglot concert was held last evening at Assumption hall on East Erie street. The Rev. Thomas Moreschini presided.

Michigan Central Changes Time.

The Michigan Central Atlantic Express will be made (effective March 2) a fast train to Buffalo and New York, leaving Chicago 3:15 a. m. daily, instead of 11:30 p. m., as heretofore, carring drawing room sleepers to Detroit (arriving 10:30 a. m.), New York (arriving 7 a. m.), and Boston (arriving 8:46 a. m.).

The Detroit Night Express will continue to leave Chicago at 10 p. m., as heretofore, except on Saturday nights, when it will leave at 11:40 p. m. This train will carry the Grand Rapids coach and sleeper, which previously ran on train No. 36.

The Chicago and Detroit service has been improved by putting a drawing room sleeper on train No. 32, leaving Chicago 9:40 p. m., except Sunday, arriving Detroit 6:20 a. m. This train also carries coach between Detroit and Buffalo, arriving 2:40 p. m.

MANDEL BROTHERS STORE NEWS

The great March furniture sale begins today.

$100,000 worth of furniture for $60,000—that's the summary of the whole matter. Months ago when the furniture factories were dull we agreed to keep several of them running if they would accept orders on our own terms—today you'll find the sixth, seventh and ninth floors of our Wabash avenue building fairly overflowing with fine furniture, fresh from the factory, offered at practically 60 cents on the dollar.

At no other time of the year and in no other place can you buy fine furniture at such low prices—it's generally recognized as Chicago's most important furniture sale—an event which enables people to furnish their homes in elegance at a comparatively small expense.

Any piece of furniture bought here during this great March sale will be stored free of charge until the purchaser is ready for it.

We never lessen our standard.

There are a great many houses that go to extremes in order to acquire patronage. We do not believe in this. We've our fixed principles, and we'll not deviate one iota from them. For instance, we will not lessen the standard of our merchandise to gain a low price point. We'd rather have the reputation of being a little high, when it comes to prices, than have you be under the impression that we sell merchandise of an inferior quality. We want you to remember this store because of the excellence of our goods rather than because of our low prices. That's why we only sell merchandise that will stand the crucial test of time. It's the permanency of your patronage we look to rather than the profit on an immediate sale, and when we sell you anything that does not come up to our standard we'll experience a pleasure in refunding your money, providing the goods are returned in as good condition as when they left the store. It's these principles that make Mandel's a safe store at which to do your shopping.

Great March sale of Oriental rugs.

TODAY we inaugurate the greatest showing and sale of Oriental rugs ever attempted in this country, offering the contents of several large caravans, bought by our rug buyer last November on his regular purchasing tour in the Orient. Almost every known weave of Turkish, Persian, and India rug made is included, all at unprecedentedly low prices.

We also secured several great private collections of noted rug connoisseurs—the Italian Castella collection of rarest Garovans, Khorassans, and Persian rugs, the great Keverkoff collection of thick Kazaks and rarest Shirvan rugs, the celebrated Levi and Mussulam collection of large antique Kazaks, Gubbas and Cashmeres, and an almost priceless gathering of antique Persian rugs from the Oriental rug collection of Ali Eckber Aga.

1.75 for genuine Turkish doorway rugs, worth up to 7.50.

$5 for genuine Persian and Turkish rugs, sizes about 3x4 feet, worth to $12.

8.50 for Daghestan and Shirvan rugs, worth up to $15.

Thousands of Shirvans and Daghestans, worth double, in lots at $10, $12, 13.50, $15, $18, $22, and upwards.

$35 for genuine antique Fereghans, Khorassans, Garovans, etc., etc., sizes about 4x7, worth up to $100.

$35 and $50 for those much wanted Cashmere rugs for parlors, libraries and dining rooms, sizes about 7x10, worth up to $85.

$28 for native India rugs, about 6x9.

$35 for native India rugs, about 7x10.

$55 for native India rugs, about 9x12.

The finest collection in the world of Bokhara rugs, Kirman rugs, Tabriz rugs, Persian and Turkish silk rugs.

Shirvan Turkish Kis Kelims for couch covers and drapes—hundreds of them at from $22 up to $35.

Basement rug room—special—17.50 for 8.3x10.6 Axminster parlor rugs.

Semi-annual sale of Trefousse kid gloves.

THIS morning we start our great semi-annual sale of Trefousse kid gloves—the event which thousands of Chicago women plan to take advantage of every year in securing a season's supply. During this sale we sell the genuine Trefousse glove, for which we are exclusive Chicago agents, at practically Paris prices. Coming just a few weeks before Easter makes this sale especially important, for you can easily select your Easter gloves now and save a considerable sum.

The Trefousse is everywhere recognized as a standard of glove excellence—only the very best skins are used in its construction, and the cutting, sewing and shaping are the work of experts.

For this year's March sale we have imported an immense stock, including both glace and suede gloves. There are all colors and sizes in the lot—every pair first quality and fully guaranteed. Prices are as follows:

Women's Trefousse gloves—
1.65, 1.35, 1.15, $1 and 95c.

Men's Trefousse gloves—
$2, 1.65, 1.50 and $1.

We're also making a special offer on women's new spring gloves in connection with this great Trefousse sale. There are about 5,000 pairs, all just out of the custom house—two pearl clasp wrists, silk embroidered backs, in tan, mode, gray, red, brown, white and black, all perfect $1 gloves, at 59c per pair.

Economy basement: Odd lots of women's kid and mocha gloves—perfect $1 goods—at 50c.

2.50 black crepe de chine at 1.35.

RIGHT in the face of a rising silk market we negotiated a great purchase on such terms that we can offer you by far the lowest prices quoted anywhere on high-grade silk.

Silk bargains like these are bound to create a furore, so you'd better plan to come down early this morning before the crowds get here.

Pure silk imported crepe de chine, all double (44 inch) width—the same quality that retails everywhere else for 2.50 per yard—here today at 1.35.

27-inch black pongee, 850 yards, in the new rough finish—just now so desirable for its durability and style—a regular dollar silk for 68c.

New polka dot foulards at 42½c—black and white satin and navy and white and twilled foulards—all sizes from the smallest pin dot up—yard, 75c, 65c, 50c and 42½c.

Basement: 10,000 yards corded wash silks, 100 styles, all colors, at 25c.

Basement: $1 quality all-silk faille, light and dark shades, at 39c.

The new silk and lace waists.

WAIST fashions have a decided preference this year for the soft silks and laces. Our own showing is almost twice as large as ever before, and illustrates all the chic new ideas.

You'll find a rare variety of exclusive designs here at extraordinarily low prices.

A magnificent showing of crepe de chine, mousseline de soie, chiffon, peau de cygne, peau de soie, taffeta, China and India silk waists. This season's most up-to-date creations, with Cluny and Irish crochet lace trimming, briar stitching, Mexican drawn work, lace and Swiss embroidery medallions, etc. Beautiful waists at $5, 5.95, 6.95, 7.95, $10 and 14.95.

Stunning shirt waists in heavy, medium and sheer materials, dainty allover lace and embroidery waists, Irish linen and white mercerized waists—1.95, 2.75, 2.95 and up to 11.95.

Handsome silk petticoats—exclusive designs—changeable and solid colors, and a great variety of black and white and gray and white stripes—at 4.95, 6.95, 7.95 and 9.95.

Black silk moreen petticoats at 2.95, 3.50, 3.95, 4.25 up to 7.50.

Fast black sateen petticoats, every new style, at 2.95, 1.95, 1.75, 1.25 and 95c.

Sale of $7 sample shoes at 2.95.

WE start our spring shoe business this year with a great sale of $7 bench made sample shoes and oxfords at 2.95—thousands of pairs of new spring styles, together with a few of our regular lines.

2.95 The fact that these shoes are samples is a guarantee of the perfection of the materials and workmanship, for no maker would submit them to the critical inspection of the shoe trade if they were not the best that modern shoemaking skill can produce. 2.95

You know what these sample shoe sales have meant in the past—how eagerly the women of Chicago have responded to these opportunities to secure the finest bench-made footwear at less than half its real value. Well, this is the best sale of the kind we have ever had—all leathers, toes and heels, in one mammoth stock, at 2.95 per pair.

Basement: Clearance of women's 8-inch street boots at 1.25. Odd lots at $1.

An exceptional showing of new tailored suits and skirts.

THERE'S a style to these garments, a grace and tone that you'll only find in the very best man tailoring. The prices, though, are quite as low as you will find placed on commonplace creations turned out after some stereotyped model.

The new note of elaborateness is very conspicuous in this showing—girdles capes, stoles, etc., entering into the designs, while laces, ribbons, velvets, Persian bands, etc., are used freely as trimmings.

Cheviot blouse suit, made in collarless effect, trimmed with braid and satin bands, gored panel skirt lined with heavy silk drop skirt, at 19.75.
